Route of Missing Plane

Solid line shows route of missing U. S. military plane carrying diplomatic cargo and four crewmen. Hungarian and Romanian border guards fired on the craft as it passed near their borders en route from Erding to Belgrade. Broken line indicates possible route west from Zagreb where plane last was heard from. Pilot apparently became lost and followed Drava river instead of the Sava river from Ljubljana to Belgrade.

Hungary, Romania Declare U.S. Plane Crosses Borders

Craft Is Still Missing After Being Fired Upon by Guards Nov. 19

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Nov. 21 (AP)—Hungary and Romania complained officially today that a United States Army cargo plane—still missing after being fired on by the satellite border guards Monday—crossed over their territories illegally.

Notes were presented to the American missions in Budapest and Bucharest, even as U. S. planes prepared to search over Yugoslavia for the missing C-47 transport, which disappeared Monday with four crewmen and diplomatic cargo aboard.

The two Cominform countries maintain a tight control all along their borders with Yugoslavia.

Bids Referred To Building Group

Education Board Gets Price Above Fund Available

Bids for construction of a physical education building or "field house" at the high school were opened Monday evening after being advertised for the second time.

Following the first solicitation of bids it was found the bids exceeded the money available by a very great sum. Certain of the extras in the specifications were eliminated and bids were again sought.

Monday evening the total of the low bids for the job was $410,673.35. There is available the sum of $371,524. Since the bids exceeded the money available by such a large sum the board took no action but referred the bids to the Building Committee for study.

The low bidder for the general construction was Colonial Contractors with a bid of $304,850. Bids for plumbing, heating, electrical work and other jobs brought the total up to the $410,000 figure. In addition there is the usual architect's fee.

Travers Denies Report

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Travers denied at his police department trial yesterday that he ever received money from jailed bookie Harry Gross. Travers also testified he never had met Gross and had not known him to be a large-scale bookmaking operator. Travers is one of 29 suspended policemen on departmental trial on graft charges connected with the smashed $20,000,000-a-year bookmaking ring operated by Gross. Travers, 45, and the ranking officer among the accused, was the second defendant to take the stand in his own defense.

Man Is Killed

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—One man was shot to death and another seriously wounded today in what police termed a homicide and attempted suicide in an apartment at 300 East 83rd street at Second avenue. Police said the shooting climaxed a quarrel, one of a long series. The dead man was Allan J. Post, 55, who with his wife, Jennie, was a roomer in the apartment of Fred Rieger, 67. Rieger aimed an old revolver at himself and shot himself in the stomach, police said. He was taken to Beth David Hospital. Police said Mrs. Post is a sister of Rieger.

Plasma Strike Averted

Philadelphia, Nov. 21 (AP)—Ratification of a new contract by union chemical workers has averted a strike which threatened drastically to slow down the flow of blood plasma to the armed forces in Korea. Herbert Heath, president of Local 86, United Chemical Workers (CIO), said union members voted unanimously last night for the agreement with Sharp & Dohme, Philadelphia pharmaceutical firm. The agreement was perfected earlier in Washington during a 16-hour meeting with arbitrators.

No Freeman on Thanksgiving Day

Red Flannel Cold Is Reported in Area

The city engineer's office today reported an overnight low temperature of 19 degrees, but reports from mountain areas indicated the mercury was several points closer to zero.

A report from the Schoharie watershed near Prattsville said the overnight low was nine degrees above zero. It was reported as cold in the mountain areas of Ulster county, but in other sections the mercury stayed nearer to Kingston's 19 degrees.

It was the coldest day to date this season, but far from a November record. The lowest recorded at the city engineer's office for the month was five degrees in 1938.

Freezing weather prevailed throughout most of yesterday and the mercury reached 33 degrees only between 2 and 6 p. m. The overnight low Tuesday was 25 degrees.

The Weather Bureau predicted more cold for tonight. Temperatures were expected to range from 15 degrees in eastern New York to the middle-20s in the western section.

A flow of warm wind from Texas is expected to send the mercury up to the upper 30s and into the 40s tomorrow.

GOP Cites Corruption As Answer

Truman Makes Forecast of Smears in 1952 Campaign; Gabrielson Says U. S. Alarmed

Taft Gives 'Prize'

Says HST Wins Award for Effrontery in His Speech

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—President Truman, in a speech reminiscent of his 1948 "give 'em hell" style, declared last night that the Democrats won't take lying down the "lies and smears" he said he anticipates from Republicans and "special interests" in the 1952 presidential campaign.

Mr. Truman told an audience of party members here he thinks more money will be spent "in trying to defeat the Democratic party next year than has ever before been spent in any election in the history of the country."

This brought from Republicans reiteration of "corruption" charges. Mr. Truman did not mention in his speech any of the charges of wrongdoing which have been alleged against his administration.

His declaration that "the truth and the facts are on our side" brought a retort from Senator Robert A. Taft (R.-Ohio) that "President Truman should certainly get the prize for political effrontery" for his speech.

'Flash of Realism'

Guy Gabrielson, chairman of the Republican National Committee, said Mr. Truman had "a flash of realism" when he said "a mistake in a presidential election can cause the country untold harm."

"The reminder isn't necessary for millions of Americans," Gabrielson said. "They are disgusted and alarmed at the high taxes, high prices, corruption, crises and war of his incompetent administration. They won't make the mistake again."

Without naming the senator, Mr. Truman singled out Taft with the assertion that "special interests" had poured money into Ohio last year to reelect the Republican.

Taft, an avowed candidate for his party's presidential nomination, said in a statement in Cincinnati that "it is the Truman party which is the beneficiary of the money of special interests and of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money used for political propaganda. . . ."

"The head of an administration which has condoned communism, immorality and corruption and does not even bother to deny the proven charges, talks of the great moral position of his administration in the world," Taft continued.

Plunged U. S. Into War

"He talks of a bipartisan foreign policy, although he was the man who plunged the country into the Korean war without consulting either the Republicans or Congress."

Taft said the CIO and AFL had undertaken to raise $30,000,000 from union members "to purge all Republicans from Congress." He said Republicans legitimately spent money to meet this attack, adding:

"If Mr. Truman can ever receive 70,000 completely voluntary and unsolicited contributions of $1 each, as I did in 1950, his talk about special interests would not ring so false."

Mr. Truman returned today to Key West, Fla., to resume his interrupted vacation, outlined for his party at a banquet of the National Women's Democratic

Reds Offer Plan; Might Bring Truce

Hopes Are Brighter Now Is Report—Is Similar to UN Plan to Form Buffer Zone

Differences Found

Vague Phraseology Part of Communist Offer, Nuckols Says

Munsan, Korea, Nov. 21 (AP)—Truce hopes brightened today when Communist negotiators submitted a cease-fire plan that could open the way for a Korean armistice by Christmas.

It was similar to a United Nations plan for creating a buffer zone along the present fighting line to take effect if an armistice is signed within 30 days.

A UN command communique referred to the resemblance as superficial.

But the command's official spokesman, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, said if the Red plan "means what we think it means * * * then I think we are very close to solution" of the buffer zone question.

The point in doubt was whether the Communist proposal means "that troops will be withdrawn from the buffer zone after an armistice is signed" as the UN has proposed.

After the Communists submitted their counterproposal at Panmunjom at Wednesday's two-hour truce session, allied negotiators tried to determine whether the Reds contemplated an immediate or delayed withdrawal from a buffer zone to be created along the present front.

Will Present Revisions

At the close of the session Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodes, heading the UN subcommittee, told the Red delegates "we will present you with the necessary revisions to clear up this proposal" at Thursday's meeting. It is set for 11 a. m. (9 p. m. Wednesday EST).

At Panmunjom Nuckols said there were traces of fundamental differences between the allied and Red proposals. He said the Communist plan contained "rather ambiguous and vague phraseology." But at a later briefing for the press in Munsan he said:

"I am more optimistic than I have been for some time past.

"The basic point at issue is when the buffer zone will be cleared of troops."

100,000th American Is Korean Casualty

Figures Are 2 Weeks Off Line Action

Sixteen Months' Fighting Is Recorded—10,800 Reported Missing in Battle

Families Notified

Ridgway Says Families Told of Atrocity Acts on 254 Victims

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP) — Announced U. S. battle casualties in Korea reached 100,176 today.

The Defense Department's weekly summary, reporting an increase of 950 since last week, sent the total over the 100,000 mark. By comparison, U. S. combat casualties in the first year of this country's participation in World War 2 were 59,000.

Of the 950 new battle casualties reported today, 150 were killed outright in action; 762 were wounded, and 38 are missing.

Report Is Made

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The 100,000th American has been killed or wounded or is missing in Korea.

This mark is recorded and passed in the Defense Department's weekly summary of combat casualties due to be issued today. Since this official report now runs about two weeks behind the battle action, it covers 16 months of fighting.

On Nov. 9 the army estimated total enemy casualties in Korea through Oct. 31 at 1,442,844.

The summary said the latest total of United Nations casualties was 313,711.

American families have been told of some 22,000 casualties among their men since Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway first offered to talk about an armistice on June 30.

Most Since Chinese Entry

About seven out of every 10 American battle losses have been suffered since the Chinese Reds poured across the Manchurian border into the then virtually-won Korean battlefield a little more than one year ago.

The 70,000 U. S. casualties reported since the Chinese entered the war include nearly 8,000 of the 12,500 Americans listed at one time or another as missing in action. This missing figure has been reduced to a current total of around 10,800. Among these are the some 5,500 Americans reported by Col. James M. Hanley, chief of the war crimes section of the U. S. 8th Army in Korea, to have been killed by their captors.

'Considerable Evidence'

General Ridgway said in a report yesterday there was "considerable evidence" that approximately 6,000 U. S. soldiers captured by the Communists were victims of "death by atrocity." He said there was no "conclusive evidence" of the number of atrocity deaths, and that 254 victims had been identified and their families notified. Most of the 6,000 who, the general said, may have been atrocity victims, are included in the current missing category, his report stated.

Approximately half of all U. S. casualties in Korea have occurred since the bitter retreats and rear guard withdrawals of last winter and during the series of Red spring offensives and UN counter blows which have moved the battle line back to the center of Korea.

For the army and the navy, the Korean conflict has been the fourth costliest in U. S. history, ranking in human casualties after World War II, the Civil War and the First World War.

Head of Delegation Assails Plan as Failing in Chief Issue for World

Paris, Nov. 21 (AP)—Czechoslovakia gave the United Nations today the first Soviet bloc reply to the western disarmament proposals—a mild, generalized statement that the plan was not acceptable because it does not call for immediate prohibition of atomic weapons.

Mrs. Williams Says Statements Are True

Testifies to Events at Residence of Mrs. McHugh, Sister

Mrs. Gladys M. Williams, sister of Mrs. Eloise McHugh, took the witness stand in County Court as a surprise witness this morning and testified that she had been in the court room on Tuesday and heard the testimony of Edward H. Kelly, who is being tried for the murder of Mrs. McHugh.

So far as his testimony concerning things which happened at the McHugh house in her presence, she said was the truth.

The testimony of Mrs. Williams was objected to by District Attorney Bruhn on the grounds that she had been present in court during the trial and that other witnesses who were to be called to testify had been excluded from the court room.

Judge Cashin permitted her to testify.

Whitman Knapp, counsel for defendant, stated that he had spoken to her as she left the court room in company with her father Tuesday noon, and asked her whether she would testify to a statement she had made in answer to a question put to her. She replied she would think it over, and later indicated a willingness to testify.

No Untrue Statements

Knapp then asked her if Kelly had made any untrue statements on the stand in relation to anything she had witnessed or heard in the McHugh home. She replied that he had made no untrue statements in regard to those times.

There was no cross-examination. Kelly resumed the stand today

Doors to the municipal auditorium will open tonight at 7:15 for the 15th annual Thanksgiving Eve Ball sponsored by Congregation Ahavath Israel.

Entertainment will begin with an overture at 8:30 p. m. and will be followed by an outstanding array of stars, including Abbe Lane, The Barrancos, Dulcina, El Gringo, Otto Bolivar, George Lopez, Billy Graves & Co., Richard Monti, De Santos trio, Harvey Stone, and Stan Irwin.

Music for dancing until 1:30 a. m. will be played by Xavier Cugat and his nationally-famed orchestra.

Boy's Parents Make Hard Decision, He's To Die of Cancer

Alameda, Calif., Nov. 21 (AP)—The distraught parents of three-year-old Rodney Gale have made a heart-breaking decision—to let him die of cancer as soon as possible.

It was one of the toughest decisions a parent could be called upon to make.

A hospital doctor told Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Gale that a nitrogen-mustard compound might keep the spark of life alive in Rodney's pain-wracked body for two or three months more.

"We thought about it for a long time," said 29-year-old Mrs. Bonnie Gale last night.

"Then we decided against it. It would only prolong Rodney's mis-

There'll Be Thanksgiving in Korea

M/Sgt. Charles Allison has just proved that this shipment to the port of Pusan is not mislabeled by climbing into the big net full of boxed turkeys that have been shipped to Korea. They will be the main item of the combat forces' Thanksgiving dinner. (U. S. Army Photo via AP Wirephoto).

But With Sweet Potatoes

Central Front, Korea, Nov. 21 (AP)—The traditional pumpkin pies will be made with sweet potatoes.

The holiday wine will be cans of 3.2 beer.

Battered mess kits will substitute for gleaming silver service and spotless china.

With those exceptions, many American soldiers on this front are going to have a real Thanksgiving dinner Thursday—young tom turkey and all the trimmings.

The baker, Sgt. Charles Effinger, St. Louis, knew he wasn't going to find any pumpkins. So he planned on sweet potato filling.

Mess Sergeant 1/c Robert Couch of Jackson, Ky., is preparing a menu of stuffed celery hearts, olives, shrimp cocktail, buttered peas and corn, candied yams, turkey, hot rolls, mince pie, fruit cake and fruits.

The big trouble, the soldiers agree, is going to be heaping all that food on one mess kit.

Anastasia Scoffs at Report, Says Committee Full of Hooey

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Daily News said today that Albert Anastasia, reputed one-time boss killer, scoffed at a report that he has been ordered to get out of town or face underworld execution.

"The story is completely fantastic," the News quoted the alleged former "lord high executioner" for the Murder, Inc., mob in Brooklyn as saying.

"There isn't a grain of truth in it. Only a degenerate could conceive such a story," Anastasia was quoted.

The report of threatened gangland execution came yesterday from the New York City Anti-Crime Committee, a citizens group.

Underworld big shots granted Anastasia a reprieve from death on condition he get out of this area, the committee said.

The waterfront character, the report added, had been accused of working a "double-cross" with racketeer Willie Moretti, slain last month in New Jersey. The nature of the "double-cross" was not specified by the committee.

The Daily News said Anastasia, 45-year-old resident of Fort Lee, N. J., told the paper:

"Only a degenerate who doesn't understand a man's love for his family could make up such a story.

"I'm going to stay here.

"The committee is full of hooey. I don't care what they do to me. But there's my little children and my poor wife. God will take care of those people who talk like that."

The committee said Anastasia and Moretti were marked for death together by the underworld high command. Bullets cut down Moretti in a Cliffside Park, N. J., restaurant on Oct. 4.

The report continued that Anastasia apparently was tipped off and failed to appear at the restaurant to meet the same fate. After Moretti's death, the committee said, gangland made another attempt on Anastasia's life but he fled, and later was granted a reprieve.

The committee did not announce the source of its information.

Administration May Seek Special Help for France

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP) — An urgent request from France for fast dollar assistance from the U. S. today heightened the possibility that the administration may ask Congress early next year for a special foreign aid appropriation.

Britain is in about the same economic plight as France. In fact, almost all this country's European allies were described by authorities as requiring considerable help to maintain their defense production and their scheduled contributions to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's western European military force.

Officials told newsmen that within the next few days the U. S. government will probably make a final decision on how much help the French need. Estimates range from $200,000,000 to $400,000,000. That would be direct assistance aside from the dollars the French may earn from American troops stationed in their country and from American expenditures for military installations there.

France has told the United States, according to these informed sources, who may not be named, that its anticipated dollar earnings are such that it will have to cut imports and reduce its defense operations unless special help is forthcoming promptly.

Congress this fall voted a mutual security appropriation totaling $7,328,000,000. While the great bulk of that was set aside for the purchase of military equipment to be furnished to America's allies over the world, $1,022,000,000 was earmarked for economic aid—primarily for western Europe.

Officials said certain required expenditures out of this economic aid fund leave a net amount for distribution among U. S. allies in Europe of $950,000,000.

Congress also specified that up to ten per cent of the military equipment funds might be diverted to economic aid, a net of about $580,000,000.

The $1,022,000,000 voted for economic assistance was almost $700,000,000 less than the administration had asked. Officials described that as one of their big difficulties.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The position of the Treasury Nov. 19: Net budget receipts, $136,449,743.17; budget expenditures, $242,308,357.09; cash balance, $4,084,223,944.29; customs receipts for month, $24,459,920.07; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $16,977,738,462.29; budget expenditures, $23,374,891,643.85; budget deficit, $6,397,153,181.56; total debt, $258,152,157,116.55; increase over previous day, $44,570,221.14; gold assets, $22,332,703,684.80.

Of the 950 new battle casualties reported today, 150 were killed outright in action; 762 were wounded, and 38 are missing.

Report Is Made

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The 100,000th American has been killed or wounded or is missing in Korea.

This mark is recorded and passed in the Defense Department's weekly summary of combat casualties due to be issued today. Since this official report now runs about two weeks behind the battle action, it covers 16 months of fighting.

On Nov. 9 the army estimated total enemy casualties in Korea through Oct. 31 at 1,442,844.

The summary said the latest total of United Nations casualties was 313,711.

American families have been told of some 22,000 casualties among their men since Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway first offered to talk about an armistice on June 30.

Most Since Chinese Entry

About seven out of every 10 American battle losses have been suffered since the Chinese Reds poured across the Manchurian border into the then virtually-won Korean battlefield a little more than one year ago.

The 70,000 U. S. casualties reported since the Chinese entered the war include nearly 8,000 of the 12,500 Americans listed at one time or another as missing in action. This missing figure has been reduced to a current total of around 10,800. Among these are the some 5,500 Americans reported by Col. James M. Hanley, chief of the war crimes section of the U. S. 8th Army in Korea, to have been killed by their captors.

'Considerable Evidence'

General Ridgway said in a report yesterday there was "considerable evidence" that approximately 6,000 U. S. soldiers captured by the Communists were victims of "death by atrocity." He said there was no "conclusive evidence" of the number of atrocity deaths, and that 254 victims had been identified and their families notified. Most of the 6,000 who, the general said, may have been atrocity victims, are included in the current missing category, his report stated.

Approximately half of all U. S. casualties in Korea have occurred since the bitter retreats and rear guard withdrawals of last winter and during the series of Red spring offensives and UN counter blows which have moved the battle line back to the center of Korea.

For the army and the navy, the Korean conflict has been the fourth costliest in U. S. history, ranking in human casualties after World War II, the Civil War and the First World War.

Czech Says Acheson Proposal Lacks Ban on Atom Items

Head of Delegation Assails Plan as Failing in Chief Issue for World

Paris, Nov. 21 (AP)—Czechoslovakia gave the United Nations today the first Soviet bloc reply to the western disarmament proposals—a mild, generalized statement that the plan was not acceptable because it does not call for immediate prohibition of atomic weapons.

There was no hint when Russia's Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky would take the floor in the UN assembly's political committee to reply to U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson's outline of the plan. Vishinsky sat atten-

Mrs. Williams Says Statements Are True

Testifies to Events at Residence of Mrs. McHugh, Sister

Mrs. Gladys M. Williams, sister of Mrs. Eloise McHugh, took the witness stand in County Court as a surprise witness this morning and testified that she had been in the court room on Tuesday and heard the testimony of Edward H. Kelly, who is being tried for the murder of Mrs. McHugh.

So far as his testimony concerning things which happened at the McHugh house in her presence, she said was the truth.

The testimony of Mrs. Williams was objected to by District Attorney Bruhn on the grounds that she had been present in court during the trial and that other witnesses who were to be called to testify had been excluded from the court room.

Judge Cashin permitted her to testify.

Whitman Knapp, counsel for defendant, stated that he had spoken to her as she left the court room in company with her father Tuesday noon, and asked her whether she would testify to a statement she had made in answer to a question put to her. She replied she would think it over, and later indicated a willingness to testify.

No Untrue Statements

Knapp then asked her if Kelly had made any untrue statements on the stand in relation to anything she had witnessed or heard in the McHugh home. She replied that he had made no untrue statements in regard to those times.

There was no cross-examination.

Kelly resumed the stand today

Boy's Parents Make Hard Decision, He's To Die of Cancer

Alameda, Calif., Nov. 21 (AP)—The distraught parents of three-year-old Rodney Gale have made a heart-breaking decision—to let him die of cancer as soon as possible.

It was one of the toughest decisions a parent could be called upon to make.

A hospital doctor told Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Gale that a nitrogen-mustard compound might keep the spark of life alive in Rodney's pain-wracked body for two or three months more.

"We thought about it for a long time," said 29-year-old Mrs. Bonnie Gale last night.

"Then we decided against it. It would only prolong Rodney's mis-

There'll Be Thanksgiving in Korea

M/Sgt. Charles Allison has just proved that this shipment to the port of Pusan is not mislabeled by climbing into the big net full of boxed turkeys that have been shipped to Korea. They will be the main item of the combat forces' Thanksgiving dinner. (U. S. Army Photo via AP Wirephoto).

But With Sweet Potatoes

Central Front, Korea, Nov. 21 (AP)—The traditional pumpkin pies will be made with sweet potatoes.

The holiday wine will be cans of 3.2 beer.

Battered mess kits will substitute for gleaming silver service and spotless china.

With those exceptions, many American soldiers on this front are going to have a real Thanksgiving dinner Thursday—young tom turkey and all the trimmings.

The baker, Sgt. Charles Effinger, St. Louis, knew he wasn't going to find any pumpkins. So he planned on sweet potato filling.

Mess Sergeant 1/c Robert Couch of Jackson, Ky., is preparing a menu of stuffed celery hearts, olives, shrimp cocktail, buttered peas and corn, candied yams, turkey, hot rolls, mince pie, fruit cake and fruits.

The big trouble, the soldiers agree, is going to be heaping all that food on one mess kit.

Anastasia Scoffs at Report, Says Committee Full of Hooey

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Daily News said today that Albert Anastasia, reputed one-time boss killer, scoffed at a report that he has been ordered to get out of town or face underworld execution.

"The story is completely fantastic," the News quoted the alleged former "lord high executioner" for the Murder, Inc., mob in Brooklyn as saying.

"There isn't a grain of truth in it. Only a degenerate could conceive such a story," Anastasia was quoted.

The report of threatened gangland execution came yesterday from the New York City Anti-Crime Committee, a citizens group.

Underworld big shots granted Anastasia a reprieve from death on condition he get out of this area, the committee said.

The waterfront character, the report added, had been accused of working a "double-cross" with racketeer Willie Moretti, slain last month in New Jersey. The nature of the "double-cross" was not specified by the committee.

The Daily News said Anastasia, 45-year-old resident of Fort Lee, N. J., told the paper:

"Only a degenerate who doesn't understand a man's love for his family could make up such a story.

"I'm going to stay here.

"The committee is full of hooey. I don't care what they do to me. But there's my little children and my poor wife. God will take care of those people who talk like that."

The committee said Anastasia and Moretti were marked for death together by the underworld high command. Bullets cut down Moretti in a Cliffside Park, N. J., restaurant on Oct. 4.

The report continued that Anastasia apparently was tipped off and failed to appear at the restaurant to meet the same fate. After Moretti's death, the committee said, gangland made another attempt on Anastasia's life but he fled, and later was granted a reprieve.

The committee did not announce the source of its information.

Administration May Seek Special Help for France

Washington, Nov. 27 (AP)—An urgent request from France for fast dollar assistance from the U. S. today heightened the possibility that the administration may ask Congress early next year for a special foreign aid appropriation.

Britain is in about the same economic plight as France. In fact, almost all this country's European allies were described by authorities as requiring considerable help to maintain their defense production and their scheduled contributions to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's western European military force.

Officials told newsmen that within the next few days the U. S. government will probably make a final decision on how much help the French need. Estimates range from $200,000,000 to $400,000,000. That would be direct assistance aside from the dollars the French may earn from American troops stationed in their country and from American expenditures for military installations there.

France has told the United States, according to these informed sources, who may not be named, that its anticipated dollar earnings are such that it will have to cut imports and reduce its defense operations unless special help is forthcoming promptly.

Congress this fall voted a mutual security appropriation totalling $7,328,000,000. While the great bulk of that was set aside for the purchase of military equipment to be furnished to America's allies over the world, $1,022,000,000 was earmarked for economic aid—primarily for western Europe.

Officials said certain required expenditures out of this economic aid fund leave a net amount for distribution among U. S. allies in Europe of $950,000,000.

Congress also specified that up to ten per cent of the military equipment funds might be diverted to economic aid, a net of about $580,000,000.

The $1,022,000,000 voted for economic assistance was almost $700,000,000 less than the administration had asked. Officials described that as one of their big difficulties.

Synthetic Milk May Pep Up Pigs

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 21 (AP)—America's little pigs may be hastened to market with a new synthetic milk and summoned to meals with phonograph records of sows's grunts.

Herbert G. Luther, research scientist with Chas. Pfizer & Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., said that piglets fed the new concoction weighed 10 to 35 pounds more than normally-suckled ones in an eight-week period. He spoke at the animal nutrition symposium at the University of Minnesota farm last night.

Trade named Terralac, the synthetic contains terramycin, an antibiotic that stimulates growth, dry skim milk, lard to supply fats, gsh oils and tiny amounts of vitamins and minerals. Except for the fish oil, it tastes like heavy milk, Luther reported. It looks like pie crust mix.

More piglets can be produced with it, Luther said, promising more and maybe cheaper pork chops and bacon.

He said successful tests have been run on 500 pigs in a Brooklyn laboratory and 3,000 more on large farms. The cost is set at 35 to 40 cents a pound, with the animals using 12 pounds apiece before weaning.

Normally sleepy critters, pigs are usually awakened by the sow's grunting. Luther put the grunts on records which were played every hour on the hour at feeding time.

May Go to Moscow

President Truman said, Nov. 20, that George F. Kennan (above), former head of the State Department's policy planning staff, is being considered for the post of ambassador to Russia. If appointed, Kennan would succeed Ambassador Alan G. Kirk who reportedly wishes to give up the post.

Approximately 18,000 pounds of of raw materials are required to produce one ton of aluminum.

Unusual Hebrew Rite Used to Unite Couple

Providence, R. I., Nov. 21 (AP)—The 19-year-old daughter of an Orthodox rabbi was married last night to a New York theological student in an unusual Hebrew ceremony that dates back more than 2,000 years.

The bride, Ruth Werner, daughter of Rabbi David Werner, and the groom, Shmuel Lichtenstein, 22, had not seen each other for three weeks before the ceremony, when he placed a veil over her head.

During the ceremony, the bride walked around the groom seven times and after they walked down the aisle together, an elderly guest of honor broke a large doughnut-shaped cake over their heads.

Rabbi Werner is the last of an unbroken line of rabbis going back more than 30 generations. His only son, Abraham, quit a New York rabbinical school two years ago to enlist in the army.

Elements of the wedding ceremony were of such old tradition that even Talmudic authorities present said their symbolism was lost in antiquity.

Actress Will Wed

Hollywood, Nov. 21 (AP)—Actress Marie Wilson will wed television producer Robert Fallon Dec. 14 in Santa Barbara, Calif. It will be the first marriage for Fallon, 31, who is from Memphis, Tenn. Miss Wilson, 35, was divorced from actor Allan Nixon last Dec. 29 after eight years of marriage. Announcing the marriage yesterday, Miss Wilson said they plan to honeymoon in Carmel, Calif.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 21 (AP)—The 19-year-old daughter of an Orthodox rabbi was married last night to a New York theological student in an unusual Hebrew ceremony that dates back more than 2,000 years.

The bride, Ruth Werner, daughter of Rabbi David Werner, and the groom, Shmuel Lichtenstein, 22, had not seen each other for three weeks before the ceremony, when he placed a veil over her head.

During the ceremony, the bride walked around the groom seven times and after they walked down the aisle together, an elderly guest of honor broke a large doughnut-shaped cake over their heads.

Rabbi Werner is the last of an unbroken line of rabbis going back more than 30 generations. His only son, Abraham, quit a New York rabbinical school two years ago to enlist in the army.

Elements of the wedding ceremony were of such old tradition that even Talmudic authorities present said their symbolism was lost in antiquity.

Actress Will Wed

Hollywood, Nov. 21 (AP)—Actress Marie Wilson will wed television producer Robert Fallon Dec. 14 in Santa Barbara, Calif. It will be the first marriage for Fallon, 31, who is from Memphis, Tenn. Miss Wilson, 35, was divorced from actor Allan Nixon last Dec. 29 after eight years of marriage. Announcing the marriage yesterday, Miss Wilson said they plan to honeymoon in Carmel, Calif.

Baker Appointed To Zoning Board

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today announced the appointment of Fred J. Baker, 33 Montrepose avenue, as a member of the city zoning board to succeed the late Stanley A. Dempsey.

Baker's term as supervisor of the eighth ward will expire next month. His term on the zoning board will last to August 21, 1954.

Dairy Company Sues

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Charging a conspiracy among dairy companies, company executives Nassau county officials to prevent issuance of a Nassau county health permit, the Dellwood Dairy Co., Inc., of 170 Saw Mill River Road, Yonkers, filed suit yesterday in federal court under the anti-trust laws. Treble damages of $300,000 were asked.

Flood Covers Big Area

Paris, Nov. 21 (AP)—Flood waters covered streets and highways in several towns of southeastern France today. Rains continued to swell the Rhone, Saone and Loire rivers. One person was drowned and much livestock was killed. Boats were to be used to supply food to several towns in the flooded area.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 21, 1951

There will be no edition of the Kingston Daily Freeman on Thursday, November 22 in observance of the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

THANKSGIVING DAY

In these times many men find much to decry and deplore in American life. And any fair scanning of the national horizon must produce proof that the laments are largely justified.

Yet we may be profoundly thankful for one thing. The nation's elemental character is untarnished. Its devotions have not lost their fire. Human dignity and freedom, individual integrity and resourceful accomplishment are still revered.

Were it not so, would anyone rise to decry and deplore?

The year 1951 has unfolded more than one unhappy chapter in the American story. Moral laxity has shown itself all too common in quarters as varied as the government council room, the sports arena, the home.

Fundamentals of freedom have been put in jeopardy by people who say they are defending liberty.

In the crisis of limited war and threat of wider war, groups in our society have chosen not to submerge traditional jealousies and conflicts in a common cause, but to lift them up. Here and there the special interest has been glorified as the national interest—by men of narrow view.

Nevertheless, the great, wholesome, heartening fact is that none of this has been allowed to occur without stirring protest. A mantle of indifference has cloaked some of us—but never all. The nation's conscience has yielded neither its identity nor its vigor.

Every important digression from service to American ideals has been duly charted. Above all the confusions, the failures, and the twisted notions, our real goals have been held high.

On this Thanksgiving Day, our gratitude should go to those who keep our dream of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness a vivid promise. Americans have demonstrated well that some among them will always speak when there is a tampering with freedom, a lapse from moral grace, a slackness in resourceful effort, a too great focus on selfish ends.

We can be thankful that this core of America is still secure. It is our assurance that, come what may, tomorrow is a day we can look to with hope in our hearts.

TENSION AT THE WHEEL

A new word to describe the condition of a motorist after driving for a few hours is suggested by L. S. Harris, executive secretary of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators. His suggested word is "tenigue," which presumably would rhyme with fatigue, one of the elements of its meaning. Highway safety experts have concluded that driving in present-day traffic induces a pernicious combination of tension and fatigue. The driver's coordination between hand and eye becomes less accurate, his hand unsteady, and observation and reactions are slower. Given a new word to denote this combination, perhaps motorists would be more aware of it.

Remedy, up to a certain point, is to be found in more frequent stops to stretch the legs and take refreshment. When such a temporary halt fails to bring relaxation, it is time to pull off the road for a longer rest, preferably a night's sleep. Next day the body and mind can start afresh, and the driver will possess his normal skill. Adoption of these two simple measures might substantially reduce the number of accidents.

OLD FAITHFUL

In the shifting sands of a troubled 1951, what leaves a permanent imprint, what can we count upon as unchanging?

Not many things, that is certain. So it is with considerable comfort that we pick up the papers these days and spot pictures of President Truman enjoying himself at Key West. There he is, wearing those same sloppy caps and outlandish sports shirts.

Yes, the world may be in flux, but Harry Truman's taste in warm-weather attire is a veritable Gibraltar.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THANKSGIVING 1951

The pause that comes with any holiday can, with advantage, be a moment for self-examination. Thanksgiving Day, in particular, lends itself to that purpose. Otherwise, each day is like the day before, a rhythmic motion from darkness to light and then to darkness again—and nothing more.

Our Thanksgiving holiday is strictly American. It is unrelated to politics, as is the Fourth of July, or to a religious order, as is Easter. It exists by presidential proclamation. Yet, few documents ordering the event grasp at its essential purpose. The noblest of these proclamations was Abraham Lincoln's on March 30, 1863, in which he said:

"Whereas it is the duty of nations as well as of men to own their dependence upon the overruling power of God, to confess their sins and transgressions in humble sorrow, yet with assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon, and to recognize the sublime truth, announced in the Holy Scriptures and proven by all history, that those nations only are blessed whose God is the Lord; . . .

". . . We have been the recipients of the choicest bounties of heaven; we have been preserved these many years in peace and prosperity; we have grown in numbers, wealth, and power as no other nation has even grown. But we have forgotten God. We have forgotten the gracious hand which preserved us in peace and multiplied and enriched and strengthened us, and we have vainly imagined, in the deceitfulness of our hearts, that all these blessings were produced by some superior wisdom and virtue of our own. Intoxicated with unbroken success, we have become too self-sufficient to feel the necessity of redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to the God that made us."

This Thanksgiving proclamation, in nobility of expression, in depth of sentiment, in understanding of the religious motivation of our civilization is as magnificent as the Gettysburg Address. It is a demonstrable fact in history that no civilization has blossomed or long existed, the roots of which are not deep in religious belief and experience.

To assume that Thanksgiving Day is a pause from work, accompanied by the feast of the turkey and pumpkin pie, is to give to Bacchus a day dedicated to God.

There was a time in our land when such a festival was inaugurated with prayer at the family table, when children were taught to realize that the richness of our lives comes from God. Today, too many children must assume that it comes from the breaks that father got, or from the bounty of government, or from the politicians who have set themselves up as feudal lords mailing government checks to their beneficiaries.

Men who thank God for their bread are independent of other men. They raise their eyes heavenward and know the truth. They do not live in fear of man, or government, or power. They know that all men are created to be equal in the eyes of the Lord and when they have returned to that permanent state in which dust is dust, only that remains of them which is eternal, the soul, the holy spirit that is life.

In these troubled times, the thought must come to many; what have I to be thankful for?

Surely, it cannot be for wealth, for automobiles and electric refrigerators and television sets. For if we had none of these, there still would be much to be thankful for.

We need to be thankful for life itself.

We need to be thankful that our lovely land has not been invaded by a foreign foe, that our cities have not been devastated, that our infants have not been slaughtered by the savagery of wild races emerging to power.

We need to be thankful that, for most of us, sons outlive their fathers, and in those homes that are tortured by the nearness of war tragedy, they know that none take lightly their misfortunes and that we join in their sorrows as though they were our own.

We need to be thankful that we have been chosen from among the nations to lead mankind to a peaceful world. Recognizing our own weaknesses and the frailties of those who lead us, we fear the weight of such responsibilities and humbly pray that we may not do more harm than good. But we know that whatever we do is in kindliness and not to harm, to conquer, to enslave.

May God bless this day of thanksgiving.

That Body of Yours

PREVENTION OF HEART DISEASE

For several years I wrote frequently about the liver and gall bladder because the liver does more different jobs than any other organ. An active liver and gall bladder means better health and buoyancy of spirits whereas a sluggish liver and gall bladder makes one "yellow" physically and emotionally. By keeping the body reasonaby active and not eating too much fat and starch foods, the liver and gall bladder are kept in good working conditions.

Today I write more often about the heart and blood pressure, because heart and blood vessel diseases cause more deaths than any other disease. In the American Heart, the bulletin of the American Heart Association, we read that more persons die from hardening of the arteries (high blood pressure) than any other single cause. Coronary heart disease, a disease of the blood vessels carrying blood to the heart muscle itself, is the narrowing and blocking of one of these vessels. And the number of these deaths seems to be increasing: first, because more people live longer and, second, because this form of heart disease is recognized more often. Coronary heart disease occurs more often in men and at the most important period of the life span—middle age or younger.

In 97 per cent of cases, coronary disease is due to a hardening change in the inner wall of the blood vessel which so narrows the vessel that it takes much more pressure to push blood through. Sometimes a branch blood vessel breaks and for a time a part of the heart is short of nourishment. By resting a month or more, the vessel heals or small adjoining vessels make up blood needed. In other cases a small piece of this hardened lining breaks off and cuts off circulation of blood elsewhere.

Hardening of the arteries (arteriosclerosis) cannot be controlled as can some diseases, so what can be done about delaying or preventing deaths from high blood pressure?

The first suggestion is that obesity (overweight) be prevented. Overweight puts an added strain on the heart and blood vessels; a reduction of 20 to 30 pounds which if maintained, may reduce blood pressure by 20 to 30 points. While weight is being produced, drugs that relax the whole body, relax the blood vessels and prevent emotional disturbances from raising the blood pressure are used.

Lately the use of drugs to keep the blood in a more fluid state prevents clotting, thus preventing obstruction of blood vessels.

By careful medical supervision and prevention of obesity, many with heart disease live the allotted span.

Thanksgiving Dinner Guests in Every Home

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington. — At a relaxed Washington dinner at the Carlton Hotel recently, Sen. Robert Taft cheerfully bragged to close friends that his delegate strength was "way over 600 and going up."

The senator had just come from a month of political bush-beating and a press conference where he was heckled for almost an hour. In high good humor, however, he told top aides Jack Martin and Lou Guylay: "This has been the most productive political month in my career. Everywhere I've been in the midwest and south we are gaining strength. If the convention was today, I would get the nomination on the first ballot."

Guylay supplemented this by giving details on a Taft managers' report placing delegate strength at an all-time high of 600 — enough to win on the first roll call. (At the 1948 convention, Taft never hit 300 votes).

Senator Taft listened, beamed, but commented: "After this trip, I would say our strength is way over 600 and still going up."

Taft's Line-up

Reason for the optimism are the following reports sent in by Taft managers: Three midget states which turned their backs in 1948 — Indiana, Kentucky and Wisconsin — are now on the Taft team . . . . In Indiana, a Dewey state three years ago, National Committeeman Ralph Gates, the former governor; Ex-Sen. Ray Willis, and 68 GOP members of the state legislature are on record for Taft . . . In Kentucky, National Committeeman Jouett Ross Todd, a Dewey man in 1948, is actively pushing Taft . . . . In Wisconsin, Republican Boss Tom Coleman is lining up delegates. Coleman is Sen. Joe McCarthy's friend . . . In Illinois, Sen. Everett Dirksen has dropped "favorite son" ambitions to be Taft's manager. This means Illinois' 60 votes will probably go for Taft on the first ballot . . . . In Pennsylvania, the three top-ranking GOP organization leaders were photographed with Taft at Harrisburg — State Chairman Harvey Taylor, National Committeeman Mason Owlett, and Sen. Edward Martin. The other Pennsylvania senator, rugged, independent Jim Duff, is Eisenhower's biggest booster.

New England Trends

The same story of organization politicos, deserting the Eisenhower campaign to line up with Taft, is true in New England, Taft managers report. At the 1948 convention, Taft received only four votes from the whole area, now is making heavy inroads in Massachusetts, despite Sens. Leverett Saltonstall and Henry Cabot Lodge's preference for Ike. Taft's manager is the energetic New Bedford publisher, Basil Brewer, who figures the Ohioan will get at least eight Bay State delegates. . . . In other New England states, wily Sen. Owen Brewster is trying to snatch the whole Maine delegation, but will have to overcome the prestige of Sen. Margaret Smith, who leans to Ike. . . . Publisher William Loeb of the Manchester, N. H., Union-Leader, is battling for Taft against ailing Sen. Charles Tobey, while Sen. Styles Bridges sits on the fence. . . . Vermont National Committeeman Jim Dewey, a cousin of Governor Dewey, is openly pro-Taft. . . . In Rhode Island, Taft pulled a crowd of party leaders at a $50-a-plate dinner, and ex-GOP National Committee Press Agent Jim Selvage is organizing for Taft in Connecticut.

Kansas Surprises

At the Carlton dinner the other night, Taft gleefully revealed two surprises. They were promises of strength from both Kansas, Ike's home state, and from New York, under the careful thumb of Governor Dewey. Publisher Frank Gannett is determined to break Dewey's hold by splitting the delegation for Taft. He has the undercover support of 10 New York congressmen.

Taft did not reveal his contacts in Kansas, but did say that while visiting in Kansas City he had received definite pledges of support from key party leaders.

Taft lieutenants pooh-poohed claims that Eisenhower will puncture Taft's hold in the south. They say that, while the senator will not go into California to oppose Gov. Earl Warren, he expects to break even or better in seven of the 11 western states.

Nevada Friendships

The Senate is always quick to investigate anyone but its own members. However, one situation which badly needs investigating is the way Senator Malone, Nevada Republican, has reversed positions on Tidelands oil.

At first, Malone fought to turn Tidelands oil over to the states. This was at the same time that his assistant, Ben Whitehurst, wrote to the Long Beach harbor commissioners on Malone's official stationery, asking $50,000 to lobby for state ownership. However, the deal fell through.

Now Malone has completely reversed himself, and is battling for federal ownership. The position he now favors might help turn vast tracts of oil-rich tidelands over to E. L. Cord, the auto magnate, who bought up forgotten civil war scrip which he claims entitled him to federally owned tidelands.

At the same time that Malone takes this position favoring Cord he has been flying around Nevada in Cord's private plane, and has been a house guest at Cord's Fish Lake Valley ranch in the Sierras.

In other words, Malone sided with the Long Beach harbor commissioners as long as his assistant was trying to get $50,000 from them. Then Malone suddenly switched to Cord's side, and is now accepting favors from Cord. The Senate is investigating Vice President Barkley's secretary for much less. But I predict the Senate will not investigate a fellow senator.

Backstage With the Diplomats

The ABN underground in southern Russia claims three Soviet republics, Kazakh, Uzbek and Turkomen, are boiling with revolt and vast purges. (ABN is an underground or Moslem and Mongolian groups in south and east Russia. Its headquarters is in Turkey.) . . . A peasant revolt in all the European satellites has brought a shake-up in Communist agriculture ministries plus short rations. . . . Argentina's anti-American Dictator Peron has just fired eight of his top generals, including General Solari, commander-in-chief of the army, and arrested Gen. Arturo Rawson, the former president. This is to prevent another military revolt following the abortive uprising on September 18. . . . The Iranian Shah has secretly conferred with a former premier noted for his Russian sympathies who may replace Premier Mossadegh. The pro-Russian is Quavam Al-Saltaneh, whose cabinet fell in 1947 when Parliament rejected his agreements giving the Soviet big oil and border concessions. . . . Two lieutenants of the wily Mufti of Jerusalem who worked for Hitler and now for Stalin are actively organizing terrorist gangs and an "army of liberation" for Egypt. They are not being deterred by the Egyptian government. The terrorists threaten to murder any Egyptian who works for the British in the Suez Canal Zone or elsewhere.

Truman's Speech Full of Political Strategy to Mislead Republicans on '52 Issue

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 21 — President Truman has unfolded a bit of political strategy that may mislead the Republicans into taking the very step he seemingly doesn't want them to take—to make foreign policy the issue in the next campaign.

Mr. Truman told the Women's National Democratic Club that he hoped the Republicans wouldn't make foreign policy "a partisan political issue" in the coming presidential campaign but that, if they do, it will be met and that "it will be the best issue the Democratic party has."

What was the President's purpose in devoting so much of his speech to a warning to Republicans? It is most unusual this early in the pre-election campaign to find the head of the administration in power giving advice to political opponents on what the issues should or shouldn't be. The answer may be that the President, whether or not he is himself to be the nominee, wants to make the record clear early—he wants to be in a position to wage a vehement attack on the Republican attitude toward foreign policy because he really believes that's the best issue.

For one thing, any concentration of public attention on foreign policy issues takes a good deal of the heat off domestic issues and controversies. There are many Republicans, too, who do not want to see foreign policy an issue, because they tend to go along with some of the major points in the administration's foreign policy. If, for example, General Eisenhower is the Republican nominee, it seems certain that he would embrace many of the foreign policy proposals and activities of the Truman administration.

But if Senator Taft is the Republican nominee, foreign policy is certain to be an issue anyway. In his much-discussed book, just out, the Ohio senator analyzes the Truman foreign policy and minces no words in speaking out against certain acts of the administration in the international political and economic fields.

What it amounts to, therefore, is a warning to the Republicans that, if they nominate Taft and he makes foreign policy an issue, the Democrats will rejoice because they feel that on foreign policy they can split the Republican party and insure the votes of enough independents to win the election for the Democratic party nominee.

There are Republican strategists, on the other hand, who think Mr. Truman was quite right in referring in his speech to the 1920 campaign, because at that time there was such a revulsion of feeling against World War 1 and its irritations on the economic side that the Republicans won in a landslide with an Ohio senator, Warren Harding, a colorless candidate, as the nominee.

In many respects the Republicans who want to make foreign policy an issue next year think that it is bound to win for them because of the unpopularity of the Korean war. They look on the high expenditures in the Far East and Europe as having resulted from what they regard as the administration's failure to keep China from falling into the hands of the Communists.

The speech, notwithstanding its gibes at the Republican party, is on the whole defensive in spirit. The President's plaintive prediction that the Republicans will have "enormous slush funds" is intended as a sort of anticipatory rebuttal to the cry of the Republicans that it will be difficult for them "to beat 85 billions" of government spending.

Mr. Truman has tried to conceal his intentions as to his own possible candidacy. His exact words will bear examination: "I'm not going to make any announcement about who the candidate will be, although I do have some ideas on the subject."

It might be asked how anyone can "announce" who the candidate "will be" unless he is president himself and in control of the party machinery. It could mean he will dictate the choice, and it could mean that "some ideas on the subject" means he will some day come out in favor of his own selection—but the faithful officeholders here think he intends to run himself. Still the phrasing of the whole speech is more objective than any of the speeches Mr. Truman used to make prior to the 1948 contest, and his emphasis on the party and his lack of detailed defense of his own record in office, particularly on domestic issues, is significant. Politically speaking, it was a good speech for his side.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

London — A member of the British House of Commons gets a salary of one thousand pounds a year, approximately $2,500 at the present rate of exchange, plus as many free rides as he needs on the nationalized railroads to and from London. But he has neither an office nor a secretary, no telephone, nor even a desk and he pays for his own postage and telegrams. The Congressional Record of the British Parliament is a document known as Hansard, after a man, who, long ago, obtained the concession of reporting the debates and recording bills introduced for consideration, but the press has absolutely no standing or privilege and may be heaved out, and the Hansard reporters too, when a secret session is ordered. To signalize the beginning of secrecy the prime minister calls "I spy strangers" and the premises are then cleared of non-members and the record is suspended until the secrecy is terminated.

This superiority of Commons, this independence of the press is naively regarded as a very important thing, signifying that the House of Commons, representing the people of Great Britain, is not to be intimidated by publishers nor any other force, including the king. But that is a strictly technical and meaningless assertion of a flabby integrity because actually the members do not represent "the people" of their constituencies at all, but their respective political parties or other patrons such as labor unions, banks, insurance companies or breweries.

The unions are allowed to subsidize M.P.'s by continuing the pay of those members who hold union office, or even by outright grants of wages for services to be rendered in the form of pro-union votes. Among a number of enlightened Englishmen with whom I have earnestly discussed this phenomenon I not only found no objection but a puzzled and rather sensitive feeling that any outside objection to this obvious venality was just another twist of the lion's tail. I tried over and over to spell out with match sticks the plain fact that a Member of Parliament or of our Lower House is supposed to represent all the people of his district, or constituency, as they call it here, but the best I got was an impatient admission that this was all right in abstract theory but ——.

However, as we argued, they put me to wondering whether the same wasn't true in our legislatures, including the Big Casino on Capitol Hill and I am forced to admit that it undoubtedly is, with the technical, hypocritical difference that we make a pretense that that which isn't so is. For example, we have a lot of professional unioneers sitting in Congress who, for all that any law says to the contrary, may still be drawing their union pay and perquisites and in one notorious case, is. It is our pretense, however, that these unioneers, when they come to Congress, suddenly become impartial and objective statesmen representing all the people and interests of their respective districts which is a lie as all of use know.

The notorious case that I refer to is that of Congressman Irving, of Independence, Mo., Harry Truman's home district, who is the dictator of a big local of the Hod Carriers and Common Laborers' Union, one of the foulest rackets in the whole vast corruption of the American union movement.

There have been riots and hell generally in his local and he is no worse than at least a dozen other unioneers in congress, but just more flagrant. So the only difference between the British position and ours is that they boldly endorse the outrageous principle that it is all right for special interests to subsidize or, in a franker word, bribe, M.P.'s to vote their way, whereas we put up with the same thing and pretend it isn't so.

With all our faults, the American system is so much better than the British that the Mother of Parliaments loses the dignified mien and stately lineaments of ancient superstition and becomes an ugly old bag. For one thing, we have a written constitution which withholds from the government certain powers reserved to the states and others to the people. Having no written constitution but a mere accumulation of laws, parliament can and sometimes does exercise the very tyranny which it is supposed to repress. We slipped up badly in the sixteenth amendment in failing to put a limit on the percentage of our income which congress could take away from us in its revenue acts. The meaning of omission is that right now congress has the right to tax away every dollar of individual or corporate income in the whole country and thereby reduce us to slavery because in that case nobody could earn a living and we would all have to go

There will be no edition of the Kingston Daily Freeman on Thursday, November 22 in observance of the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

THANKSGIVING DAY

In these times many men find much to decry and deplore in American life. And any fair scanning of the national horizon must produce proof that the laments are largely justified.

Yet we may be profoundly thankful for one thing. The nation's elemental character is untarnished. Its devotions have not lost their fire. Human dignity and freedom, individual integrity and resourceful accomplishment are still revered.

Were it not so, would anyone rise to decry and deplore?

The year 1951 has unfolded more than one unhappy chapter in the American story. Moral laxity has shown itself all too common in quarters as varied as the government council room, the sports arena, the home.

Fundamentals of freedom have been put in jeopardy by people who say they are defending liberty.

In the crisis of limited war and threat of wider war, groups in our society have chosen not to submerge traditional jealousies and conflicts in a common cause, but to lift them up. Here and there the special interest has been glorified as the national interest—by men of narrow view.

Nevertheless, the great, wholesome, heartening fact is that none of this has been allowed to occur without stirring protest. A mantle of indifference has cloaked some of us—but never all. The nation's conscience has yielded neither its identity nor its vigor.

Every important digression from service to American ideals has been duly charted. Above all the confusions, the failures, and the twisted notions, our real goals have been held high.

On this Thanksgiving Day, our gratitude should go to those who keep our dream of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness a vivid promise. Americans have demonstrated well that some among them will always speak when there is a tampering with freedom, a lapse from moral grace, a slackness in resourceful effort, a too great focus on selfish ends.

We can be thankful that this core of America is still secure. It is our assurance that, come what may, tomorrow is a day we can look to with hope in our hearts.

TENSION AT THE WHEEL

A new word to describe the condition of a motorist after driving for a few hours is suggested by L. S. Harris, executive secretary of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators. His suggested word is "tenigue," which presumably would rhyme with fatigue, one of the elements of its meaning. Highway safety experts have concluded that driving in present-day traffic induces a pernicious combination of tension and fatigue. The driver's coordination between hand and eye becomes less accurate, his hand unsteady, and observation and reactions are slower. Given a new word to denote this combination, perhaps motorists would be more aware of it.

Remedy, up to a certain point, is to be found in more frequent stops to stretch the legs and take refreshment. When such a temporary halt fails to bring relaxation, it is time to pull off the road for a longer rest, preferably a night's sleep. Next day the body and mind can start afresh, and the driver will possess his normal skill. Adoption of these two simple measures might substantially reduce the number of accidents.

OLD FAITHFUL

In the shifting sands of a troubled 1951, what leaves a permanent imprint, what can we count upon as unchanging?

Not many things, that is certain. So it is with considerable comfort that we pick up the papers these days and spot pictures of President Truman enjoying himself at Key West. There he is, wearing those same sloppy caps and outlandish sports shirts.

Yes, the world may be in flux, but Harry Truman's taste in warm-weather attire is a veritable Gibraltar.

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

THANKSGIVING 1951

The pause that comes with any holiday can, with advantage, be a moment for self-examination. Thanksgiving Day, in particular, lends itself to that purpose. Otherwise, each day is like the day before, a rhythmic motion from darkness to light and then to darkness again—and nothing more.

Our Thanksgiving holiday is strictly American. It is unrelated to politics, as is the Fourth of July, or to a religious order, as is Easter. It exists by presidential proclamation. Yet, few documents ordering the event grasp at its essential purpose. The noblest of these proclamations was Abraham Lincoln's on March 30, 1863, in which he said:

"Whereas it is the duty of nations as well as of men to own their dependence upon the overruling power of God, to confess their sins and transgressions in humble sorrow, yet with assured hope that genuine repentance will lead to mercy and pardon, and to recognize the sublime truth, announced in the Holy Scriptures and proven by all history, that those nations only are blessed whose God is the Lord; . . .

". . . We have been the recipients of the choicest bounties of heaven; we have been preserved these many years in peace and prosperity; we have grown in numbers, wealth, and power as no other nation has even grown. But we have forgotten God. We have forgotten the gracious hand which preserved us in peace and multiplied and enriched and strengthened us, and we have vainly imagined, in the deceitfulness of our hearts, that all these blessings were produced by some superior wisdom and virtue of our own. Intoxicated with unbroken success, we have become too self-sufficient to feel the necessity of redeeming and preserving grace, too proud to pray to the God that made us."

This Thanksgiving proclamation, in nobility of expression, in depth of sentiment, in understanding of the religious motivation of our civilization is as magnificent as the Gettysburg Address. It is a demonstrable fact in history that no civilization has blossomed or long existed, the roots of which are not deep in religious belief and experience.

To assume that Thanksgiving Day is a pause from work, accompanied by the feast of the turkey and pumpkin pie, is to give to Bacchus a day dedicated to God.

There was a time in our land when such a festival was inaugurated with prayer at the family table, when children were taught to realize that the richness of our lives comes from God. Today, too many children must assume that it comes from the breaks that father got, or from the bounty of government, or from the politicians who have set themselves up as feudal lords mailing government checks to their beneficiaries.

Men who thank God for their bread are independent of other men. They raise their eyes heavenward and know the truth. They do not live in fear of man, or government, or power. They know that all men are created to be equal in the eyes of the Lord and when they have returned to that permanent state in which dust is dust, only that remains of them which is eternal, the soul, the holy spirit that is life.

In these troubled times, the thought must come to many; what have I to be thankful for?

Surely, it cannot be for wealth, for automobiles and electric refrigerators and television sets. For if we had none of these, there still would be much to be thankful for.

We need to be thankful for life itself.

We need to be thankful that our lovely land has not been invaded by a foreign foe, that our cities have not been devastated, that our infants have not been slaughtered by the savagery of wild races emerging to power.

We need to be thankful that, for most of us, sons outlive their fathers, and in those homes that are tortured by the nearness of war tragedy, they know that none take lightly their misfortunes and that we join in their sorrows as though they were our own.

We need to be thankful that we have been chosen from among the nations to lead mankind to a peaceful world. Recognizing our own weaknesses and the frailties of those who lead us, we fear the weight of such responsibilities and humbly pray that we may not do more harm than good. But we know that whatever we do is in kindliness and not to harm, to conquer, to enslave.

May God bless this day of thanksgiving.

That Body of Yours

PREVENTION OF HEART DISEASE

For several years I wrote frequently about the liver and gall bladder because the liver does more different jobs than any other organ. An active liver and gall bladder means better health and buoyancy of spirits whereas a sluggish liver and gall bladder makes one "yellow" physically and emotionally. By keeping the body reasonaby active and not eating too much fat and starch foods, the liver and gall bladder are kept in good working conditions.

Today I write more often about the heart and blood pressure, because heart and blood vessel diseases cause more deaths than any other disease. In the American Heart, the bulletin of the American Heart Association, we read that more persons die from hardening of the arteries (high blood pressure) than any other single cause. Coronary heart disease, a disease of the blood vessels carrying blood to the heart muscle itself, is the narrowing and blocking of one of these vessels. And the number of these deaths seems to be increasing: first, because more people live longer and, second, because this form of heart disease is recognized more often. Coronary heart disease occurs more often in men and at the most important period of the life span—middle age or younger.

In 97 per cent of cases, coronary disease is due to a hardening change in the inner wall of the blood vessel which so narrows the vessel that it takes much more pressure to push blood through. Sometimes a branch blood vessel breaks and for a time a part of the heart is short of nourishment. By resting a month or more, the vessel heals or small adjoining vessels make up blood needed. In other cases a small piece of this hardened lining breaks off and cuts off circulation of blood elsewhere.

Hardening of the arteries (arteriosclerosis) cannot be controlled as can some diseases, so what can be done about delaying or preventing deaths from high blood pressure?

The first suggestion is that obesity (overweight) be prevented. Overweight puts an added strain on the heart and blood vessels; a reduction of 20 to 30 pounds which if maintained, may reduce blood pressure by 20 to 30 points. While weight is being produced, drugs that relax the whole body, relax the blood vessels and prevent emotional disturbances from raising the blood pressure are used.

Lately the use of drugs to keep the blood in a more fluid state prevents clotting, thus preventing obstruction of blood vessels.

By careful medical supervision and prevention of obesity, many with heart disease live the allotted span.

Thanksgiving Dinner Guests in Every Home

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington. — At a relaxed Washington dinner at the Carlton Hotel recently, Sen. Robert Taft cheerfully bragged to close friends that his delegate strength was "way over 600 and going up."

The senator had just come from a month of political bush-beating and a press conference where he was heckled for almost an hour. In high good humor, however, he told top aides Jack Martin and Lou Guylay: "This has been the most productive political month in my career. Everywhere I've been in the midwest and south we are gaining strength. If the convention was today, I would get the nomination on the first ballot."

Guylay supplemented this by giving details on a Taft managers' report placing delegate strength at an all-time high of 600 — enough to win on the first roll call. (At the 1948 convention, Taft never hit 300 votes).

Senator Taft listened, beamed, but commented: "After this trip, I would say our strength is way over 600 and still going up."

Taft's Line-up

Reason for the optimism are the following reports sent in by Taft managers: Three midget states which turned their backs in 1948 — Indiana, Kentucky and Wisconsin — are now on the Taft team . . . . In Indiana, a Dewey state three years ago, National Committeeman Ralph Gates, the former governor; Ex-Sen. Ray Willis, and 68 GOP members of the state legislature are on record for Taft . . . In Kentucky, National Committeeman Jouett Ross Todd, a Dewey man in 1948, is actively pushing Taft . . . . In Wisconsin, Republican Boss Tom Coleman is lining up delegates. Coleman is Sen. Joe McCarthy's friend . . . In Illinois, Sen. Everett Dirksen has dropped "favorite son" ambitions to be Taft's manager. This means Illinois' 60 votes will probably go for Taft on the first ballot . . . . . In Pennsylvania, the three top-ranking GOP organization leaders were photographed with Taft at Harrisburg — State Chairman Harvey Taylor, National Committeeman Mason Owlett, and Sen. Edward Martin. The other Pennsylvania senator, rugged, independent Jim Duff, is Eisenhower's biggest booster.

New England Trends

The same story of organization politicos, deserting the Eisenhower campaign to line up with Taft, is true in New England, Taft managers report. At the 1948 convention, Taft received only four votes from the whole area, now is making heavy inroads in Massachusetts, despite Sens. Leverett Saltonstall and Henry Cabot Lodge's preference for Ike. Taft's manager is the energetic New Bedford publisher, Basil Brewer, who figures the Ohioan will get at least eight Bay State delegates. . . . In other New England states, wily Sen. Owen Brewster is trying to snatch the whole Maine delegation, but will have to overcome the prestige of Sen. Margaret Smith, who leans to Ike. . . . Publisher William Loeb of the Manchester, N. H., Union-Leader, is battling for Taft against ailing Sen. Charles Tobey, while Sen. Styles Bridges sits on the fence. . . . Vermont National Committeeman Jim Dewey, a cousin of Governor Dewey, is openly pro-Taft. . . . In Rhode Island, Taft pulled a crowd of party leaders at a $50-a-plate dinner, and ex-GOP National Committee Press Agent Jim Selvage is organizing for Taft in Connecticut.

Kansas Surprises

At the Carlton dinner the other night, Taft gleefully revealed two surprises. They were promises of strength from both Kansas, Ike's home state, and from New York, under the careful thumb of Governor Dewey. Publisher Frank Gannett is determined to break Dewey's hold by splitting the delegation for Taft. He has the undercover support of 10 New York congressmen.

Taft did not reveal his contacts in Kansas, but did say that while visiting in Kansas City he had received definite pledges of support from key party leaders.

Taft lieutenants pooh-poohed claims that Eisenhower will puncture Taft's hold in the south. They say that, while the senator will not go into California to oppose Gov. Earl Warren, he expects to break even or better in seven of the 11 western states.

Nevada Friendships

The Senate is always quick to investigate anyone but its own members. However, one situation which badly needs investigating is the way Senator Malone, Nevada Republican, has reversed positions on Tidelands oil.

At first, Malone fought to turn Tidelands oil over to the states. This was at the same time that his assistant, Ben Whitehurst, wrote to the Long Beach harbor commissioners on Malone's official stationery, asking $50,000 to lobby for state ownership. However, the deal fell through.

Now Malone has completely reversed himself, and is battling for federal ownership. The position he now favors might help turn vast tracts of oil-rich tidelands over to E. L. Cord, the auto magnate, who bought up forgotten civil war scrip which he claims entitled him to federally owned tidelands.

At the same time that Malone takes this position favoring Cord he has been flying around Nevada in Cord's private plane, and has been a house guest at Cord's Fish Lake Valley ranch in the Sierras.

In other words, Malone sided with the Long Beach harbor commissioners as long as his assistant was trying to get $50,000 from them. Then Malone suddenly switched to Cord's side, and is now accepting favors from Cord. The Senate is investigating Vice President Barkley's secretary for much less. But I predict the Senate will not investigate a fellow senator.

Backstage With the Diplomats

The ABN underground in southern Russia claims three Soviet republics, Kazakh, Uzbek and Turkomen, are boiling with revolt and vast purges. (ABN is an underground or Moslem and Mongolian groups in south and east Russia. Its headquarters is in Turkey.) . . . A peasant revolt in all the European satellites has brought a shake-up in Communist agriculture ministries plus short rations. . . . Argentina's anti-American Dictator Peron has just fired eight of his top generals, including General Solari, commander-in-chief of the army, and arrested Gen. Arturo Rawson, the former president. This is to prevent another military revolt following the abortive uprising on September 18. . . . The Iranian Shah has secretly conferred with a former premier noted for his Russian sympathies who may replace Premier Mossadegh. The pro-Russian is Quavam Al-Saltaneh, whose cabinet fell in 1947 when Parliament rejected his agreements giving the Soviet big oil and border concessions. . . . Two lieutenants of the wily Mufti of Jerusalem who worked for Hitler and now for Stalin are actively organizing terrorist gangs and an "army of liberation" for Egypt. They are not being deterred by the Egyptian government. The terrorists threaten to murder any Egyptian who works for the British in the Suez Canal Zone or elsewhere.

Truman's Speech Full of Political Strategy to Mislead Republicans on '52 Issue

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 21 — President Truman has unfolded a bit of political strategy that may mislead the Republicans into taking the very step he seemingly doesn't want them to take—to make foreign policy the issue in the next campaign.

Mr. Truman told the Women's National Democratic Club that he hoped the Republicans wouldn't make foreign policy "a partisan political issue" in the coming presidential campaign but that, if they do, it will be met and that "it will be the best issue the Democratic party has."

What was the President's purpose in devoting so much of his speech to a warning to Republicans? It is most unusual this early in the pre-election campaign to find the head of the administration in power giving advice to political opponents on what the issues should or shouldn't be. The answer may be that the President, whether or not he is himself to be the nominee, wants to make the record clear early—he wants to be in a position to wage a vehement attack on the Republican attitude toward foreign policy because he really believes that's the best issue.

For one thing, any concentration of public attention on foreign policy issues takes a good deal of the heat off domestic issues and controversies. There are many Republicans, too, who do not want to see foreign policy an issue, because they tend to go along with some of the major points in the administration's foreign policy. If, for example, General Eisenhower is the Republican nominee, it seems certain that he would embrace many of the foreign policy proposals and activities of the Truman administration.

But if Senator Taft is the Republican nominee, foreign policy is certain to be an issue anyway. In his much-discussed book, just out, the Ohio senator analyzes the Truman foreign policy and minces no words in speaking out against certain acts of the administration in the international political and economic fields.

What it amounts to, therefore, is a warning to the Republicans that, if they nominate Taft and he makes foreign policy an issue, the Democrats will rejoice because they feel that on foreign policy they can split the Republican party and insure the votes of enough independents to win the election for the Democratic party nominee.

There are Republican strategists, on the other hand, who think Mr. Truman was quite right in referring in his speech to the 1920 campaign, because at that time there was such a revulsion of feeling against World War 1 and its irritations on the economic side that the Republicans won in a landslide with an Ohio senator, Warren Harding, a colorless candidate, as the nominee.

In many respects the Republicans who want to make foreign policy an issue next year think that it is bound to win for them because of the unpopularity of the Korean war. They look on the high expenditures in the Far East and Europe as having resulted from what they regard as the administration's failure to keep China from falling into the hands of the Communists.

The speech, notwithstanding its gibes at the Republican party, is on the whole defensive in spirit. The President's plaintive prediction that the Republicans will have "enormous slush funds" is intended as a sort of anticipatory rebuttal to the cry of the Republicans that it will be difficult for them "to beat 85 billions" of government spending.

Mr. Truman has tried to conceal his intentions as to his own possible candidacy. His exact words will bear examination: "I'm not going to make any announcement about who the candidate will be, although I do have some ideas on the subject."

It might be asked how anyone can "announce" who the candidate "will be" unless he is president himself and in control of the party machinery. It could mean he will dictate the choice, and it could mean that "some ideas on the subject" means he will some day come out in favor of his own selection—but the faithful officeholders here think he intends to run himself. Still the phrasing of the whole speech is more objective than any of the speeches Mr. Truman used to make prior to the 1948 contest, and his emphasis on the party and his lack of detailed defense of his own record in office, particularly on domestic issues, is significant. Politically speaking, it was a good speech for his side.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

London — A member of the British House of Commons gets a salary of one thousand pounds a year, approximately $2,500 at the present rate of exchange, plus as many free rides as he needs on the nationalized railroads to and from London. But he has neither an office nor a secretary, no telephone, nor even a desk and he pays for his own postage and telegrams. The Congressional Record of the British Parliament is a document known as Hansard, after a man, who, long ago, obtained the concession of reporting the debates and recording bills introduced for consideration, but the press has absolutely no standing or privilege and may be heaved out, and the Hansard reporters too, when a secret session is ordered. To signalize the beginning of secrecy the prime minister calls "I spy strangers" and the premises are then cleared of non-members and the record is suspended until the secrecy is terminated.

This superiority of Commons, this independence of the press is naively regarded as a very important thing, signifying that the House of Commons, representing the people of Great Britain, is not to be intimidated by publishers nor any other force, including the king. But that is a strictly technical and meaningless assertion of a flabby integrity because actually the members do not represent "the people" of their constituencies at all, but their respective political parties or other patrons such as labor unions, banks, insurance companies or breweries.

The unions are allowed to subsidize M.P.'s by continuing the pay of those members who hold union office, or even by outright grants of wages for services to be rendered in the form of pro-union votes. Among a number of enlightened Englishmen with whom I have earnestly discussed this phenomenon I not only found no objection but a puzzled and rather sensitive feeling that any outside objection to this obvious venality was just another twist of the lion's tail. I tried over and over to spell out with match sticks the plain fact that a Member of Parliament or of our Lower House is supposed to represent all the people of his district, or constituency, as they call it here, but the best I got was an impatient admission that this was all right in abstract theory but ——.

However, as we argued, they put me to wondering whether the same wasn't true in our legislatures, including the Big Casino on Capitol Hill and I am forced to admit that it undoubtedly is, with the technical, hypocritical difference that we make a pretense that that which isn't so is. For example, we have a lot of professional unioneers sitting in Congress who, for all that any law says to the contrary, may still be drawing their union pay and perquisites and in one notorious case, is. It is our pretense, however, that these unioneers, when they come to Congress, suddenly become impartial and objective statesmen representing all the people and interests of their respective districts which is a lie as all of use know.

The notorious case that I refer to is that of Congressman Irving, of Independence, Mo., Harry Truman's home district, who is the dictator of a big local of the Hod Carriers and Common Laborers' Union, one of the foulest rackets in the whole vast corruption of the American union movement.

There have been riots and hell generally in his local and he is no worse than at least a dozen other unioneers in congress, but just more flagrant. So the only difference between the British position and ours is that they boldly endorse the outrageous principle that it is all right for special interests to subsidize or, in a franker word, bribe, M.P.'s to vote their way, whereas we put up with the same thing and pretend it isn't so.

With all our faults, the American system is so much better than the British that the Mother of Parliaments loses the dignified mien and stately lineaments of ancient superstition and becomes an ugly old bag. For one thing, we have a written constitution which withholds from the government certain powers reserved to the states and others to the people. Having no written constitution but a mere accumulation of laws, parliament can and sometimes does exercise the very tyranny which it is supposed to repress. We slipped up badly in the sixteenth amendment in failing to put a limit on the percentage of our income which congress could take away from us in its revenue acts. The meaning of omission is that right now congress has the right to tax away every dollar of individual or corporate income in the whole country and thereby reduce us to slavery because in that case nobody could earn a living and we would all have to go

The fruits of carelessness and thoughtlessness do a swell job of upsetting your apple cart.

A market strike in Indiana has been settled. Swell — because any market strike is just a lot of rot.

It really won't be long until heavy snow will stop a lot of our

Landscape Precautions

Rome (AP)—Neon signs and advertisements will not be allowed to spoil the landscape around Italy's famed tourist resorts. A law for the defense of Italian landscape has been enacted recently. The ministerial committee responsible for enforcement has already approved plans covering the Islands of Capri and Ischia in the Bay of Naples and of Portofino and Nervi, on the Italian Riviera near Genoa. The committee has to approve the style and dimensions of the projected buildings. It has asked for the removal of advertising posters which spoil the landscape in certain areas of the country.

Thanksgiving Weather Forecast Is Warmer

(By The Associated Press)

The nation's weather for Thanksgiving Day, it appeared today, may bring expressions of thanfulness from most of the eastern half of the country. Warmer weather is forecast.

But it looks like a cold and snowy holiday for many western areas. Cold air from Canada spread southward over Montana and North Dakota today. Temperatures were far below freezing. Light snow fell in the plains states. Temperatures also were below seasonal levels in the far west.

Break Is Promised

Brisk southerly winds promised a break in the cold snap from Texas northeastward to the middle and upper Mississippi valley to the upper Great Lakes region. Some warming also was forecast by tomorrow for the eastern and southern states. But weather forecasters said the mildest weather would extend west of the Appalachians to the Mississippi valley.

It was below freezing again today in southern states, except in Florida. Readings also were sub freezing in eastern states with a low of 13 at Burlington, Vt. and 17 at Caribou, Me. It was 21 in Augusta, Ga., 20 in Pittsburgh, 27 in New York, 31 in New Orleans and 29 in Atlanta.

Snow flurries were reported in coastal sections of New England. Rain fell in southern Texas but fair weather was reported in other parts of the country.

Fisherics and fishery industries of the United States employ about 190,000 persons, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Answer to Previous Puzzle to concentration camps for lodging, food and social security. To be sure, this was done by the elaborate process provided for constitutional amendment and we should have caught the trick, but the fact remains that nobody did catch it — and there it is.

Under Roosevelt, our Congress passed several laws, such as the Wagner Act, wages and hours and the communications act which withdraw from the jurisdiction of the regular courts important phases of jurisprudence and hand over people and their rights to prejudiced bureaucrats for arbitrary judgment subject to no appeal to any court except rarely when the lazy, frivolous ignoramuses and lounge lizards of the Supreme Court decide to give a listen. All this is very bad and ought to be undone, but Congress itself, now that old Moosejaw has retired to the sideshow racket at the Hyde Park honkatonk under the shrewd showmanship of Elliott and Laboca Grande, and the hex is off.

But the British Parliament is even worse. Under the reign of the Socialists, calling themselves the Labor Party, Parliament became a tyrant, nor was this the start of that because Parliament had shown our Congress the way long ago in the shape of laws which permitted bureaucrats to oppress the people and denied them access to the courts. Under socialism, the occasions for the exercise of arbitrary power by inspectors and licensing authorities have multiplied. The flaw in the parliamentary system always was there but the guilt has been the greater in a legislative body whose majority frankly regarded itself as the servant of the unions, and to hell with the rest and to hell with the liberties of one and all for which Englishmen had fought, bled and died. Parliament is a legislative body with a built-in lobby.

Landscape Precautions

Rome (AP)—Neon signs and advertisements will not be allowed to spoil the landscape around Italy's famed tourist resorts. A law for the defense of Italian landscape has been enacted recently. The ministerial committee responsible for enforcement has already approved plans covering the Islands of Capri and Ischia in the Bay of Naples and of Portofino and Nervi, on the Italian Riviera near Genoa. The committee has to approve the style and dimensions of the projected buildings. It has asked for the removal of advertising posters which spoil the landscape in certain areas of the country.

But the British Parliament is even worse. Under the reign of the Socialists, calling themselves the Labor Party, Parliament became a tyrant, nor was this the start of that because Parliament had shown our Congress the way long ago in the shape of laws which permitted bureaucrats to oppress the people and denied them access to the courts. Under socialism, the occasions for the exercise of arbitrary power by inspectors and licensing authorities have multiplied. The flaw in the parliamentary system always was there but the guilt has been the greater in a legislative body whose majority frankly regarded itself as the servant of the unions, and to hell with the rest and to hell with the liberties of one and all for which Englishmen had fought, bled and died. Parliament is a legislative body with a built-in lobby.

Thanksgiving Prayer

The blessings our forefathers knew—
To worship God in their own way.
And the firm faith that saw them through
Their troubles then—are ours today.

So we give thanks now as we pray:
We thank Thee Lord, we're freemen still;
And pray the coming of the day.
When all mankind obeys Thy Will.

Mrs. Williams Says

under cross examination by District Attorney Bruhn. He said he had put the deer rifle in his car a week before the shooting but took it out of the car on Friday preceding the tragedy. He did not know how it got back in the car. He had left it at George Kelders at Shokan.

Says Conscience Clear

Kelly said he was not worried since May 22, 1950, since his conscience was clear. He said he had been telling the truth and "had nothing to worry about." Asked if he had not been worried at the first trial and later in Sing Sing, he said he had not, he had told the truth.

He was questioned at length as to whether he was confused when he arranged to borrow the Scheid car on Friday preceding the shooting. He said he knew what he was doing then. He wanted to use the car to track Mrs. McHugh and ascertain whether she was going out with another man.

He described his actions on May 22 when he took the Scheid car as "automatic." He said he did not recall the acts. He said on question that a man would have to be conscious to drive a car and observe traffic changes. He said he did not recall arranging to meet Scheid at the garage on Monday morning but he said he must have made the arrangements and he said he had carried out that meeting.

Voluminous Notes

Kelly said after the tragedy he made voluminous notes covering his acquaintanceship with Mrs. McHugh; it contained about 140 pages. This record was made out at request of Charles Saccoman, his former attorney, while he was in jail and the notes were completed prior to the former trial in September, 1950.

Dr. Joseph L. Cummings of Poughkeepsie was called by defendant and testified as to an examination he had made of Kelly during October and November. One test he said indicated an organic impairment of the brain process. Otherwise Kelly was in good physical condition and answered questions on tests in an excellent manner. The test rated at 115, a good mark.

At this point a recess was taken until 2 p. m.

Tells of Memory Lapse

On cross examination Tuesday afternoon in County Court Edward H. Kelly told the court and jury that he had a severe lapse of memory from Sunday afternoon, May 21, 1950, through that afternoon and night and on Monday morning, May 22, until he found himself on his hands and knees on the pavement after Mrs. Eloise McHugh had been shot.

Kelly said this was an unusually long period for such a lapse but he told the court that he had suffered other lapses of memory for shorter periods for some time prior.

Asked if he had complained of any lapse of memory while confined in the county jail following the shooting, he said he never had nor had he told the examining physicians at Sing Sing prison of any loss of memory. He said they did not ask him about it and he never told them.

Asked if he recalled things which happened prior to the shooting and over a period of several years while he was keeping company with Mrs. McHugh, he said he did. During that time when he had nothing on his mind he was able to concentrate on business and could recall dates and incidents but at the time of the shooting he was confused and so concerned over the last quarrel with Mrs. McHugh and her cancellation of their wedding that he lapsed into a complete loss of memory for that period from Sunday afternoon until after the shooting.

District Attorney Louis Bruhn asked Kelly if he had not been able to recollect very well incidents which took place after the shooting and whether he had not recited on the witness stand in great detail things which happened prior and after the shooting.

Kelly replied he had. He never had a lapse of memory since the shooting.

"You were disturbed" asked Bruhn," prior to the shooting and had a lapse of memory."

"That is true," replied Kelly.

Bruhn then asked the witness if he was disturbed now while facing a first degree murder charge, or if he were disturbed while he was in Sing Sing prison facing death in the electric chair.

Was Not Disturbed

Kelly replied he was not disturbed then or now. He said he had not had a lapse of memory since May 22, 1950.

Kelly told the jury he did not recollect anything which took place on May 2, 1950 when it is charged he threatened Mrs. McHugh and her daughter. He said he did not recall that but he did recall incidents that night.

Never while confined to the jail or in prison did Kelly complain of any memory loss, he told the court.

Asked about an examination in Sing Sing, Kelly said he had told them there of the loss of memory.

During this examination of the Sing Sing episode, District Attorney Bruhn referred to a paper. Whitman Knapp, counsel for defendant, asked that the paper be put in evidence or at least marked in evidence since it apparently was a record made by the doctor. He said the doctor was available and should be called. Bruhn objected but Judge Cashin allowed the paper to be marked for identification. That was one of several clashes between counsel during Kelly's examination.

After going together for nine years, Bruhn asked Kelly if he ever had any intention of marrying the woman. Kelly said he had. He had always wanted to marry her. However, he admitted that when Mrs. McHugh was ready to marry him on at least one occasion he had postponed it "for a reason."

"Did you ever intend to marry her?" asked Bruhn.

Kelly replied he had.

Kelly admitted he was jealous of Mrs. McHugh and said she was apparently jealous of him. He said he resented her going out with other men.

Complained of His Drinking

Mrs. McHugh complained frequently of his drinking but Kelly said he had not been a heavy drinker. He admitted that at times when he was disturbed he drank upwards of ten whiskeys with beer chasers daily over periods but he said this was not heavy drinking for him.

Kelly said he had been drinking when in April 1950 he had suddenly accused a Mr. O'Connor of providing a boy friend for Mrs. McHugh. This came out of a clear sky and he said he did not know why he had done it except he was confused at the time.

During April 1950 he said he was able to carry on his business and said he was not confused when he wrote a letter to a client about sale of a property. The letter was offered in evidence. It had been written on April 23, 1950.

Kelly said when in May, about May 15, when he attempted to sell his car he was confused. He said he "must have been confused" when he needed the car in his business. He had been drinking when he spoke to his brother about sale of the car. He said he needed money at the time. He said he recalled the talk with his brother over sale of the car. He said he was not confused over selling the car but he must have been confused to think of selling the car when he needed it in order to conduct business.

Kelly said it was not true that the only time he was confused was May 22 when the crime was committed.

Didn't Recall Act

Kelly said he did not recall driving his car on Main street on May 2 when he is accused of having threatened Mrs. McHugh and her daughter. That evening he said he had parked his car on Green street near the McHugh home and recalled Mrs. McHugh calling the police and accusing him of having a rifle in the car. He said he recalled the incidents of the evening of May 2 but not what happened during the day.

From 3 p. m. on May 21 until "after the tragedy" Kelly said he had a spell of loss of memory but has never had one since.

An adjournment was taken at 5 o'clock until 9:30 this morning with Kelly still under cross examination.

Milk Price Is Forecast

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—A uniform price of $5.29 per hundredweight (46.5 quarts) is forecast for dairy farmers for November milk deliveries to pool-approved plants in the New York milkshed. The estimated producer butterfat differential for November is six cents for each tenth of a pound above or below the 3.5 per cent standard. The forecasts were announced last night by C. J. Blanford, New York metropolitan milk marketing administrator.

No Date Is Set For Opening of B'way Underpass

Lipsett Inc., contractor on the Broadway crossing project will not be able to determine when the underpass will be open to traffic, for another two weeks, a spokesman said today.

Work on two sections of concrete, one on the west and the other on the east side of the railroad bridge, is completed, but the sewer project is still to be finished and the footing for the second bridge is to be placed before the underpass can be used.

It is unlikely that more concrete will be poured this season and the 180-foot gap between the east and west sections will probably be filled with gravel when the street is reopened to traffic.

Kerhonkson Group Acts to Prevent More Accidents

A committee of five Kerhonkson residents will act for elimination of dangerous conditions at Routes 44 and 55 in the village as the result of a recent meeting of interested citizens, it was announced today.

Dr. William Galeota was named chairman of the committee and the other members are: Attorney Philip Korn, Francis L. McCauley, Augusta Kopp, Mrs. Albert Wiese and Mrs. Max Brown.

It is the committee's aim to campaign until hazardous conditions have been eliminated. It is backed by 900 petitioners for effective action.

Organizations represented were Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies' Auxiliary; Lions Club, the fire company and fire commissioners; the Couples Club of the Federated Church, the WSCS of the same church, the P-TA, the Jewish Synagogue and Ladies' Auxiliary, the Home Bureau and the Board of Education.

The group stressed the number of costly accidents in the village during the past two decades. It recalled the recent death of Isadore Siegel, the five vacationing women who were critically injured, and the accident in which a 10-ton trailer truck upset in front of the Victory Store.

A proposal to eliminate dangerous conditions where the routes enter the village is expected to be considered by the Board of Supervisors next month, and it is planned to contact State Senator Arthur H. Wicks, and James F. Loughran, county highway superintendent.

Hurley Fire Calls Must Go Direct To Central Station

Edmund Czerwinski, chairman of the Hurley fire board, said today that all calls for aid must clear through the Central Fire Station, Kingston, where there is a direct hookup via telephone with the village fire siren.

The statement was prompted by the response of the Hurley volunteers about three weeks ago to a forest fire beyond the two-mile zone. The call for aid was made to an officer of the fire company, who thought the fire was in the district and sounded an alarm. The blaze was well out of the district, it was discovered, but the volunteers stayed nevertheless and put it out. Meanwhile it was learned that able-bodied men who lived in the zone of the forest blaze let the Hurley men do the work.

No private citizen, Czerwinski said he learned on good authority, can call out fire equipment to fight a forest fire. The township supervisor is the only one so empowered, if the blaze is within the fire district for which the equipment is maintained.

In addition, Czerwinski said, the only authority for calling equipment out of a fire district lies with the Mutual Aid System of the county. Coverage is then supplied by some nearby company.

Boy's Parents Make

ery. And he's miserable enough now."

Death may come at any time. Already Rodney has had his Christmas tree and toys. But he scarcely was able to know it.

Little Rodney became ill last August. Doctors collapsed a lung in September and operated. They found cancer cells were filling his body.

They told the parents to take him home. There was nothing more they could do.

The 33-year-old father laid off work as a freight handler to be with his son.

Breathing Is Laborious

Breathing for Rodney became laborious He couldn't walk, scarcely could eat. All he wanted was to ride. His father took him daily—in cars loaned by neighbors.

Staying off work erased Father Gale's slim funds. Last Saturday the word of his plight got out to the newspapers.

The story brought an outpouring of generosity.

The Gales have no telephone. So people by the hundreds went to the home.

"There must have been 500 of them." Mrs. Gale said.

The callers brought hams, turkeys, home-canned delicacies, and toys. Three nuns from Berkeley came with a decorated Christmas tree. A merchant seaman brought presents picked up in the Orient.

Yesterday Dr. Luigi Luzzatti, director of Children's Hospital offered the gift of medical aid—an offer to retard the growth of the cells with a drug. He made it clear that Rodney would die any way—but perhaps not until Christmas was over.

"We felt the child's parents should make the choice," the doctor said.

Tearfully the Gales searched their hearts and came up with the answer they felt was best even for Rodney. It was "no."

Today Rodney, in great pain, grew weaker. Death might come in days—or hours.

Famine Is Hinted

Hong Kong, Nov. 21 (AP) — A Chinese Communist from Peiping Tuesday hinted at widespread famine in North China and Manchuria. The broadcasts said about 10,000,000 people had been "affected" by bad harvests. Crops in Chahar and Suiyan provinces were described as "only 30 to 40 per cent" of normal. The Reds blamed a severe drouth. Serious crop damage from floods and pests also was reported from unidentified parts of China. Earlier Communist reports said a flood on the Liaotung peninsula left 1,700,000 either starving or homeless and inundated 2,375,000 acres of farmland. The Tuesday broadcast implied that crop failures were extensive in Hoepi province.

Bakery Driver Has Narrow Escape

A bakery driver narrowly escaped having his legs severed from his body this morning when his truck crashed against a tree a half mile south of Zena, according to the state police at Lake Katrine station.

The troopers said William E. Tompkins, 25, of Route 2, Saugerties, told them he was driving in the direction of Zena from West Hurley, when the mishap occurred at 9:30 a. m.

Tompkins' version of the accident was that he bent over to reach his lunch, which was on the floor of the United Bakery Co. truck, and when he straightened up the vehicle was headed for a guardrail.

As the car collided with the fence, it turned on its side and struck a tree. The impact, he said, drove the windshield and dash against the top of the seat.

Tompkins said he ascaped injury, except for a few bruises, when his legs, in some manner, were moved from their position under the wheel, and he was knocked prone on the seat as the car overturned.

Republicans to Meet

Albany, Nov. 21 (AP)—Republican leaders will meet here next Wednesday to give formal clearance to the GOP plan for reapportioning New York's 45 congressional districts into 43. The high level conference will be the final preview for a special session of the Legislature, which will handle the reapportionment job. Governor Dewey is expected to call the session for Dec. 4 or 5. GOP Senator Pliny W. Williamson of Scarsdale announced the Wednesday meeting. He said the Joint Legislative Committee on Reapportionment, which he heads, would "consider the work of its technical staff."

One Person Killed

Buenos Aires, Nov. 21 (AP)—A raging fire in a port area customs warehouse killed one person and injured five others. Stores of chemicals, acids and other inflamable materials exploded, causing an estimated $7 million damage. Authorities said the fire started yesterday when a drum of chemical exploded in the warehouse while it was being shifted. The blaze and smoke was so intense that it was several hours before the 150 firemen could get it under control. Heavy concrete bunkers around the building kept the fire from spreading to nearby storage tanks of the Argentine Oil Monopoly and other oil installations.

Says They'll Be Wed

Cairo, Nov. 21 (AP)—Samia Gamal said today she and Sheppard W. King, III, Texas oil heir, will be married in Cairo on Monday. The beautiful Egyptian dancer named the date as King was on his way here by plane. He left New York last night. King has taken up the Moslem religion in order to marry Samia, who said the wedding will be "a very simple affair" at the U. S. consulate on Monday morning. In the evening a Moslem priest will officiate at a religious ceremony in her apartment.

Plan Union Service

Union Thanksgiving services will be held Thanksgiving Day at 10 a. m. at St. Mark's AME Church, 12 Foxhall avenue with the congregations of the following churches participating: Franklin Street AME Zion, the Rev. Marshall M. Smith, pastor; New Central Baptist, the Rev. Phillip N. Saunders, pastor; and St. Mark's AME. The speaker of the day will be the Rev. Marshall M. Smith. Music will be by the youth of the community. The public is invited.

Living Room Damaged

A living room in a house owned by Ray Furman at High Falls was damaged by fire early today. The High Falls Fire Department was called at 12:45 p. m., and Jack Smith, fire commissioner, said the blaze which apparently started from an overheated wood stove was confined largely to the living room. Use of pails of water on the fire before firemen arrived helped save it from spreading, Smith said.

Same, Only 'More-So'

Los Angeles, Nov. 21 (AP)—Caltex of California today previewed its 1952 line of swim suits and came up, among other things, with a new name for the falsie. That important accessory for the girl whom nature short-changed is called "more-so." As did other California swim suit makers, Caltex also featured the outside falsie in its suits—a flying wing effect. The wing can be turned down for the girl with too little and up for others.

Injured in Collision

Eugene B. Kelly, R.D., Newburgh, suffered slight injuries of the nose and left knee in a car-truck collision at Broadway and McEntee street yesterday. The police report at 3:30 p. m., said Kelly was headed south on McEntee street and the truck, owned by Liberty Fast Freight Inc., Rochelle Park, N. J., was headed north on the street at the time. It was driven by Henry C. Noble, of Delmar. The car was towed from the scene.

About the Folks

Miss Betty Lawrence of 10 Sterling street has returned to her home after being a patient at the Kingston Hospital.

Mrs Sophie Church of 81 Elmendorf street has returned to her home from the Kingston Hospital.

Miss Gloria Paulucci of 338 Broadway has returned home from the Benedictine Hospital where she underwent an operation.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—A gentle upswing today took the stock market fractionally higher.

There was no great surge of buying but rather a persistent demand that caused the upturn.

The rails, steels and motors were among the best performers, but there were a number of other strong spots.

Gains ran to between 1 and 2 points in active areas while losses were held to fractions for the most part.

Trading never was heavy. The market started mixed on the higher side and almost wholly without feature. Within the first hour the upturn was positive.

Northern Pacific, which counts heavily on its oil revenue, was up nearly 2 points at times. In yesterday's short interest report as of Nov. 15, Northern Pacific turned out to be one of the big bear favorites with a short interest of around 71,000 as against 63,000 the previous month.

U. S. Effort Fails

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The government's attempt to punish an organization and five persons for their part in circulating the Stockholm peace appeal in this country has ended in failure. U. S. District Judge Matthew F. McGuire, who ended the case without allowing it to reach the jury, made it clear he was administering the law as he saw it, not approving the activities of the defendants. His decision is final, the government may not appeal.

Will Act to Cut Ban on Sports

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—Republican State Assemblyman R. Watson Pomeroy of Dutchess county said today he would introduce a bill in the 1952 Legislature providing for the elimination of a state ban on Sunday sporting events, including circuses.

His bill would place any ban on such events on a local ordinance basis. It would legalize all public sports, including horse racing, after 2 p. m. on passage of local ordinances in cities, towns and villages.

The bill would also permit such "individual participation sports" as golf, hunting and tennis at any hour during Sunday.

Section 2145 of the State Penal Code prohibits "shooting, hunting, playing, horse racing and other sports, exercises or shows" on Sunday with football, baseball, hockey and soccer being excepted after 2 p. m. providing local ordinances permit it.

Section 2152 bans circuses, boxing, sparring, comedy, opera, minstrelsy, rope dancers, and dramatic performances on Sunday. It was under this section that state police banned a circus scheduled at Poughkeepsie last June and also prevented Sunday stock car racing.

Pomeroy said he had sent a letter to clergymen saying "I believe this approach is a practical one and would secure the repose and religious liberty of the community."

Mrs. Williams Says

under cross examination by District Attorney Bruhn. He said he had put the deer rifle in his car a week before the shooting but took it out of the car on Friday preceding the tragedy. He did not know how it got back in the car. He had left it at George Kelders at Shokan.

Says Conscience Clear

Kelly said he was not worried since May 22, 1950, since his conscience was clear. He said he had been telling the truth and "had nothing to worry about." Asked if he had not been worried at the first trial and later in Sing Sing, he said he had not, he had told the truth.

He was questioned at length as to whether he was confused when he arranged to borrow the Scheid car on Friday preceding the shooting. He said he knew what he was doing then. He wanted to use the car to track Mrs. McHugh and ascertain whether she was going out with another man.

He described his actions on May 22 when he took the Scheid car as "automatic." He said he did not recall the acts. He said on question that a man would have to be conscious to drive a car and observe traffic changes. He said he did not recall arranging to meet Scheid at the garage on Monday morning but he said he must have made the arrangements and he said he had carried out that meeting.

Voluminous Notes

Kelly said after the tragedy he made voluminous notes covering his acquaintanceship with Mrs. McHugh; it contained about 140 pages. This record was made out at request of Charles Saccoman, his former attorney, while he was in jail and the notes were completed prior to the former trial in September, 1950.

Dr. Joseph L. Cummings of Poughkeepsie was called by defendant and testified as to an examination he had made of Kelly during October and November. One test he said indicated an organic impairment of the brain process. Otherwise Kelly was in good physical condition and answered questions on tests in an excellent manner. The test rated at 115, a good mark.

At this point a recess was taken until 2 p. m.

Tells of Memory Lapse

On cross examination Tuesday afternoon in County Court Edward H. Kelly told the court and jury that he had a severe lapse of memory from Sunday afternoon, May 21, 1950, through that afternoon and night and on Monday morning, May 22, until he found himself on his hands and knees on the pavement after Mrs. Eloise McHugh had been shot.

Kelly said this was an unusually long period for such a lapse but he told the court that he had suffered other lapses of memory for shorter periods for some time prior.

Asked if he had complained of any lapse of memory while confined in the county jail following the shooting, he said he never had nor had he told the examining physicians at Sing Sing prison of any loss of memory. He said they did not ask him about it and he never told them.

Asked if he recalled things which happened prior to the shooting and over a period of several years while he was keeping company with Mrs. McHugh, he said he did. During that time when he had nothing on his mind he was able to concentrate on business and could recall dates and incidents but at the time of the shooting he was confused and so concerned over the last quarrel with Mrs. McHugh and her cancellation of their wedding that he lapsed into a complete loss of memory for that period from Sunday afternoon until after the shooting.

District Attorney Louis Bruhn asked Kelly if he had not been able to recollect very well incidents which took place after the shooting and whether he had not recited on the witness stand in great detail things which happened prior and after the shooting.

Kelly replied he had. He never had a lapse of memory since the shooting.

"You were disturbed" asked Bruhn," prior to the shooting and had a lapse of memory."

"That is true," replied Kelly.

Bruhn then asked the witness if he was disturbed now while facing a first degree murder charge, or if he were disturbed while he was in Sing Sing prison facing death in the electric chair.

Was Not Disturbed

Kelly replied he was not disturbed then or now. He said he had not had a lapse of memory since May 22, 1950.

Kelly told the jury he did not recollect anything which took place on May 2, 1950 when it is charged he threatened Mrs. McHugh and her daughter. He said he did not recall that but he did recall incidents that night.

Never while confined to the jail or in prison did Kelly complain of any memory loss, he told the court.

Asked about an examination in Sing Sing, Kelly said he had told them there of the loss of memory.

During this examination of the Sing Sing episode, District Attorney Bruhn referred to a paper. Whitman Knapp, counsel for defendant, asked that the paper be put in evidence or at least marked in evidence since it apparently was a record made by the doctor. He said the doctor was available and should be called. Bruhn objected but Judge Cashin allowed the paper to be marked for identification. That was one of several clashes between counsel during Kelly's examination.

After going together for nine years, Bruhn asked Kelly if he ever had any intention of marrying the woman. Kelly said he had. He had always wanted to marry her. However, he admitted that when Mrs. McHugh was ready to marry him on at least one occasion he had postponed it "for a reason."

"Did you ever intend to marry her?" asked Bruhn.

Kelly replied he had.

Kelly admitted he was jealous of Mrs. McHugh and said she was apparently jealous of him. He said he resented her going out with other men.

Complained of His Drinking

Mrs. McHugh complained frequently of his drinking but Kelly said he had not been a heavy drinker. He admitted that at times when he was disturbed he drank upwards of ten whiskeys with beer chasers daily over periods but he said this was not heavy drinking for him.

Kelly said he had been drinking when in April 1950 he had suddenly accused a Mr. O'Connor of providing a boy friend for Mrs. McHugh. This came out of a clear sky and he said he did not know why he had done it except he was confused at the time.

During April 1950 he said he was able to carry on his business and said he was not confused when he wrote a letter to a client about sale of a property. The letter was offered in evidence. It had been written on April 23, 1950.

Kelly said when in May, about May 15, when he attempted to sell his car he was confused. He said he "must have been confused" when he needed the car in his business. He had been drinking when he spoke to his brother about sale of the car. He said he needed money at the time. He said he recalled the talk with his brother over sale of the car. He said he was not confused over selling the car but he must have been confused to think of selling the car when he needed it in order to conduct business.

Kelly said it was not true that the only time he was confused was May 22 when the crime was committed.

Didn't Recall Act

Kelly said he did not recall driving his car on Main street on May 2 when he is accused of having threatened Mrs. McHugh and her daughter. That evening he said he had parked his car on Green street near the McHugh home and recalled Mrs. McHugh calling the police and accusing him of having a rifle in the car. He said he recalled the incidents of the evening of May 2 but not what happened during the day.

From 3 p. m. on May 21 until "after the tragedy" Kelly said he had a spell of loss of memory but has never had one since.

An adjournment was taken at 5 o'clock until 9:30 this morning with Kelly still under cross examination.

Milk Price Is Forecast

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—A uniform price of $5.29 per hundredweight (46.5 quarts) is forecast for dairy farmers for November milk deliveries to pool-approved plants in the New York milkshed. The estimated producer butterfat differential for November is six cents for each tenth of a pound above or below the 3.5 per cent standard. The forecasts were announced last night by C. J. Blanford, New York metropolitan milk marketing administrator.

Thanksgiving Prayer

The blessings our forefathers knew—
To worship God in their own way.
And the firm faith that saw them through
Their troubles then—are ours today.

So we give thanks now as we pray:
We thank Thee Lord, we're freemen still;
And pray the coming of the day.
When all mankind obeys Thy Will.

Kerhonkson Group Acts to Prevent More Accidents

A committee of five Kerhonkson residents will act for elimination of dangerous conditions at Routes 44 and 55 in the village as the result of a recent meeting of interested citizens, it was announced today.

Dr. William Galeota was named chairman of the committee and the other members are: Attorney Philip Korn, Francis L. McCauley, Augusta Kopp, Mrs. Albert Wiese and Mrs. Max Brown.

It is the committee's aim to campaign until hazardous conditions have been eliminated. It is backed by 900 petitioners for effective action.

Organizations represented were Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies' Auxiliary; Lions Club, the fire company and fire commissioners; the Couples Club of the Federated Church, the WSCS of the same church, the P-TA, the Jewish Synagogue and Ladies' Auxiliary, the Home Bureau and the Board of Education.

The group stressed the number of costly accidents in the village during the past two decades. It recalled the recent death of Isadore Siegel, the five vacationing women who were critically injured, and the accident in which a 10-ton trailer truck upset in front of the Victory Store.

A proposal to eliminate dangerous conditions where the routes enter the village is expected to be considered by the Board of Supervisors next month, and it is planned to contact State Senator Arthur H. Wicks, and James F. Loughran, county highway superintendent.

Hurley Fire Calls Must Go Direct To Central Station

Edmund Czerwinski, chairman of the Hurley fire board, said today that all calls for aid must clear through the Central Fire Station, Kingston, where there is a direct hookup via telephone with the village fire siren.

The statement was prompted by the response of the Hurley volunteers about three weeks ago to a forest fire beyond the two-mile zone. The call for aid was made to an officer of the fire company, who thought the fire was in the district and sounded an alarm. The blaze was well out of the district, it was discovered, but the volunteers stayed nevertheless and put it out. Meanwhile it was learned that able-bodied men who lived in the zone of the forest blaze let the Hurley men do the work.

No private citizen, Czerwinski said he learned on good authority, can call out fire equipment to fight a forest fire. The township supervisor is the only one so empowered, if the blaze is within the fire district for which the equipment is maintained.

In addition, Czerwinski said, the only authority for calling equipment out of a fire district lies with the Mutual Aid System of the county. Coverage is then supplied by some nearby company.

Boy's Parents Make

ery. And he's miserable enough now."

Death may come at any time. Already Rodney has had his Christmas tree and toys. But he scarcely was able to know it.

Little Rodney became ill last August. Doctors collapsed a lung in September and operated. They found cancer cells were filling his body.

They told the parents to take him home. There was nothing more they could do.

The 33-year-old father laid off work as a freight handler to be with his son.

Breathing Is Laborious

Breathing for Rodney became laborious He couldn't walk, scarcely could eat. All he wanted was to ride. His father took him daily—in cars loaned by neighbors.

Staying off work erased Father Gale's slim funds. Last Saturday the word of his plight got out to the newspapers.

The story brought an outpouring of generosity.

The Gales have no telephone. So people by the hundreds went to the home.

"There must have been 500 of them." Mrs. Gale said.

The callers brought hams, turkeys, home-canned delicacies, and toys. Three nuns from Berkeley came with a decorated Christmas tree. A merchant seaman brought presents picked up in the Orient.

Yesterday Dr. Luigi Luzzatti, director of Children's Hospital offered the gift of medical aid—an offer to retard the growth of the cells with a drug. He made it clear that Rodney would die any way—but perhaps not until Christmas was over.

"We felt the child's parents should make the choice," the doctor said.

Tearfully the Gales searched their hearts and came up with the answer they felt was best even for Rodney. It was "no."

Today Rodney, in great pain, grew weaker. Death might come in days—or hours.

Famine Is Hinted

Hong Kong, Nov. 21 (AP) — A Chinese Communist from Peiping Tuesday hinted at widespread famine in North China and Manchuria. The broadcasts said about 10,000,000 people had been "affected" by bad harvests. Crops in Chahar and Suiyan provinces were described as "only 30 to 40 per cent" of normal. The Reds blamed a severe drouth. Serious crop damage from floods and pests also was reported from unidentified parts of China. Earlier Communist reports said a flood on the Liaotung peninsula left 1,700,000 either starving or homeless and inundated 2,375,000 acres of farmland. The Tuesday broadcast implied that crop failures were extensive in Hoepi province.

Bakery Driver Has Narrow Escape

A bakery driver narrowly escaped having his legs severed from his body this morning when his truck crashed against a tree a half mile south of Zena, according to the state police at Lake Katrine station.

The troopers said William E. Tompkins, 25, of Route 2, Saugerties, told them he was driving in the direction of Zena from West Hurley, when the mishap occurred at 9:30 a. m.

Tompkins' version of the accident was that he bent over to reach his lunch, which was on the floor of the United Bakery Co. truck, and when he straightened up the vehicle was headed for a guardrail.

As the car collided with the fence, it turned on its side and struck a tree. The impact, he said, drove the windshield and dash against the top of the seat.

Tompkins said he escaped injury, except for a few bruises, when his legs, in some manner, were moved from their position under the wheel, and he was knocked prone on the seat as the car overturned.

Republicans to Meet

Albany, Nov. 21 (AP)—Republican leaders will meet here next Wednesday to give formal clearance to the GOP plan for reapportioning New York's 45 congressional districts into 43. The high level conference will be the final preview for a special session of the Legislature, which will handle the reapportionment job. Governor Dewey is expected to call the session for Dec. 4 or 5. GOP Senator Pliny W. Williamson of Scarsdale announced the Wednesday meeting. He said the Joint Legislative Committee on Reapportionment, which he heads, would "consider the work of its technical staff."

One Person Killed

Buenos Aires, Nov. 21 (AP)—A raging fire in a port area customs warehouse killed one person and injured five others. Stores of chemicals, acids and other inflamable materials exploded, causing an estimated $7 million damage. Authorities said the fire started yesterday when a drum of chemical exploded in the warehouse while it was being shifted. The blaze and smoke was so intense that it was several hours before the 150 firemen could get it under control. Heavy concrete bunkers around the building kept the fire from spreading to nearby storage tanks of the Argentine Oil Monopoly and other oil installations.

Says They'll Be Wed

Cairo, Nov. 21 (AP)—Samia Gamal said today she and Sheppard W. King, III, Texas oil heir, will be married in Cairo on Monday. The beautiful Egyptian dancer named the date as King was on his way here by plane. He left New York last night. King has taken up the Moslem religion in order to marry Samia, who said the wedding will be "a very simple affair" at the U. S. consulate on Monday morning. In the evening a Moslem priest will officiate at a religious ceremony in her apartment.

Plan Union Service

Union Thanksgiving services will be held Thanksgiving Day at 10 a. m. at St. Mark's AME Church, 12 Foxhall avenue with the congregations of the following churches participating: Franklin Street AME Zion, the Rev. Marshall M. Smith, pastor; New Central Baptist, the Rev. Phillip N. Saunders, pastor; and St. Mark's AME. The speaker of the day will be the Rev. Marshall M. Smith. Music will be by the youth of the community. The public is invited.

Living Room Damaged

A living room in a house owned by Ray Furman at High Falls was damaged by fire early today. The High Falls Fire Department was called at 12:45 p. m., and Jack Smith, fire commissioner, said the blaze which apparently started from an overheated wood stove was confined largely to the living room. Use of pails of water on the fire before firemen arrived helped save it from spreading, Smith said.

Same, Only 'More-So'

Los Angeles, Nov. 21 (AP)—Caltex of California today previewed its 1952 line of swim suits and came up, among other things, with a new name for the falsie. That important accessory for the girl whom nature short-changed is called "more-so." As did other California swim suit makers, Caltex also featured the outside falsie in its suits—a flying wing effect. The wing can be turned down for the girl with too little and up for others.

Injured in Collision

Eugene B. Kelly, R.D., Newburgh, suffered slight injuries of the nose and left knee in a car-truck collision at Broadway and McEntee street yesterday. The police report at 3:30 p. m., said Kelly was headed south on McEntee street and the truck, owned by Liberty Fast Freight Inc., Rochelle Park, N. J., was headed north on the street at the time. It was driven by Henry C. Noble, of Delmar. The car was towed from the scene.

About the Folks

Miss Betty Lawrence of 10 Sterling street has returned to her home after being a patient at the Kingston Hospital.

Mrs Sophie Church of 81 Elmendorf street has returned to her home from the Kingston Hospital.

Miss Gloria Paulucci of 338 Broadway has returned home from the Benedictine Hospital where she underwent an operation.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—A gentle upswing today took the stock market fractionally higher.

There was no great surge of buying but rather a persistent demand that caused the upturn.

The rails, steels and motors were among the best performers, but there were a number of other strong spots.

Gains ran to between 1 and 2 points in active areas while losses were held to fractions for the most part.

Trading never was heavy. The market started mixed on the higher side and almost wholly without feature. Within the first hour the upturn was positive.

Northern Pacific, which counts heavily on its oil revenue, was up nearly 2 points at times. In yesterday's short interest report as of Nov. 15, Northern Pacific turned out to be one of the big bear favorites with a short interest of around 71,000 as against 63,000 the previous month.

U. S. Effort Fails

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The government's attempt to punish an organization and five persons for their part in circulating the Stockholm peace appeal in this country has ended in failure. U. S. District Judge Matthew F. McGuire, who ended the case without allowing it to reach the jury, made it clear he was administering the law as he saw it, not approving the activities of the defendants. His decision is final, the government may not appeal.

Will Act to Cut Ban on Sports

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—Republican State Assemblyman R. Watson Pomeroy of Dutchess county said today he would introduce a bill in the 1952 Legislature providing for the elimination of a state ban on Sunday sporting events, including circuses.

His bill would place any ban on such events on a local ordinance basis. It would legalize all public sports, including horse racing, after 2 p. m. on passage of local ordinances in cities, towns and villages.

The bill would also permit such "individual participation sports" as golf, hunting and tennis at any hour during Sunday.

Section 2145 of the State Penal Code prohibits "shooting, hunting, playing, horse racing and other sports, exercises or shows" on Sunday with football, baseball, hockey and soccer being excepted after 2 p. m. providing local ordinances permit it.

Section 2152 bans circuses, boxing, sparring, comedy, opera, minstrelsy, rope dancers, and dramatic performances on Sunday. It was under this section that state police banned a circus scheduled at Poughkeepsie last June and also prevented Sunday stock car racing.

Pomeroy said he had sent a letter to clergymen saying "I believe this approach is a practical one and would secure the repose and religious liberty of the community."

KRUMVILLE

Krumville, Nov. 21—The Parent-Teacher Association will meet at the school house Thursday, Nov. 29. A discussion of methods of marking will be held and all members are requested to attend.

Miss Edith Jacobsen who is employed in Norwalk, Conn., spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arne Jacobsen.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bradley and son, Robert, spent the weekend with relatives in Brooklyn.

John Barringer is spending a few days with friends in Tillson.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Borchardt and Mrs. Robert Vollmer visited in Kingston Saturday.

Mr. and Hrs. Herbert Scheringer and sons, Gary, Ralph and Wayne, were in New York Sunday and visited Mrs. Scheringer's father who is ill.

Three Children Die

Bakers Mills, Nov. 21 (AP)—Three children perished in a farm house fire yesterday and their mother was injured seriously in an effort to save them. The victims, the only children of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Morehouse, were Wanda, 5, Betty, 4, and Morgan, Jr., one. Mrs. Morehouse, 22, was reported in serious condition at Glens Falls Hospital. State police said Mrs. Morehouse fell from a ladder she and a neighbor, Mrs. Melson Dunkley, had raised to a second-floor window of the house.

Will Build Library

Hackettstown, N. J., Nov. 21 (AP)—A $200,000 library will be built at Centenary Junior College from funds donated by three foundations. The largest gift, $125,000 in memory of a Yonkers, N. Y., couple who had met on the Centenary campus more than 60 years ago, was announced yesterday. The Surdna Foundation of Yonkers made the donation in memory of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Taylor of Yonkers. Taylor had been president of the foundation for many years.

Fire in Feldman Car

Firemen were called to a fire in the car of Nathan Feldman, 110 Wall street, near 327 Broadway at 8:49 a. m. today. The blaze, which firemen said apparently started from overflowed anti-freeze, was quenched before firemen arrived. A call at 3:40 p. m., yesterday was for a brush fire near 119 DeWitt street.

Sterley Explains Functions of Court

Litigation should be kept at a minimum and good will should prevail in Surrogate's Court proceedings, Surrogate Judge John B. Sterley told members of the Kingston Lions Club at a regular meeting Tuesday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Because that court deals with family members, the surrogate has the opportunity and the responsibility of assuaging strained family relations which often exist during the probate of a will, he said.

The Surrogate's Court, Judge Sterley explained, handles not only decedent's affairs, but also adoption proceedings. To see that an adopted child is placed in a home where he will be brought up, clothed, fed, loved and educated is a responsibility to be taken seriously, he said.

Judge Sterley advised his listeners to see a lawyer when making a will, just as they would go to a dentist to have a tooth pulled, or to a minister for spiritual guidance. Unless a will meets the requirements of law, it "just won't hold water," he pointed out, stressing the need for two witnesses and the attestation clause.

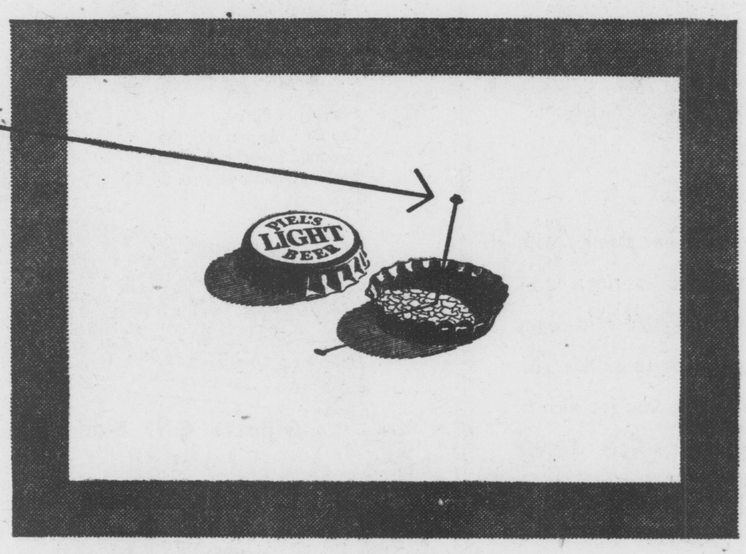
Why is Piel's dry as a beer can be?

ANSWER

Because a quart of Piel's contains no more sugar (N.F.S.) than could be placed on the head of a common pin.



According to Webster's Dictionary, "dry" means "lacking sweetness." In beer, dryness depends upon the absence of N.F.S. (non-fermented sugar) after the brewing process is completed. Therefore, the less N.F.S., the drier and more satisfying the beer.

Because it is brewed by a slower, costlier, more thorough brewing method—Piel's Beer contains LESS N. F. S. Actually, the amount of non-fermented sugar remaining in a quart of Piel's Beer is so little that it would fit easily on the head of an ordinary pin!

That's why Piel's is truly as "dry as a beer can be!" And that's why more people are enjoying Piel's today than ever before in our 68 years of brewing experience.

Sterley Explains Functions of Court

Litigation should be kept at a minimum and good will should prevail in Surrogate's Court proceedings, Surrogate Judge John B. Sterley told members of the Kingston Lions Club at a regular meeting Tuesday noon at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Because that court deals with family members, the surrogate has the opportunity and the responsibility of assuaging strained family relations which often exist during the probate of a will, he said.

The Surrogate's Court, Judge Sterley explained, handles not only decedent's affairs, but also adoption proceedings. To see that an adopted child is placed in a home where he will be brought up, clothed, fed, loved and educated is a responsibility to be taken seriously, he said.

Judge Sterley advised his listeners to see a lawyer when making a will, just as they would go to a dentist to have a tooth pulled, or to a minister for spiritual guidance. Unless a will meets the requirements of law, it "just won't hold water," he pointed out, stressing the need for two witnesses and the attestation clause.

ULSTER PARK

Ulster Park, Nov. 21—There will be preaching service as usual in the Reformed Dutch Church Sunday by the pastor, the Rev. Harry E. Christiana. There will be no session of the weekday school of religion on account of the holiday. The next session will be on November 29 at 2:30 p. m.

Lester Hutton who was injured several weeks ago in a tractor accident is still in the hospital.

The Women's League for Service will hold its annual supper meeting at Judie's on Albany avenue, Kingston, November 28 at 6 p. m. The business session will follow at the home of Mrs. Harry Christiana.

Ulster Grange, 969, will hold its next meeting this evening (Wednesday, Nov. 21) at 8 o'clock. A good attendance is desired. A Thanksgiving program will be in charge of the lecturer.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Winfield spent last Thursday in New York.

Would Drop Some Controls

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Senator Maybank (D-S.C.) said today he thinks price controls could be dropped on "a lot of things" selling below government ceilings. Maybank is chairman of a Senate-House Committee set up to keep an eye on operation of the Economic Controls Act. It will start hearings Monday on the progress of the defense production program and its accompanying price and wage controls. The first witnesses will be price boss Michael V. DiSalle and Manly Fleischmann, chief of the National Production Authority.

But, Most of All, a Day to Give Thanks---

Thanksgiving thoughts have a way of turning to turkey and the trimmings, family reunions, the big football game or maybe a hunting trip. But think deeply enough of Thanksgiving and your heart tells you that this is a day to thank Divine Providence for the abundance that is ours. Let the true spirit of this great American holiday pervade the day. And whether it be in church, in our own homes or in the great outdoors, let us not forget to Give Thanks to God.

Dietrich Files Suit

Santa Monica, Calif., Nov. 21 (AP)—Film executive Noah Dietrich has filed suit for annulment or divorce. In a separate maintenance suit his wife accused him last week of misconduct with actress Janis Carter. Dietrich denied those charges in his action yesterday. Miss Carter previously issued a denial. Dietrich said the 1936 Nevada divorce of his wife, Carol, 48, from Harold C. Moore was illegal because that state did not have jurisdiction. If this is not ground for annulment, he asked a divorce on grounds of mental suffering. Dietrich estimated his wealth at $1,014,626 and community property at $922,626. He offered his wife $750 a month alimony.

He Got It Back

Tokyo, Nov. 21 (AP)—A sailor—who prefers to remain anonymous—gave a pint of blood to a mobile blood bank that visited navy headquarters here yesterday. On his way back to work he collapsed. Shipmakes carried him back to the bloodbank, which returned his pint of blood.

BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

MR. SMITH
by Louis Bromfield

This story is about a man whom the author calls "Mr. Smith" to make him completely anonymous. For if ever a man reveals his innermost thoughts and mirrors his tortured soul, Mr. Smith does just that in this book.

Writing from a small island in the South Pacific where he, a Captain of the U. S. Army, together with a sergeant and three privates were stationed to guard food supplies, tells of his life in "The Jungle" with flashbacks to his life in the small mid-western city where he had heretofore always lived. Of the two places, he greatly preferred the steaming, stinking tropics to the well-ordered comfort of his home in Crescent City, because in the former he found peace and the joy of complete independence in his thoughts and actions, which he never had at home. Here in the jungle he can write freely and fully about the many things which had troubled him in his so-called civilized way of life—and that of the people around him—in his home town.

His portrayal of the domineering mother, whom he loathed, and her way of bringing up her family. Of his years in college, barren and unhappen except for one glimpse, on a week-end visit, of luxurious, gracious and unconventional living at the beautiful home of a classmate. Of his diversions and frustrations and of the one real love in his life. His remarks about the futility of college for most students will not be appreciated by educators. He says that in his case the university served only to arrest his development and to prolong his adolescence. All he got from college was great pleasure in reading because he came under the observation of a professor who taught that subject extremely well.

Mr. Smith's married life from first to last was devastating. Almost from the beginning he realized that his wife, Enid, was a stupid, shallow superficial woman whose horizons never extended beyond her husband, her children, her material possessions and her limited round of bridge, movies and cocktail parties with the same crowd in endless repetition. And she would never, never allow him to be free from her all-enveloping participation in his every thought and act. He grew so bored with the endless chatter about small details of Enid's home life — "Fortified bread"; "Drapes"; interior decorators and other drivel. When he tried to brake away even to the extent of an occasional innocent evening of reading in the locked rumpus room, Enid acted like a spoiled child deprived of a toy. With her there was no intellectual companionship at all.

Occasionally he sought relief in trips to conventions with some of his cronies. Even then Enid usually forced him to take her along. One of these trips ended tragically for one of the men in a brothel in New Orleans. Fortunately Enid did not go along that time, but she found out the carefully guarded secret about just what happened—and made suitable remarks. That was the final straw. Mr. Smith decided that he had to get away. The war gave him his chance. There is mystery about why he did not return.

When he writes about the jungle, he paints a revealing picture of his four companions from four totally different backgrounds thrown together on that grim Pacific outpost. It has been said that the army brings out the best or worst in men and that was clearly demonstrated by the actions of these men. Each showed up very well except Homer, the ignorant, vicious southern hill-billy. His habits and actions at the start were atrocious, and grew steadily worse. The Sergeant, while growing constantly more and more disillusioned by army mis-management, continued to be a good soldier. The farm boy from Arkansas and the Jew from Brooklyn accepted their lot with good grace. The beautiful exhibition of unselfishness given by the sergeant and the Arkansas boy in trying to get leave (although it meant cancellation of their own) for the Jewish boy to get home to the bedside of his dying mother is an example of the army at its best.

For a short time Mr. Smith achieved happiness with Mary, a charming heiress whom he had known from childhood. Each had been disappointed in marriage and their delayed happiness together might have lasted but for a strange dramatic revelation of Mary's pitiful secret vice in one agonizing episode.

There is drama, action, philosophy and much fair criticism of the shallowness and futility of our modern manners and customs. Like a strong breeze blowing through the fabric of our present day social structure, the actor shakes out its faulty shoddy and compares it with the sturdy homespun woven by our pioneering forefathers. It makes one wonder if our so-called high standard of living means progress.

Feminine Neckties

You can add a colorful touch to blouses by making a series of varicolored narrow neckties of ribbon or cotton or silk fabric, to cross beneath a collar and fasten with a decorative pin. These should be about an inch wide and as long as a man's bow tie. Several colors may be worn together.

Ulster Park, Nov. 21—There will be preaching service as usual in the Reformed Dutch Church Sunday by the pastor, the Rev. Harry E. Christiana. There will be no session of the weekday school of religion on account of the holiday. The next session will be on November 29 at 2:30 p. m.

Lester Hutton who was injured several weeks ago in a tractor accident is still in the hospital.

The Women's League for Service will hold its annual supper meeting at Judie's on Albany avenue, Kingston, November 28 at 6 p. m. The business session will follow at the home of Mrs. Harry Christiana.

Ulster Grange, 969, will hold its next meeting this evening (Wednesday, Nov. 21) at 8 o'clock. A good attendance is desired. A Thanksgiving program will be in charge of the lecturer.

Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Winfield spent last Thursday in New York.

Would Drop Some Controls

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Senator Maybank (D-S.C.) said today he thinks price controls could be dropped on "a lot of things" selling below government ceilings. Maybank is chairman of a Senate-House Committee set up to keep an eye on operation of the Economic Controls Act. It will start hearings Monday on the progress of the defense production program and its accompanying price and wage controls. The first witnesses will be price boss Michael V. DiSalle and Manly Fleischmann, chief of the National Production Authority.

But, Most of All, a Day to Give Thanks---

Thanksgiving thoughts have a way of turning to turkey and the trimmings, family reunions, the big football game or maybe a hunting trip. But think deeply enough of Thanksgiving and your heart tells you that this is a day to thank Divine Providence for the abundance that is ours. Let the true spirit of this great American holiday pervade the day. And whether it be in church, in our own homes or in the great outdoors, let us not forget to Give Thanks to God.

Dietrich Files Suit

Santa Monica, Calif., Nov. 21 (AP)—Film executive Noah Dietrich has filed suit for annulment or divorce. In a separate maintenance suit his wife accused him last week of misconduct with actress Janis Carter. Dietrich denied those charges in his action yesterday. Miss Carter previously issued a denial. Dietrich said the 1936 Nevada divorce of his wife, Carol, 48, from Harold C. Moore was illegal because that state did not have jurisdiction. If this is not ground for annulment, he asked a divorce on grounds of mental suffering. Dietrich estimated his wealth at $1,014,626 and community property at $922,626. He offered his wife $750 a month alimony.

He Got It Back

Tokyo, Nov. 21 (AP)—A sailor—who prefers to remain anonymous—gave a pint of blood to a mobile blood bank that visited navy headquarters here yesterday. On his way back to work he collapsed. Shipmakes carried him back to the bloodbank, which returned his pint of blood.

BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

MR. SMITH
by Louis Bromfield

This story is about a man whom the author calls "Mr. Smith" to make him completely anonymous. For if ever a man reveals his innermost thoughts and mirrors his tortured soul, Mr. Smith does just that in this book.

Writing from a small island in the South Pacific where he, a Captain of the U. S. Army, together with a sergeant and three privates were stationed to guard food supplies, tells of his life in "The Jungle" with flashbacks to his life in the small mid-western city where he had heretofore always lived. Of the two places, he greatly preferred the steaming, stinking tropics to the well-ordered comfort of his home in Crescent City, because in the former he found peace and the joy of complete independence in his thoughts and actions, which he never had at home. Here in the jungle he can write freely and fully about the many things which had troubled him in his so-called civilized way of life—and that of the people around him—in his home town.

His portrayal of the domineering mother, whom he loathed, and her way of bringing up her family. Of his years in college, barren and unhappen except for one glimpse, on a week-end visit, of luxurious, gracious and unconventional living at the beautiful home of a classmate. Of his diversions and frustrations and of the one real love in his life. His remarks about the futility of college for most students will not be appreciated by educators. He says that in his case the university served only to arrest his development and to prolong his adolescence. All he got from college was great pleasure in reading because he came under the observation of a professor who taught that subject extremely well.

Mr. Smith's married life from first to last was devastating. Almost from the beginning he realized that his wife, Enid, was a stupid, shallow superficial woman whose horizons never extended beyond her husband, her children, her material possessions and her limited round of bridge, movies and cocktail parties with the same crowd in endless repetition. And she would never, never allow him to be free from her all-enveloping participation in his every thought and act. He grew so bored with the endless chatter about small details of Enid's home life — "Fortified bread"; "Drapes"; interior decorators and other drivel. When he tried to brake away even to the extent of an occasional innocent evening of reading in the locked rumpus room, Enid acted like a spoiled child deprived of a toy. With her there was no intellectual companionship at all.

Occasionally he sought relief in trips to conventions with some of his cronies. Even then Enid usually forced him to take her along. One of these trips ended tragically for one of the men in a brothel in New Orleans. Fortunately Enid did not go along that time, but she found out the carefully guarded secret about just what happened—and made suitable remarks. That was the final straw. Mr. Smith decided that he had to get away. The war gave him his chance. There is mystery about why he did not return.

When he writes about the jungle, he paints a revealing picture of his four companions from four totally different backgrounds thrown together on that grim Pacific outpost. It has been said that the army brings out the best or worst in men and that was clearly demonstrated by the actions of these men. Each showed up very well except Homer, the ignorant, vicious southern hill-billy. His habits and actions at the start were atrocious, and grew steadily worse. The Sergeant, while growing constantly more and more disillusioned by army mis-management, continued to be a good soldier. The farm boy from Arkansas and the Jew from Brooklyn accepted their lot with good grace. The beautiful exhibition of unselfishness given by the sergeant and the Arkansas boy in trying to get leave (although it meant cancellation of their own) for the Jewish boy to get home to the bedside of his dying mother is an example of the army at its best.

For a short time Mr. Smith achieved happiness with Mary, a charming heiress whom he had known from childhood. Each had been disappointed in marriage and their delayed happiness together might have lasted but for a strange dramatic revelation of Mary's pitiful secret vice in one agonizing episode.

There is drama, action, philosophy and much fair criticism of the shallowness and futility of our modern manners and customs. Like a strong breeze blowing through the fabric of our present day social structure, the actor shakes out its faulty shoddy and compares it with the sturdy homespun woven by our pioneering forefathers. It makes one wonder if our so-called high standard of living means progress.

Feminine Neckties

You can add a colorful touch to blouses by making a series of varicolored narrow neckties of ribbon or cotton or silk fabric, to cross beneath a collar and fasten with a decorative pin. These should be about an inch wide and as long as a man's bow tie. Several colors may be worn together.

Lecture schools for 1952 Program Planning will begin next week, according to Florence C. Pickett of Rock City Falls, state lecturer. There will be eight conferences held in convenient locations around the state, three before the first of the year and five in January. Although the staff is not complete at present, Program Planning, Cooperative activities, Publicity and Recreation Leadership will be stressed. These conferences are pleasant and instructive affairs thoroughly enjoyed by lecturers and visitors who attend. Granges should make certain that their lecturer attends the nearest school. The first three will be in the north country: Watertown, November 27-28, at the YMCA; Malone Grange Hall, Malone, November 29-30; and Saratoga Springs, December 11-12, in the First Methodist Church. We will announce the January dates and places in a later column. These schools will follow at Jamestown, Canandaigua, Ithaca, Oneonta and Kingston.

Community Service Contest awards announced at National Grange sessions in Atlantic City, Monday afternoon, November 19, finds first place, with the coveted $15,000 cash prize going to Goehner Grange, Seward county, Nebraska. This small Grange, which has placed high in the first ten in previous year's competition, has won a well-deserved victory.

Glenridge Grange No. 1544, of Schenectady county, which took first place in New York, and won recognition among the top eleven Granges in the country, was given an Honorable Mention, and will receive $500 and a plaque. This Grange, together with many others in the state, has already announced plans for entering the 1952 contest.

Rural Church Institute announces its annual meeting at Barnes Hall, Ithaca, November 30, in a day-long session which will include many well-known speakers and some interesting discussion groups.

Rural Youth Conference, sponsored by RCI, is scheduled for Watkins Glen, December 7, 8 and 9. A splendid program of fun and instruction built around the theme: My Changing Role in Rural Living, promises to attract a record attendance of young people from all farm organizations in the state.

National Grange Master Herschel B. Newsom, keynoting the 85th annual sessions at Atlantic City this week, said, "A justified sense of pride in our record and a realization of opportunity and challenge, along with a determination to serve, are the proud possessions of Grange. With a steady and continuous growth in strength, in numbers and prestige we are better able to serve America and American agriculture than ever before in our history."

WINTER GARB IN KOREA—Here are the winter uniforms worn by troops on both sides while fighting in Korea's severe winter cold. At left, lined up by a U. S. Army photographer are uniforms of the North Korean army, Chinese Communist forces and the Republic of Korea army, fighting with UN forces against the former two. These three consist largely of rough, quilted material with bulky padding. At right is the new cold-weather gear for U. S. soldiers in Korea. Designed in layers of warm and weather-repellant materials, the G.I. outfit evolved from long tests by the Army of thousands of types of clothing. (U. S. Army photos from NEA-Acme.)

Pygmies Wear Surplus

Columbus, O. (AP)—A lot of pygmies in Africa are wearing Army surplus shirts with "PW" on the back. They're not prisoners of war. The shirts represent the pay William Said, Columbus hunter, gave them for helping him capture gorillas. He explained pygmies want clothes most of all. Said recently returned from a two-month African safari with two gorillas, a mustachioed monkey, a chimpanzee, and an African otter.

Finish Canasta for Fast Out

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"What is the correct play in this situation?" asks an Ann Arbor correspondent. "It was the first deal of a game, so both sides needed only 50 points for the initial meld. The dealer turned up a red three, freezing the pack. The next up-card was a five.

"I drew from the stock pile and then held:

K-K-K 7-7-7 6-6 5-4 2-2.

"I decided that my hand was well-suited to playing for a fast out but was not much good for a long struggle for the pack. Hence I melded the three kings and one deuce, and discarded the five.

"The next player discarded a six, and my partner drew from the stock. He then added two kings to my meld and also put down three tens and three nines. He ended his play by discarding a black three.

"The next player made a safe discard, and I drew a five from the stock. My hand was:

7-7-7 6-6 5-4-2.

"What should I have done?"

The best play is to add the deuce to the kings, completing a canasta. Next, meld the three sevens. End your play by discarding the five.

Your first meld announced that you wanted to play for a fast out rather than compete for the frozen pack. Your partner enthusiastically accepted the invitation by melding eight cards from his hand. The chief question is whether or not to use your own deuce to complete the canasta.

If you hold the deuce, you will be out as soon as you draw a six, a king, or another wild card; or as soon as your partner completes the canasta for you. If you use the deuce to complete the canasta, you will be out as soon as you draw a six or another wild card.

In other words, putting down the deuce hurts you very little. There are five kings already in sight, so you don't have a very big chance to draw another in the near future.

The advantage of melding the deuce is that your partner may be out as soon as the canastas is made for him. That is very likely to be the meaning of his enthusiastic meld, and you must not spoil his chances for the sake of improving.

"I'LL BEAT ANY DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE . . ." — In aggressive mood in Harrisburg, Pa., Sen. Robert A. Taft (R. O.) repeats his challenging prediction, "I'll beat any Democratic candidate." The candidate for the GOP presidential nomination emphasized it with such energetic gestures that the news camera caught only the blur of his right hand.

Crozier Is Convicted

San Francisco, Nov. 21 (AP)—John P. Crozier, 59, was convicted yesterday of slaying his landlady in San Francisco nearly 29 years ago. The jury recommended life imprisonment for the strangling and robbery of Mrs. Elizabeth Platt on Jan. 13, 1922. The crime had remained on police ledgers as unsolved. Then, a year ago Crozier was arrested in Darien, Conn., for vagrancy. Police there said he babbled a partial confession to the 1922 slaying. But when he was returned to California to face murder charges, he insisted that he had confessed in Connecticut only to escape spending a frigid New England winter in jail.

Plane Explodes, Two Are Killed

Bedford, Pa., Nov. 21 (AP)—A man and a woman whose airplane had been guided to a safe landing only a few hours before crashed to their death three miles from Bedford yesterday.

Police identified the victims as W. L. Doyle, about 36, of Toledo, O. and Mrs. Virginia Bartlett, also about 36, of Indianapolis.

At Toledo, Boyle's wife said Mrs. Bartlett had been a secretary and business associate of Doyle.

In Washington, D. C., Capt. Millard Lossing of Pittsburgh, All American Airways pilot said he encountered the couple while piloting his 24-passenger DC-3 from Pittsburgh.

Lossing said he was between Altoona, Pa., and Hagerstown, Md., when he heard Doyle report he was lost, running low on gasoline and buffeted by strong northwest winds.

Lossing climbed from 3,000 to 4,500 feet, spotted it above the cloud layer and guided it down to a landing at Hagerstown airport.

Doyle, who said he was en route from Harrisburg to Dayton, O. spent an hour and 20 minutes refueling at Hagerstown, then took off again.

A few hours later the plane exploded in air, the wreckage plunging into a wood south of Bedford at the base of Wills Mountain.

Students Earn Extra Money

New York (AP)—Students at Columbia University earned more than $2 million in spare time jobs during the past academic year. The university's placement bureau says part-time jobs held by the students ranged from chasing flies in major league baseball practice and composing verses for greeting cards to filing and clerical positions with banks and insurance companies. The rate of pay for "practically all" part-time work was $1.00 per hour.

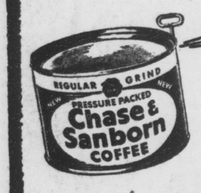
TODAY WE HAVE FAN MALES!

"We have tried the new 'Pressure Packed' Chase & Sanborn Coffee and will have to brag on it, as it is mighty nice. The flavor is there!"

Mr. W. W. Clark, Pittsburg, Kansas.

"When you open 'Pressure Packed' Chase & Sanborn, hear that S-s-s-s, and sniff the grand aroma—that's anticipation. And when you taste that flavor—that's realization!"

Mr. James Davidson, Ypsilanti, Mich.



Psst! With Pressure it's fresher—far richer in important flavor elements! Enjoy it yourself—today!

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

SOCIETIES • CLUBS • PERSONALS

Russia Is Topic For Sorosis Talk

Russia was the topic for a talk presented to members of Sorosis by Mrs. Edward Rick at the regular meeting of the organization held Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Boyd Williams, 192 Pine street.

The speaker gave a brief but all inclusive outline of the size, population, government, climate and natural resources of Russia, as well as a short description of Commissar Stalin and the methods he employs in ruling some 600 million persons living in Russia and its satellite countries.

Mrs. William Ochs, president, reported on the resolutions adopted by the State Federation of Women's Clubs when they convened recently in Elmira and which Mrs. Ochs attended as a delegate. She also quoted excerpts from speeches made by several prominent personalities including Senator Richard M. Nixon of California and Mrs. Dorothy Lewis, UN radio commentator.

For the next meeting the members will have their annual Christmas party at Judie's restaurant on Dec. 10, at 1 p. m.

Thanksgiving Service

The annual Thanksgiving Day service will be held by Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church, Livingston street, Thursday at 10 a. m. The Rev. Ernest L. Witte will preach on the theme, A Sacrifice of Praise to God. The mixed choir and the junior choir will sing festival selections. The public is invited.

Church Women Make Plans for Preaching Mission Next Week

Plans for the Pre-Advent Preaching Mission scheduled to be held in Kingston during the week of Nov. 25 to Dec. 1 were discussed in detail by members of the board of managers of the Kingston Council of Church Women Monday evening at the Rondout Presbyterian and Wurts Street Baptist Church.

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, Protestant evangelist and missionary to India, will be the featured speaker at the mission.

Dr. Jones will meet with the United Church Women's group next Tuesday, Nov. 27, at 3 p. m. when a meditation service will be held at the First Baptist Church, Albany avenue.

The Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church acting as hostess for the program, has arranged for a tea and fellowship hour following the service when spiritual life problems will be discussed with Dr. Jones.

The Council has issued a cordial invitation to all church women to attend the meeting.

Will Meet Friday

Realizing that the success of this mission depends upon the support and prayers of all Christian women in the city, the board of managers will meet for prayer and meditation Friday, Nov. 23, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. H. P. Van Wagenen, 17 John street. All women of the city are invited.

During Monday night's meeting, a report of World Community Day announced the shipment of 88 blankets to the Church World Service Center in Maryland where they will be sent for Korean and European relief. As a further continuance of caring for those less fortunate, the board has decided to ask church societies to collect worn nylon stockings for the Japanese women who unravel old ones and recreate them into stockings and garments for their own use. Persons wishing to donate to this cause may contact presidents of their church societies or else Mrs. Ackerly, 244 Fair street.

Plans Prayer Groups

It also was announced at the meeting Monday that the United Council has decided to form study and prayer groups in order to better understand the problems of the world and to work for peace. The groups will work under the theme, Live Thy Faith of World Community Day. Persons desiring to join such a group may call presidents of the various societies or Mrs. Elsie Pultz.

Mrs. John Gardner, area vice-president of the State Council of Women, reported on the work of this movement and the recent meeting. She stressed the various social service projects in Beacon, Rhinebeck and Poughkeepsie.

A fellowship hour followed and tea was served by ladies of the Service Guild of the hostess church.

Navy Man and Bride Have Church Wedding

Joan Kilmer Weds G. D. Dewhurst, USN

The marriage of Miss Joan Viola Kilmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Kilmer, Sr., 63 Ponckhockie street, to George David Dewhurst, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dewhurst, Cumberland, Indiana, took place Sunday afternoon, Nov. 18, at two o'clock in the Albany Avenue Baptist Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Donald E. Brown, pastor. A reception for 125 guests was held at Roseland Restaurant.

Musical selections were played on the organ by Mrs. Donald E. Brown. Miss Arline Craw, soloist, sang Because; I Love You Truly; and O Promise Me. The church was decorated with candles, baskets of pompons and white ribbons on the pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin with full skirt, bodice of seed pearls and rhinestones, Peter Pan collar, long pointed sleeves, with a train measuring three yards. A half bonnet of French illusion lace, held her three-quarter length veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Philip Greer, 63 Ponckhockie street, was her sister's matron of honor. Her gown was made of light green taffeta with short sleeves, a bodice of satin, and full skirt with satin bows. A half bonnet with a plume and mitts completed the costume. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The bride's cousin, Cheryl Lee Fitzsimmons, was flower girl. She wore a yellow satin gown with short sleeves, full skirt with bustle, half bonnet and mitts, and carried a basket of roses in mixed colors.

Maurice Allen Dewhurst of Cumberland, Indiana, was his brother's best man. William W. Kilmer, Jr., brother of the bride, and Philip Greer, brother-in-law of the bride, were the ushers. Howard W. Griffin, Jr., nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

The couple left for a trip through New York state. For traveling the bride wore an aqua suit with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. They will reside with the bride's parents.

Mrs. Dewhurst is employed by the Fuller Shirt Company, Inc. Mr. Dewhurst graduated from Arsenal Technical High School and attended Lains College, both in Indianapolis, Ind. He is a veteran of World War 2, and is now serving with the U. S. Navy at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Laugh Artist Will Emcee Show Tonight

Stan Irwin has earned the well deserved reputation of being an artist in the field of making folks laugh. He is one of the leading comedians of stage and television and will act as Master of Ceremonies for the 15th annual Thanksgiving Eve Ball to be sponsored by the Congregation of Ahavath Israel, tonight in the municipal auditorium when the capacity audience which is expected will have an opportunity to laugh aplenty at his trigger quick wit and his new and different material. He never fails to delight his audiences and has been featured at all leading night clubs from coast to coast.

Art Class to Meet

Because of Thanksgiving vacation the West Shokan adult education class in art will meet Wednesday evening instead of Thursday this week in the West Shokan School. Following the holidays the regular schedule will be resumed.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Baker and daughter, Donna Carol, of Troy will be weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Baker of Glenford.

Glenn O. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison A. Brown of Kerhonkson, has been honored by election to White Key, sophomore men's honor society at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, where he is a student in the management engineering department. Members are selected on the basis of extra-curricular activity, scholarship and school spirit. A graduate of Kerhonkson Union School, Brown is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, the Campus Chest committee, the Glee Club, and the Army ROTC unit at RPI.

Pauline Brusnicki Weds Matthew Rauch

The marriage of Miss Pauline Marie Brusnicki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus J. Brusnicki, 16 Churchill street, Springfield, Mass., to Matthew Joseph Rauch, 37 Wellesley street, Weston, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Rauch, Accord, took place in the Holy Name Church, Springfield, on Saturday, Nov. 17, at 9 a. m. The Rt. Rev. Monsignor George S. L. Connor, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony. A reception for 120 guests followed at the Hotel Sheraton, Springfield.

Miss Mary O'Connell, soloist, accompanied on the organ by C. Irving Guyer, sang Ave Maria, Panis Angelicus and Beautiful Mother. The church was decorated with white chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Chantilly lace gown with portrait neckline, fitted bodice, and full skirt over nylon tulle. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses with an orchid in the center.

Miss Wanda J. Brusnicki was her sister's maid of honor, while another sister, Miss Betty Brusnicki and Mrs. Ann B. McCormick, 21 Beechwood avenue, Springfield, cousin of the bride, were the bridesmaids. The honor attendants wore velveteen gowns with tight fitting bodices and cloche bonnets in jewel tones and carried white pompons.

Henry Rauch of Brooklyn was his brother's best man. The ushers were Thaddeus Skornik, Elmhurst and Charles E. McCormick, Springfield.

Upon their return from a trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the couple will live at 2 Beach street, Newtonville, Mass. For traveling, the bride wore a hunter green suit with brown accessories.

Mrs. Rauch graduated from the High School of Commerce in Springfield and is employed in the personnel office of the Springfield Armory.

Mr. Rauch is a graduate of Kerhonkson High School. He attended the University of Missouri and graduated from Springfield College, Mass. He is employed as a teacher of physical education in the Weston, Mass., public school system.

Russia Is Topic For Sorosis Talk

Russia was the topic for a talk presented to members of Sorosis by Mrs. Edward Rick at the regular meeting of the organization held Monday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Boyd Williams, 192 Pine street.

The speaker gave a brief but all inclusive outline of the size, population, government, climate and natural resources of Russia, as well as a short description of Commissar Stalin and the methods he employs in ruling some 600 million persons living in Russia and its satellite countries.

Mrs. William Ochs, president, reported on the resolutions adopted by the State Federation of Women's Clubs when they convened recently in Elmira and which Mrs. Ochs attended as a delegate. She also quoted excerpts from speeches made by several prominent personalities including Senator Richard M. Nixon of California and Mrs. Dorothy Lewis, UN radio commentator.

For the next meeting the members will have their annual Christmas party at Judie's restaurant on Dec. 10, at 1 p. m.

Thanksgiving Service

The annual Thanksgiving Day service will be held by Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church, Livingston street, Thursday at 10 a. m. The Rev. Ernest L. Witte will preach on the theme, A Sacrifice of Praise to God. The mixed choir and the junior choir will sing festival selections. The public is invited.

Church Women Make Plans for Preaching Mission Next Week

Plans for the Pre-Advent Preaching Mission scheduled to be held in Kingston during the week of Nov. 25 to Dec. 1 were discussed in detail by members of the board of managers of the Kingston Council of Church Women Monday evening at the Rondout Presbyterian and Wurts Street Baptist Church.

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, Protestant evangelist and missionary to India, will be the featured speaker at the mission.

Dr. Jones will meet with the United Church Women's group next Tuesday, Nov. 27, at 3 p. m. when a meditation service will be held at the First Baptist Church, Albany avenue.

The Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church acting as hostess for the program, has arranged for a tea and fellowship hour following the service when spiritual life problems will be discussed with Dr. Jones.

The Council has issued a cordial invitation to all church women to attend the meeting.

Will Meet Friday

Realizing that the success of this mission depends upon the support and prayers of all Christian women in the city, the board of managers will meet for prayer and meditation Friday, Nov. 23, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. H. P. Van Wagenen, 17 John street. All women of the city are invited.

During Monday night's meeting, a report of World Community Day announced the shipment of 88 blankets to the Church World Service Center in Maryland where they will be sent for Korean and European relief. As a further continuance of caring for those less fortunate, the board has decided to ask church societies to collect worn nylon stockings for the Japanese women who unravel old ones and recreate them into stockings and garments for their own use. Persons wishing to donate to this cause may contact presidents of their church societies or else Mrs. Ackerly, 244 Fair street.

Plans Prayer Groups

It also was announced at the meeting Monday that the United Council has decided to form study and prayer groups in order to better understand the problems of the world and to work for peace. The groups will work under the theme, Live Thy Faith of World Community Day. Persons desiring to join such a group may call presidents of the various societies or Mrs. Elsie Pultz.

Mrs. John Gardner, area vice-president of the State Council of Women, reported on the work of this movement and the recent meeting. She stressed the various social service projects in Beacon, Rhinebeck and Poughkeepsie.

A fellowship hour followed and tea was served by ladies of the Service Guild of the hostess church.

Navy Man and Bride Have Church Wedding

Joan Kilmer Weds G. D. Dewhurst, USN

The marriage of Miss Joan Viola Kilmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Kilmer, Sr., 63 Ponckhockie street, to George David Dewhurst, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dewhurst, Cumberland, Indiana, took place Sunday afternoon, Nov. 18, at two o'clock in the Albany Avenue Baptist Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Donald E. Brown, pastor. A reception for 125 guests was held at Roseland Restaurant.

Musical selections were played on the organ by Mrs. Donald E. Brown. Miss Arline Craw, soloist, sang Because; I Love You Truly; and O Promise Me. The church was decorated with candles, baskets of pompons and white ribbons on the pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white slipper satin with full skirt, bodice of seed pearls and rhinestones, Peter Pan collar, long pointed sleeves, with a train measuring three yards. A half bonnet of French illusion lace, held her three-quarter length veil and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Philip Greer, 63 Ponckhockie street, was her sister's matron of honor. Her gown was made of light green taffeta with short sleeves, a bodice of satin, and full skirt with satin bows. A half bonnet with a plume and mitts completed the costume. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The bride's cousin, Cheryl Lee Fitzsimmons, was flower girl. She wore a yellow satin gown with short sleeves, full skirt with bustle, half bonnet and mitts, and carried a basket of roses in mixed colors.

Maurice Allen Dewhurst of Cumberland, Indiana, was his brother's best man. William W. Kilmer, Jr., brother of the bride, and Philip Greer, brother-in-law of the bride, were the ushers. Howard W. Griffin, Jr., nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

The couple left for a trip through New York state. For traveling the bride wore an aqua suit with brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. They will reside with the bride's parents.

Mrs. Dewhurst is employed by the Fuller Shirt Company, Inc. Mr. Dewhurst graduated from Arsenal Technical High School and attended Lains College, both in Indianapolis, Ind. He is a veteran of World War 2, and is now serving with the U. S. Navy at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

Laugh Artist Will Emcee Show Tonight

Stan Irwin has earned the well deserved reputation of being an artist in the field of making folks laugh. He is one of the leading comedians of stage and television and will act as Master of Ceremonies for the 15th annual Thanksgiving Eve Ball to be sponsored by the Congregation of Ahavath Israel, tonight in the municipal auditorium when the capacity audience which is expected will have an opportunity to laugh aplenty at his trigger quick wit and his new and different material. He never fails to delight his audiences and has been featured at all leading night clubs from coast to coast.

Art Class to Meet

Because of Thanksgiving vacation the West Shokan adult education class in art will meet Wednesday evening instead of Thursday this week in the West Shokan School. Following the holidays the regular schedule will be resumed.

Personal Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Baker and daughter, Donna Carol, of Troy will be weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Baker of Glenford.

Glenn O. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison A. Brown of Kerhonkson, has been honored by election to White Key, sophomore men's honor society at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, where he is a student in the management engineering department. Members are selected on the basis of extra-curricular activity, scholarship and school spirit. A graduate of Kerhonkson Union School, Brown is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, the Campus Chest committee, the Glee Club, and the Army ROTC unit at RPI.

Pauline Brusnicki Weds Matthew Rauch

The marriage of Miss Pauline Marie Brusnicki, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus J. Brusnicki, 16 Churchill street, Springfield, Mass., to Matthew Joseph Rauch, 37 Wellesley street, Weston, Mass., son of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Rauch, Accord, took place in the Holy Name Church, Springfield, on Saturday, Nov. 17, at 9 a. m. The Rt. Rev. Monsignor George S. L. Connor, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony. A reception for 120 guests followed at the Hotel Sheraton, Springfield.

Miss Mary O'Connell, soloist, accompanied on the organ by C. Irving Guyer, sang Ave Maria, Panis Angelicus and Beautiful Mother. The church was decorated with white chrysanthemums.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a Chantilly lace gown with portrait neckline, fitted bodice, and full skirt over nylon tulle. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses with an orchid in the center.

Miss Wanda J. Brusnicki was her sister's maid of honor, while another sister, Miss Betty Brusnicki and Mrs. Ann B. McCormick, 21 Beechwood avenue, Springfield, cousin of the bride, were the bridesmaids. The honor attendants wore velveteen gowns with tight fitting bodices and cloche bonnets in jewel tones and carried white pompons.

Henry Rauch of Brooklyn was his brother's best man. The ushers were Thaddeus Skornik, Elmhurst and Charles E. McCormick, Springfield.

Upon their return from a trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania, the couple will live at 2 Beach street, Newtonville, Mass. For traveling, the bride wore a hunter green suit with brown accessories.

Mrs. Rauch graduated from the High School of Commerce in Springfield and is employed in the personnel office of the Springfield Armory.

Mr. Rauch is a graduate of Kerhonkson High School. He attended the University of Missouri and graduated from Springfield College, Mass. He is employed as a teacher of physical education in the Weston, Mass., public school system.

Star's Gowns in Twinkling Tradition

This is the wardrobe designed for actress Eleanor Parker by Don Loper for a personal appearance tour. Short evening gown (left) is gleaming gold sheath covered with cut-out gold-embroidered black velvet and topped with black velvet coat that has huge black fox cuffs. Costume for late-day (center) is raspberry red faille taffeta worn over pleated petticoat of moonstone blue. Cape-coat (right) in black-and-white wool is lined in red crepe to match slim sheath dress beneath.

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

New York—(NEA)—There are stars in Hollywood who always adhere to the rule that when a movie star goes on a personal appearance tour, she should look like a movie star. Actress Eleanor Parker is one of these. No mink coats flung over slacks for her, no unkempt hair, no loafers.

On tour in connection with her newest picture, "A Millionaire for Christy," Miss Parker wears the wardrobe designed for her by Don Loper. The fashions in it are clothes any woman would like to own and might like to copy, adapting them to her own way of life.

A favorite of Miss Parker's for evening wear is a short gown that's a gleaming gold sheath dramatized by cut-out gold-embroidered black velvet. Over this goes a black velvet coat, and the cuffs have huge circles of black fox trimmings.

For late-day wear, there's a full, flared skirt and a sleeveless wesket asymetrically buttoned, both in raspberry red faille worn over a moonstone blue pleated petticoat. Neckline is cut wide and low; waistline is trim.

For travel, Miss Parker has a cape-coat in black-and-white checkerboard wool lined in red wool crepe to match the sheath dress that's worn underneath. The dress has a sabre neckline and narrow belt.

Jean Kenyon Weds Pfc. Morton Gazlay November 16 in Upstate Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Jean Louise Kenyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee W. Kenyon of Dundee and Pfc. Morton Emil Gazlay, United States Marine Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Gazlay, RFD 3, Kingston, was solemnized Friday, Nov. 16, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sebring in Altay. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Benjamin Disbrow, pastor of the Dundee Baptist Church.

Decorations at the home included a mantle banked with evergreen, flanked by white candles and baskets of white mums.

The bride wore a ballerina gown of white lace, stand up Peterpan collar and gathered skirt over hoop. Her finger-tip veil of nylon tulle was attached to a head band of matching lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of white rosebuds and pompons.

Miss Lynn E. Freelove, of Whitney Point, as maid of honor, wore a cinnamon nylon net gown over pink tafetta ballerina length hoop skirt and carried a colonial bouquet of bronze and gold pompons.

Robert Davenport of Accord was the best man.

For traveling, Mrs. Gazlay chose a navy blue suit with navy blue and white accessories.

Mrs. Gazlay was graduated from the Dundee Central School and is now a senior at Cornell University. Pfc. Gazlay was graduated from Kingston High School, attended Ithaca College and in April, 1951, joined the U. S. Marines. He took boot training at Parris Island, S. C. He recently completed a radio operator's course in San Diego, Calif.

Temple Emanuel Sisterhood Told of Emergency Plans

The Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel held its monthly meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Harris Brown, West Hurley. After a short business meeting, members discussed the set-up in the Temple for the feeding of evacuees of large cities in case of emergency. They were told by the chairman of that committee that the group was already enrolled in civilian defense and that a committee for that purpose has been completely formed.

A report was given by the chairman of the week in which members had filled the booths in both movie theatres for civilian defense. Other reports included the annual supper and the Odds and Ends Shop. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

NEA Woman's Editor

New York—(NEA)—There are stars in Hollywood who always adhere to the rule that when a movie star goes on a personal appearance tour, she should look like a movie star. Actress Eleanor Parker is one of these. No mink coats flung over slacks for her, no unkempt hair, no loafers.

On tour in connection with her newest picture, "A Millionaire for Christy," Miss Parker wears the wardrobe designed for her by Don Loper. The fashions in it are clothes any woman would like to own and might like to copy, adapting them to her own way of life.

A favorite of Miss Parker's for evening wear is a short gown that's a gleaming gold sheath dramatized by cut-out gold-embroidered black velvet. Over this goes a black velvet coat, and the cuffs have huge circles of black fox trimmings.

For late-day wear, there's a full, flared skirt and a sleeveless wesket asymetrically buttoned, both in raspberry red faille worn over a moonstone blue pleated petticoat. Neckline is cut wide and low; waistline is trim.

For travel, Miss Parker has a cape-coat in black-and-white checkerboard wool lined in red wool crepe to match the sheath dress that's worn underneath. The dress has a sabre neckline and narrow belt.

Jean Kenyon Weds Pfc. Morton Gazlay November 16 in Upstate Ceremony

The marriage of Miss Jean Louise Kenyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee W. Kenyon of Dundee and Pfc. Morton Emil Gazlay, United States Marine Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Gazlay, RFD 3, Kingston, was solemnized Friday, Nov. 16, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sebring in Altay. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Benjamin Disbrow, pastor of the Dundee Baptist Church.

Decorations at the home included a mantle banked with evergreen, flanked by white candles and baskets of white mums.

The bride wore a ballerina gown of white lace, stand up Peterpan collar and gathered skirt over hoop. Her finger-tip veil of nylon tulle was attached to a head band of matching lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of white rosebuds and pompons.

Miss Lynn E. Freelove, of Whitney Point, as maid of honor, wore a cinnamon nylon net gown over pink tafetta ballerina length hoop skirt and carried a colonial bouquet of bronze and gold pompons.

Robert Davenport of Accord was the best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for 40 guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sebring. Mrs. Sebring is the sister of the bride.

For traveling, Mrs. Gazlay chose a navy blue suit with navy blue and white accessories.

Mrs. Gazlay was graduated from the Dundee Central School and is now a senior at Cornell University. Pfc. Gazlay was graduated from Kingston High School, attended Ithaca College and in April, 1951, joined the U. S. Marines. He took boot training at Parris Island, S. C. He recently completed a radio operator's course in San Diego, Calif.

Lorraine Smith Weds Sgt. Martin Solomon Saturday, Nov. 17

Mrs. Lorraine Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hamilton, Sleightsburg, was married to Sgt. Martin Solomon, son of George Solomon and the late Mrs. Solomon, Pittsburgh, in the Trinity Methodist Church on Saturday, Nov. 17, at 2 p. m. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ivan Gossoo, pastor. A reception for 30 guests was held at the home of the bride.

The bride wore a street length dress of aquamarine nylon over gold satin and carried a nosegay of yellow rosebuds.

Mrs. Frank Scott, this city, was her sister's only attendant. She wore a burgundy satin dress and carried a nosegay of yellow rosebuds.

Claude Hamilton, Newburgh, brother of the bride, was the best man.

The couple left for a trip to New York and Pittsburgh where they will visit the groom's family. For traveling, the bride wore a burgundy suit with black accessories and a corsage of red rosebuds. They will make their home with the bride's parents until the groom is stationed permanently.

Sgt. Solomon has just returned from 29 months of overseas duty having served with the 9th Ordnance MAM Company on Okinawa.

Lucy Lowell Weds Roland D. Grimm, New Paltz, Nov. 17

Miss Lucy Lowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Lowell of Sunrise Farm, Westwood, Mass., was married to Roland DuBois Grimm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hasbrouck Grimm of New Paltz, in St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church, Dedham, Mass., Saturday, Nov. 17. The ceremony was performed at 3:30 p. m. by the Rev. Rudolph Roell, assisted by the Rev. Francis Lee Whittemore. A reception followed at Sunrise Farm.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of brocade and cream colored satin, an heirloom veil of lace and carried eucharis lilies and stephanotis.

Mrs. James G. Wheeler and Miss Susan Lowell, sisters of the bride, were matron and maid of honor. They were gowned alike in silver and lavender brocade and carried pink speciosum lilies and pink nerines. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Francis S. Haydock of Chestnut Hill, Mrs. Stephan Little of Brookline, Miss Susan Higginson of Cambridge, Mass.; Miss Emily F. Goodwin and Miss Cynthia Williams of Baltimore, Md., and Miss Mary Channing Stokes of St. David's, Pa. With their gowns of silver and lavender brocade, they carried pink chrysanthemums and crimson snapdragons. Charlotte Lowell of Nahant, Mass., was the flower girl.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Lowell was gowned in cotillion blue lace with matching hat. Mrs. Grimm, the bridegroom's mother, wore rose lace.

The best man was Norman W. Kavanaugh of Santa Barbara, Calif.; and the ushers included Foster Trainer, Jr., of Syracuse; James H. Lowell, II, of Westwood; John N. Dietz of Cambridge, Mass.; Douglas Schwalbe and Francis F. Randolph, Jr., of New York; James D. Cleminshaw of Hudson, O.; Mathew F. Hasbrouck, Jr., of Stone Ridge, and D. Huntington Blair of Bridgeport, Conn.

The bride, who was graduated from the Winsor School, Boston, and from Vassar College in 1951, is a member of the Junior League and the Vincent Club. Mr. Grimm prepared at the Northwood School, Lake Placid, was graduated from Yale in 1950 and received the master's degree in psychology from Columbia University in 1951. During World War 2 he served with the 10th Armored Division and is now with the First National Bank of Boston.

After a trip to Jamaica, the couple will make their home in Westwood, Mass.

Temple Emanuel Sisterhood Told of Emergency Plans

The Sisterhood of Temple Emanuel held its monthly meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Harris Brown, West Hurley. After a short business meeting, members discussed the set-up in the Temple for the feeding of evacuees of large cities in case of emergency. They were told by the chairman of that committee that the group was already enrolled in civilian defense and that a committee for that purpose has been completely formed.

A report was given by the chairman of the week in which members had filled the booths in both movie theatres for civilian defense. Other reports included the annual supper and the Odds and Ends Shop. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

As Bernard Baruch remarked some months ago, "we stagger from crisis to crisis." We likewise stagger from one short-run thought to another.

It is practically an impossibility to think in terms of the "long" future, because we never know from one day to the next what news-event will suddenly break. We are confronted with boiling crises in many sections of the world.

So perhaps it is not strange that we stagger from crisis to crisis.

However, it is essential that we try to look ahead and not take everything for granted that we read or hear in our daily press.

The events of the times are so vast that actually our small minds are incapable of comprehending them, and that of course leads to further confusion. Moreover, the vastness of the problems are beyond the capabilities of the minds that are directing the world's policies. Our leaders are staggering, too, under the weight.

What is presently complicating the outlook is the now plain-to-see fact that Europe is in a far worse economic and political condition than has been realized. Such intense hopefulness was engendered by the idea of the Marshall Plan and the Economic Cooperation Administration that few have foreseen that renewed financial crises would develop so soon in both Great Britain and France. There have been a few voices warning us that Europe was "not making the grade" but by and large most of us have been going along day to day figuring that "everything would turn out all right" and so why listen to the alarmists?

General Eisenhower's sudden and quick trip back to Washington has awakened everyone again to the problems abroad. We now realize that European rearmament has not been progressing satisfactorily and further that unless we again step into the financial breach both France and Great Britain will not be able to contribute their share of building the NATO armies. France faces a political crisis again this week. (As this is written it is not known if the government will fall, further complicating the delicate situation).

If we look for realities we have to admit that as events have transpired over the last two years Russia maintains the lead in calling the tunes. If Russia's strategy is to wage an economic war, rather than to foment a third world-wide war, she has gained her ends thus far quite successfully.

There are many observers who believe that our entry into the Korean war was the best thing that could have happened, because otherwise we would not have entered into a full-scale program of rearmament and large-scale mobilization. Thus, these observers further believe that Russia made a grave error in strategical judgment, because now the western nations will (in time) become fully armed and able to withstand aggression anywhere. This is true, if Russia had any intention of world-wide aggression. However, if economic warfare was the prime Russian policy, then the Korean war has fitted into her plans perfectly. Sadly, we have no way of knowing the Russian plan, and thus have to follow from one crisis to another.

We have been continually jockeyed into positions where we could not lead — could not take the initiative — but have had to follow.

And in order to gain the strategical position where we can take the initiative we first have to build up the armed forces of the western nations to the extent where we are invincible in war, and where any invasion of Europe by Russia would be sure to fail.

From all this ruminating — all of it old stuff to you, as you have been thinking the same things no doubt — from all this it does appear, however, that we can look ahead a little beyond the bridge of our noses.

We know now that the United States will have to continue on the present policy of rearmament for at least another full year, probably at least two full years. We further know that we shalll have to bolster both Great Britain and France and send both arms, equipment and more dollars to Europe.

This means that there can be no let-down in industry or lessening of the tax load each of us will shoulder. There are no visbile hints that events will be less critical in the year ahead.

From all viewpoints we can only realistically look ahead to a long period of high tension, high taxes, high industrial activity, and unless we watch our step high prices.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Only Expert Play Made This Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

There were several traps and pitfalls in the hand shown today, but South managed to thread his way safely through all of them. If South had been less expert at managing the play, perhaps his partner would have been less aggressive in the bidding.

West opened the deuce of diamonds, and East won with the ace. East then returned the four of hearts—not the best defense.

South carefully took this trick in his own hand with the queen of hearts in order to try the spade finesse at once. When that succeeded he cashed the ace of spades and led a third round of spades from the dummy.

East hopefully stuck in the ten of hearts, but South did not make the mistake of over-ruffing. Instead he discarded a diamond.

East had to return a diamond, making dummy ruff with the king of hearts. Declarer could now safely ruff a fourth round of spades, cash the ace of hearts, and give up a heart trick to West's jack. Nothing could prevent declarer from reaching dummy with the ace of clubs in time to discard his remaining club on the last spade.

Neatly played by South, to be sure, but not the best defense. If East returns a diamond at the second trick, it is all misery and floundering for poor South.

Declarer must ruff the second diamond in the dummy. What next? The best shot is to try for an extra spade trick by laying down the ace and then the queen of spades. (South would do better if he started the clubs, but he cannot know that).

West takes the king of spades and returns a club. If declarer tries a club finesse, East wins and returns a diamond to make dummy ruff with the king. That sets up a trump trick for West as the fourth defensive trick.

Nor does it help declarer to go up with dummy's ace of clubs. He must then try to cash the jack of spades, but East ruffs with the ten of hearts and the jig is up.

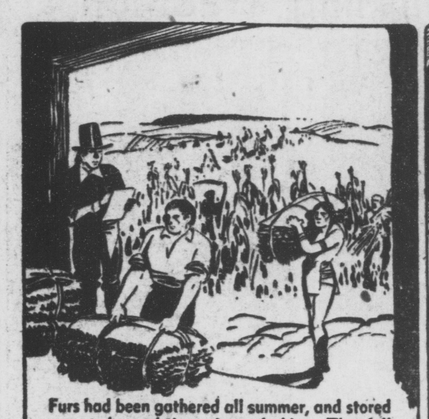
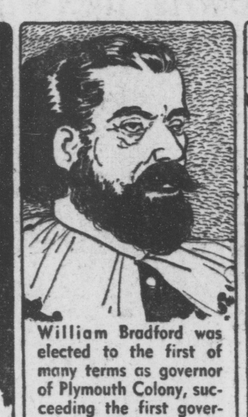
THE FIRST THANKSGIVING

Illustrated by Walter Scott



Furs had been gathered all summer, and stored away to be made into winter clothing. That fall an abundant harvest was reaped.



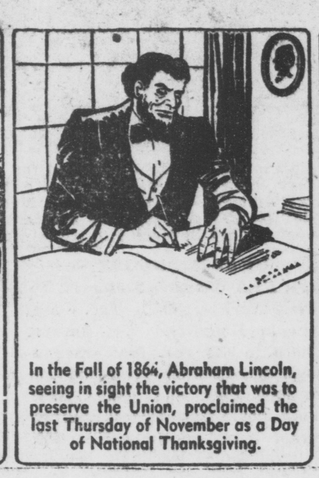
William Bradford was elected to the first of many terms as governor of Plymouth Colony, succeeding the first governor, John Carver, who died in office.

The 51 members of the colony, plus their Indian allies, held a great feast of Thanksgiving, which lasted three days. It was America's first Thanksgiving Day.

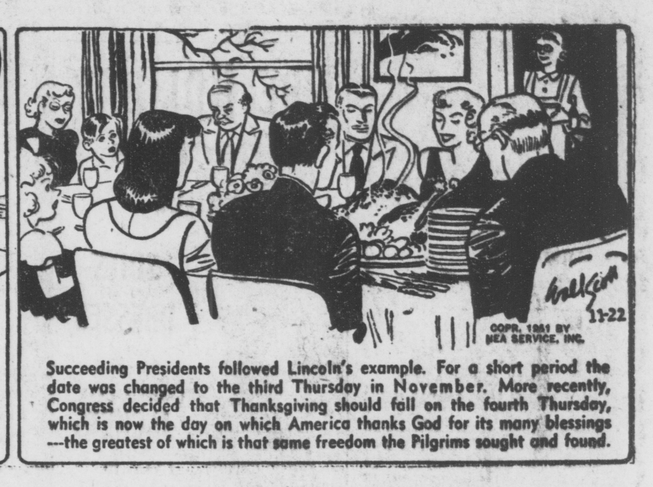
COPR. 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Many hardships remained to be overcome. But with Thanksgiving in their hearts, the Pilgrims knew that, with God's help, they had won their battle for freedom.

As America grew, it became the custom for the governors of each of the States to set aside a day of Thanksgiving each year.



In the Fall of 1864, Abraham Lincoln, seeing in sight the victory that was to preserve the Union, proclaimed the last Thursday of November as a Day of National Thanksgiving.



Succeeding Presidents followed Lincoln's example. For a short period the date was changed to the third Thursday in November. More recently, Congress decided that Thanksgiving should fall on the fourth Thursday, which is now the day on which America thanks God for its many blessings—the greatest of which is that same freedom the Pilgrims sought and found.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

As Bernard Baruch remarked some months ago, "we stagger from crisis to crisis." We likewise stagger from one short-run thought to another.

It is practically an impossibility to think in terms of the "long" future, because we never know from one day to the next what news-event will suddenly break. We are confronted with boiling crises in many sections of the world.

So perhaps it is not strange that we stagger from crisis to crisis.

However, it is essential that we try to look ahead and not take everything for granted that we read or hear in our daily press.

The events of the times are so vast that actually our small minds are incapable of comprehending them, and that of course leads to further confusion. Moreover, the vastness of the problems are beyond the capabilities of the minds that are directing the world's policies. Our leaders are staggering, too, under the weight.

What is presently complicating the outlook is the now plain-to-see fact that Europe is in a far worse economic and political condition than has been realized. Such intense hopefulness was engendered by the idea of the Marshall Plan and the Economic Cooperation Administration that few have foreseen that renewed financial crises would develop so soon in both Great Britain and France. There have been a few voices warning us that Europe was "not making the grade" but by and large most of us have been going along day to day figuring that "everything would turn out all right" and so why listen to the alarmists?

General Eisenhower's sudden and quick trip back to Washington has awakened everyone again to the problems abroad. We now realize that European rearmament has not been progressing satisfactorily and further that unless we again step into the financial breach both France and Great Britain will not be able to contribute their share of building the NATO armies. France faces a political crisis again this week. (As this is written it is not known if the government will fall, further complicating the delicate situation).

If we look for realities we have to admit that as events have transpired over the last two years Russia maintains the lead in calling the tunes. If Russia's strategy is to wage an economic war, rather than to foment a third world-wide war, she has gained her ends thus far quite successfully.

There are many observers who believe that our entry into the Korean war was the best thing that could have happened, because otherwise we would not have entered into a full-scale program of rearmament and large-scale mobilization. Thus, these observers further believe that Russia made a grave error in strategical judgment, because now the western nations will (in time) become fully armed and able to withstand aggression anywhere. This is true, if Russia had any intention of world-wide aggression. However, if economic warfare was the prime Russian policy, then the Korean war has fitted into her plans perfectly. Sadly, we have no way of knowing the Russian plan, and thus have to follow from one crisis to another.

We have been continually jockeyed into positions where we could not lead — could not take the initiative — but have had to follow.

And in order to gain the strategical position where we can take the initiative we first have to build up the armed forces of the western nations to the extent where we are invincible in war, and where any invasion of Europe by Russia would be sure to fail.

From all this ruminating — all of it old stuff to you, as you have been thinking the same things no doubt — from all this it does appear, however, that we can look ahead a little beyond the bridge of our noses.

We know now that the United States will have to continue on the present policy of rearmament for at least another full year, probably at least two full years. We further know that we shalll have to bolster both Great Britain and France and send both arms, equipment and more dollars to Europe.

This means that there can be no let-down in industry or lessening of the tax load each of us will shoulder. There are no visbile hints that events will be less critical in the year ahead.

From all viewpoints we can only realistically look ahead to a long period of high tension, high taxes, high industrial activity, and unless we watch our step high prices.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Only Expert Play Made This Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

There were several traps and pitfalls in the hand shown today, but South managed to thread his way safely through all of them. If South had been less expert at managing the play, perhaps his partner would have been less aggressive in the bidding.

West opened the deuce of diamonds, and East won with the ace. East then returned the four of hearts—not the best defense.

South carefully took this trick in his own hand with the queen of hearts in order to try the spade finesse at once. When that succeeded he cashed the ace of spades and led a third round of spades from the dummy.

East hopefully stuck in the ten of hearts, but South did not make the mistake of over-ruffing. Instead he discarded a diamond.

East had to return a diamond, making dummy ruff with the king of hearts. Declarer could now safely ruff a fourth round of spades, cash the ace of hearts, and give up a heart trick to West's jack. Nothing could prevent declarer from reaching dummy with the ace of clubs in time to discard his remaining club on the last spade.

Neatly played by South, to be sure, but not the best defense. If East returns a diamond at the second trick, it is all misery and floundering for poor South.

Declarer must ruff the second diamond in the dummy. What next? The best shot is to try for an extra spade trick by laying down the ace and then the queen of spades. (South would do better if he started the clubs, but he cannot know that).

West takes the king of spades and returns a club. If declarer tries a club finesse, East wins and returns a diamond to make dummy ruff with the king. That sets up a trump trick for West as the fourth defensive trick.

Nor does it help declarer to go up with dummy's ace of clubs. He must then try to cash the jack of spades, but East ruffs with the ten of hearts and the jig is up.

Thankful, for What?

Thankful for what?
I hear you ask—
Yes, thankful for this
And thankful for that.

There is still enough
To be thankful for,
In this world of sin,
Of sorrow, and woe.

Thankful for what
And when and where,
For wars at present
Raging everywhere?

Oh no! No one ever is Thankful for that—
But! Thankful for strength,
And courage, through prayers.

The world was created
By God alone—
For man, woman, and child—
To make their home.

'Be fruitful and multiply"
Was God's command.
Live peaceful and strive
For a Better land.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Quoting from a column in Saturday's, Nov. 3, 1951 issue in which Nat Coyna of 230 William street, New York, said "I am looking for an old time poem which appeared in the Ulster and Delaware booklet etc., I've tried nearly everyone except you, the Answer Man, and Kingston Library." In fact, he even wrote to the original printers, the Stamford Printers and they tried for a month to get the poem without success. He also tried the Kingston Museum. Now I ran his poem in this column, just a few lines of it, and what happens, a deluge from my readers. First Herman Boyle of Route 1, Box 170, Kingston, brings down the Ulster & Delaware R.R. booklet of 1903, called The Catskill Mts. and on page 19 of that 190 page booklet is the poem in full.

This morning I received another letter from C. Winchell, who describes himself as "one of the Old Timers" up in the Town of Olive, who typed off very carefully the entire three verse poem wanted by Mr. Coyna of New York. He took it from the Ulster & Delaware R.R. slick paper edition of 180 page book, attractively styled by the Kingston Freeman Press. This booklet is dated 1901. At the time Edward Coykendall and N. A. Sims were superintedent and passenger agent, respectively of the road when the railroad did an immense business in transporting city folks to and from the mountains. Our informant adds that he was brought up in the old village of Shokan (now under water) and has seen the famous brass-bound Coykendall engine and observation car-old "No. 20." and heard its distinctive piercing whistle, many a time.

I will try and quote most of the poem he sent me. "You fellers from the country—you keep away from town. If you don't want to unsettle things and get us upside down; For you always leave us a memory of the meadows and streams...An' I straightway get to wishin' and to fishin' in my dreams...You fellers from the country, when you strike me at my desk. The room begins to blossom an' the street looks picturesque; And the roarin' of the city, with its engines and its bells, Seems to melt into the music of the mountains and the dells...You fellers from the country, you get so much of life. So little of its sorrow, of it sorrow, of its tears, and of its strife, that I want to get off with you and just riot in your joy. And wade in your cool branches, like I used to when a boy." Page 17, "The Catskill Mts." 1901.

In the late 20's I worked in the Bank of U. S. They had some 59 branches and I was sent to their various foreign departments until I knew most of the staff, and they knew I was from the magic Catskills for which they saved all year to have just two weeks of what we have all year around. I knew it meant just about what that poem describes.

One year, spring showed itself earlier in the air with warmth than it did in the calender and I said to my department boss, "I'm going home to Kingston, spring is here." For nothing could hold me in New York once spring was in the air. He said, "You'll have snow yet." But I went back, and we did have a snow storm after, but still spring was just around the corner, and there is no place like Kingston, the Hudson, a ride to Woodstock when spring is here. What do you think?

Chewers Help Children

Chattanooga, Tenn. (AP)—Because people like to chew gum, underprivileged children of Chattanooga have received $10,113.80 in the past four years. This was discovered recently when the Kiwanis Club took an inventory of proceeds from its 400 penny chewing gum machines. The club immediately voted to buy 100 more machines. All proceeds will go to the children's foundation.

Judge M. V. Cahill Re-Opens Offices

MATTHEW V. CAHILL

Matthew V. Cahill, local attorney, former corporation counsel of this city under Mayors Harry B. Walker and Conrad J. Heiselman and a judge of the city court for three terms totalling approximately 12 years, has reopened his law offices at 280 Wall street. Judge Cahill has been ill for more than a year, in the hospital and at his home in this city.

Preceding his illness, he had one of the largest real estate, mortgage and surrogate's court businesses here. Judge Cahill stated today that he intended in the future to devote some of his time to the trial of court cases. His knowledge of evidence and legal tactics enhanced by 12 years on the bench should stand him in good stead in that field.

Preparing for his professional at Fordham University, he graduated from that university's law school in 1925. He passed his bar examinations and became a practicing attorney at the age of 21 years. For sometime he was the youngest attorney in Ulster county and is believed to be the youngest corporation counsel or city judge this city ever had.

When first admitted to the practice of law, he was associated with his father, the late John T. Cahill and the late Philip Elting, Republican leader of Ulster county and then Collector of the Port of New York. Later he became associated with the late Frank W. Brooks, an eminent trial lawyer of this city and remained in that location until about 1944 when he moved his offices to his present location on Wall street, forming a partnership with his father under the name of Cahill and Cahill. That firm was a success and almost immediately acquired a tremendous practice.

In the year 1941 Judge Cahill's majority in the contest for judge of the city court was well over 3,000 and as a result in the year 1943, although he did not seek the office, he was drafted by the Republican Party as their candidate to oppose the then mayor of the city William Edelmuth. He did not resign as city judge and was defeated by a very slight majority.

During the 1950 and 1951 sessions of the Senate of the State of New York, although Judge Cahill was not well, he managed to work in a position dealing with the correction and editing of bills and laws presented to and passed by the New York State Senate.

Judge Cahill's many friends and acquaintances are happy to see him well again and back practicing his profession.

Soldiers Reported Missing

Cairo, Nov. 20 (AP)—Two of the Arab world's largest newspapers said today 12 British soldiers still were missing after the weekend fihting at Ismailia, in the Suez Canal zone. A British spokesman here said the report was wrong. The newspapers put the total death toll from the fighting at 30.

New Chemical Industry

Edmonton, Alta. (AP)—A huge new chemical industry is taking shape here as an offshoot of Alberta's wealth of oil and natural gas. Important chemicals not at present produced in Canada will be manufactured out of by-products from the nearby oil refineries. Wood pulp from British Columbia will be processed into yarn and staple fibre. First in the field is Canadian Chemical Co. Ltd., an affiliate of Celanese Corp. It is spending $54,600,000 on 300 acres of buildings on what a few months ago was a wheat field.

Thankful, for What?

Thankful for what?
I hear you ask—
Yes, thankful for this
And thankful for that.

There is still enough
To be thankful for,
In this world of sin,
Of sorrow, and woe.

Thankful for what
And when and where,
For wars at present
Raging everywhere?

Oh no! No one ever is
Thankful for that—
But! Thankful for strength,
And courage, through prayers.

The world was created
By God alone—
For man, woman, and child—
To make their home.

"Be fruitful and multiply"
Was God's command.
Live peaceful and strive
For a Better land.

Do You Remember

BY SOPHIE MILLER

Quoting from a column in Saturday's, Nov. 3, 1951 issue in which Nat Coyna of 230 William street, New York, said "I am looking for an old time poem which appeared in the Ulster and Delaware booklet etc., I've tried nearly everyone except you, the Answer Man, and Kingston Library." In fact, he even wrote to the original printers, the Stamford Printers and they tried for a month to get the poem without success. He also tried the Kingston Museum. Now I ran his poem in this column, just a few lines of it, and what happens, a deluge from my readers. First Herman Boyle of Route 1, Box 170, Kingston, brings down the Ulster & Delaware R.R. booklet of 1903, called The Catskill Mts. and on page 19 of that 190 page booklet is the poem in full.

This morning I received another letter from C. Winchell, who describes himself as "one of the Old Timers" up in the Town of Olive, who typed off very carefully the entire three verse poem wanted by Mr. Coyna of New York. He took it from the Ulster & Delaware R.R. slick paper edition of 180 page book, attractively styled by the Kingston Freeman Press. This booklet is dated 1901. At the time Edward Coykendall and N. A. Sims were superintedent and passenger agent, respectively of the road when the railroad did an immense business in transporting city folks to and from the mountains. Our informant adds that he was brought up in the old village of Shokan (now under water) and has seen the famous brass-bound Coykendall engine and observation car-old "No. 20." and heard its distinctive piercing whistle, many a time.

I will try and quote most of the poem he sent me. "You fellers from the country—you keep away from town. If you don't want to unsettle things and get us upside down; For you always leave us a memory of the meadows and streams...An' I straightway get to wishin' and to fishin' in my dreams...You fellers from the country, when you strike me at my desk. The room begins to blossom an' the street looks picturesque; And the roarin' of the city, with its engines and its bells, Seems to melt into the music of the mountains and the dells...You fellers from the country, you get so much of life. So little of its sorrow, of its tears, and of its strife, that I want to get off with you and just riot in your joy. And wade in your cool branches, like I used to when a boy." Page 17, "The Catskill Mts." 1901.

In the late 20's I worked in the Bank of U. S. They had some 59 branches and I was sent to their various foreign departments until I knew most of the staff, and they knew I was from the magic Catskills for which they saved all year to have just two weeks of what we have all year around. I knew it meant just about what that poem describes.

One year, spring showed itself earlier in the air with warmth than it did in the calender and I said to my department boss, "I'm going home to Kingston, spring is here." For nothing could hold me in New York once spring was in the air. He said, "You'll have snow yet." But I went back, and we did have a snow storm after, but still spring was just around the corner, and there is no place like Kingston, the Hudson, a ride to Woodstock when spring is here. What do you think?

Chewers Help Children

Chattanooga, Tenn. (AP)—Because people like to chew gum, underprivileged children of Chattanooga have received $10,113.80 in the past four years. This was discovered recently when the Kiwanis Club took an inventory of proceeds from its 400 penny chewing gum machines. The club immediately voted to buy 100 more machines. All proceeds will go to the children's foundation.

We Thank Thee

For the gifts of wood and field,
Autumn's ever bounteous yield;
For the friends who, through the year,
Have made glad our sojourn here;
For the joy and sweet content
With which grief and pain are blent,
We thank Thee.

For the visions of our sires,
And the dreams their faith inspires;
For the heroes who have wrought
Toward the kingdom Thou has sought;
For Thy patience as we grope
Toward Thy one world, our great hope,
We thank Thee.

Halfway between the door and the table lay a tiny marble Johnnie had carelessly left there. The maid stepped on it, and fell on her face while the big turkey scooted across the floor.

But the hostess was a woman of miraculous resource.

Hostess—Don't worry, Mary, just take it back to the kitchen and bring in the other one.

Psalm for This Thanksgiving Day

Make a joyful noise unto the Lord, all ye lands.

Serve the Lord with gladness; come before His presence with singing.

Know ye that the Lord He is God; it is He that hath made us, and not we ourselves; we are His people, and the sheep of His pasture.

Enter into his gates with thanksgiving, and into His Courts with praise; be thankful unto Him, and bless His name.

For the Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting; and His truth endureth to all generations.

The Mature Parent

Grownups' Fear of Future Makes Youth Brood, Too

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

In her high school English class a young girl recently submitted a poem whose last line reads:

"Build? Why should we? Our legacy is flame and the mushroom cloud that blackens out the sun."

Apparently, this adolescent child's fear and resentment of her moment in history is not unusual.

According to psychologist Dr. George Lawton, other young people are equally bitter at the fate that links them to the century that discovered the A-bomb. "It is not fair," one young American told Dr. Lawton, "that we should be so threatened before we're even grown up."

Commenting upon this problem in a recent issue of Parents' Magazine, Dr. Lawton writes, "A healthy person does not experience panic in advance of a real situation."

We should be careful how we discuss atomic affairs before children and adolescent boys and girls.

To be truthful, I would like to see adults generally discard the A-bomb as an alibi for anxieties that often have their source in fears that existed long before Hiroshima.

The fact is—and check this with any psychiatrist if you wish—that those of us who worry excessively over the bomb would go right on worrying about something else if by some miracle the threat were lifted from us tomorrrow morning.

To those of us who wish to delay discovering our real fears, the bomb has served as a convenient and socially acceptable scapegoat for jitters and defeatism.

While I do not relish the idea of death by atomic blast any more than the next fellow, I think we should try to pull ourselves together and spare youth the black talk that encourages negative and unwholesome brooding over the future.

DON'T BE AFRAID OF LIVING

If we do a little realistic thinking, we will readily see that this world has never been a place that guarantees physical security to its inhabitants.

The boy in the coonskin cap who trekked across the American wilderness unharnessed his father's horses from the covered wagon each night, unsure if his scalp would be where it belonged by morning. The Pilgrim child, walking sedately to church of a Sunday morning, walked sedately despite his knowledge of the unpredictable ways of Indian arrows.

I bet neither the boy in the coonskin cap nor the Pilgrim child wrote bitter poems to the insecure world around them. They didn't write them because the strong, brave, affirmative people who led them refused to let terror of the future bring them to their knees.

They were stable folk who conserved their emotional energies to deal with danger only when it became real. They were not idolaters, making images to be feared or worshipped.

Oh, yes, the Pilgrim father took his gun to church. He was prepared, just as we must be prepared. But when he went to church, that's what he did, not allowing the next hour's hazards to weaken vigorous living of the present. He and his children were not afraid of dying because they were not afraid of living.

One of my favorite psychiatrists is Dr. James T. Fisher. In his thrilling book, A Few Buttons Missing, he says this: "We cannot continue indefinitely yearning for peace while anticipating war; groping for love while indulging in hatred; struggling for security while breeding insecurity. We cannot live forever in fear of imminent atomic annihilation lest our fear exact a higher toll than the potential bombs themselves."

This is a brave, intelligent man talking. Let's take what he says in and stop apologizing to young people because they have landed in a place where peril exists, where physical extinction is an old story.

Police Still Seek Others in Roundup

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—Police kept their nets spread today in a roundup that has enmeshed 11 of the 31 persons indicted by a grand jury following a 14-week gambling probe.

The 11 men all pleaded innocent yesterday before Justice Williard L. Best of State Supreme Court. Ten posted bail, ranging from $1,500 to $6,500, and were released.

The accusations against the 31 were contained in 25 sealed indictments returned Monday by jury, which accused police and city officials of "gross negligence" in enforcing gambling laws.

One of those arrested was Leo J. Foy, a former policeman. He was charged with accepting bribes from Paul (Legs) DiCocco, a twice-convicted gambler who figured prominently in events that touched off the probe.

The indictment said Foy got $150 a week during a five-month period last year and $100 a week for one month.

Foy resigned Nov. 13, 1950 on a disability pension. He had been on the force 20 years.

In addition to being charged with bribery, the 27-year-old DiCocco was accused of being a common gambler and keeping a gambling room, both misdemeanors. Bribery is a felony.

The others rounded up yesterday were indicted on gambling charges.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Highland, Nov. 20—Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Elting left Sunday for Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., where they spend the winter.

Robert Meekins spent the weekend with his brother, Jack, who is a senior at Colgate University, Hamilton.

Twenty-five members of Adonai Lodge F. & A.M. were guests of Highland Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, Tuesday night in observance of Master Masons' night. They were welcomed by Mrs. Clara Blakely, worthy matron, and presented with boutonnieres and gifts. The program included Battle Hymn of the Republic, with appropriate words, Miss Rose Symes, soloist; recitation, Ma and Pa in the Eastern Star. Miss Janice Blakely; group song, When Johnny Comes Marching Home, words of welcome to the guests; feats of magic by David Beatty, member of the DeMolay in Poughkeepsie. Peter Harp was initiated into the chapter. Mrs. Minnie Schmalkuche, past matron, in behalf of Mrs. Harp, presented him with a gift. A vote of thanks was given the worthy matron for the gift of a new altar cloth. Three candidates will be initiated at the meeting Nov. 27, rehearsal for which was held Tuesday, Nov. 20, followed by a meeting of the officers' club, with Mrs. Cecile Petersen and Mrs. Ann Leiching, hostesses. Gifts to the guests of honor were distributed by Tommy Blakely. Mrs. Bessie Clayton and Miss Symes reported $50 realized from cards and Mrs. Lillian Sheeley $9 from sale of dishcloths. Mrs. Harriet Alexander reported on a visit to Castle Point when gifts were distributed to wards A, B, C, D, and E. Several letters of appreciation were received from the boys. A donation was made to the Thanksgiving Cheer fund of the grand matron. A Stockholm Baldwin, master of Adonai Lodge, was honored and spoke of the appreciation of the lodge for the cooperation of the Star members. The matron in behalf of the chapter presented to him a gift of money toward the building fund for the new addition, also personal contributions. The matron spoke of the possibility of the organization of a constellation of Junior Stars for girls 13 through 18 years of age. Mrs. Olympia D. Cottine has been appointed counselor with the matron as assistant. The hall was decorated with fall flowers in charge of Mrs. Stella Harp. A covered dish supper was served in charge of Mrs. Witherspoon, Mrs. Frances Corwin, Mrs. Hummel, Mrs. Theresa Margraf, Mrs. Elizabeth Wood, Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Virginia Zimmerman and Martin Schantz. The committee for the meeting Nov. 27 is Mrs. Kathryn Dayton, chairman; Mrs. Lida Pine, Mrs. Lillian Sheeley, Mrs. Alvina Mathiesen. Dress for the meeting will be formal.

Miss Wilhelmina Weezenaar is in Florida where she plans to spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Dallas and two sons will leave Tuesday on a three week's trip south with the first stop sightseeing in Washington.

More than 30 members attended the meeting of Chapter A PEO Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. Hallock Mackey with Mrs. A. W. Lent assisting hostess. The subject, Country Wide Cuisine, was talked over by Mrs. A. R. Bedell, Kansas, Mrs. Oscar Jelsma, Iowa and while absent Mrs. John F. Wadlin reported in writing on the Pennsylvania Dutch cooking and serving. The program was in charge of Mrs. Myron Hazen. Tea was served at the close of the meeting with Mrs. Edward Dalby and Mrs. Robert Cole pouring. There was over 30 members present.

William Haviland has been in Syracuse this week attending a convention. Mrs. Haviland joined him Friday and they attended the Syracuse-Colgate game Saturday.

Mrs. Swallow and her mother, Tillson avenue, entertained at tea Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nace, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Valenti, Miss Frances Valenti, Mr. and Mrs. Elting Hasbrouck, Mrs. Florence Ronk drove to Atlantic City, N. J. Saturday where they were among a class of candidates to receive the seventh degree conferred by the National Grange.

The Women's Community chorus had its first rehearsal Thursday night in the activity room at school. Owing to the holiday there will be no meeting next week. There are 14 women enrolled.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Chadwick and daughters, Amityville, were Friday and Saturday guests of their niece and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thompson.

Sailor Denies Blame

Oakland, Calif., Nov. 21—A sailor indicted in connection with the Oct. 28 Greyhound bus tragedy which cost eight lives last night denied responsibility for the accident. Orville C. Russell, boatswain's mate third class, had his attorney issue a statement that he was not intoxicated when his car smashed into a concrete abutment on the Oakland side of the San Francisco Bay bridge. The car crackup knocked a concrete chunk into another lane where the bus hit it and went out of control. In addition to the eight lives lost, all the other 21 aboard the bus were injured.

The Mature Parent

By MURIEL LAWRENCE

In her high school English class a young girl recently submitted a poem whose last line reads:

"Build? Why should we? Our legacy is flame and the mushroom cloud that blackens out the sun."

Apparently, this adolescent child's fear and resentment of her moment in history is not unusual.

According to psychologist Dr. George Lawton, other young people are equally bitter at the fate that links them to the century that discovered the A-bomb. "It is not fair," one young American told Dr. Lawton, "that we should be so threatened before we're even grown up."

Commenting upon this problem in a recent issue of Parents' Magazine, Dr. Lawton writes, "A healthy person does not experience panic in advance of a real situation."

We should be careful how we discuss atomic affairs before children and adolescent boys and girls.

To be truthful, I would like to see adults generally discard the A-bomb as an alibi for anxieties that often have their source in fears that existed long before Hiroshima.

The fact is—and check this with any psychiatrist if you wish—that those of us who worry excessively over the bomb would go right on worrying about something else if by some miracle the threat were lifted from us tomorrrow morning.

To those of us who wish to delay discovering our real fears, the bomb has served as a convenient and socially acceptable scapegoat for jitters and defeatism.

While I do not relish the idea of death by atomic blast any more than the next fellow, I think we should try to pull ourselves together and spare youth the black talk that encourages negative and unwholesome brooding over the future.

DON'T BE AFRAID OF LIVING

If we do a little realistic thinking, we will readily see that this world has never been a place that guarantees physical security to its inhabitants.

The boy in the coonskin cap who trekked across the American wilderness unharnessed his father's horses from the covered wagon each night, unsure if his scalp would be where it belonged by morning. The Pilgrim child, walking sedately to church of a Sunday morning, walked sedately despite his knowledge of the unpredictable ways of Indian arrows.

I bet neither the boy in the coonskin cap nor the Pilgrim child wrote bitter poems to the insecure world around them. They didn't write them because the strong, brave, affirmative people who led them refused to let terror of the future bring them to their knees.

They were stable folk who conserved their emotional energies to deal with danger only when it became real. They were not idolaters, making images to be feared or worshipped.

Oh, yes, the Pilgrim father took his gun to church. He was prepared, just as we must be prepared. But when he went to church, that's what he did, not allowing the next hour's hazards to weaken vigorous living of the present. He and his children were not afraid of dying because they were not afraid of living.

One of my favorite psychiatrists is Dr. James T. Fisher. In his thrilling book, A Few Buttons Missing, he says this: "We cannot continue indefinitely yearning for peace while anticipating war; groping for love while indulging in hatred; struggling for security while breeding insecurity. We cannot live forever in fear of imminent atomic annihilation lest our fear exact a higher toll than the potential bombs themselves."

This is a brave, intelligent man talking. Let's take what he says in and stop apologizing to young people because they have landed in a place where peril exists, where physical extinction is an old story.

Police Still Seek Others in Roundup

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 21 (AP)—Police kept their nets spread today in a roundup that has enmeshed 11 of the 31 persons indicted by a grand jury following a 14-week gambling probe.

The 11 men all pleaded innocent yesterday before Justice Williard L. Best of State Supreme Court. Ten posted bail, ranging from $1,500 to $6,500, and were released.

The accusations against the 31 were contained in 25 sealed indictments returned Monday by jury, which accused police and city officials of "gross negligence" in enforcing gambling laws.

One of those arrested was Leo J. Foy, a former policeman. He was charged with accepting bribes from Paul (Legs) DiCocco, a twice-convicted gambler who figured prominently in events that touched off the probe.

The indictment said Foy got $150 a week during a five-month period last year and $100 a week for one month.

Foy resigned Nov. 13, 1950 on a disability pension. He had been on the force 20 years.

In addition to being charged with bribery, the 27-year-old DiCocco was accused of being a common gambler and keeping a gambling room, both misdemeanors. Bribery is a felony.

The others rounded up yesterday were indicted on gambling charges.

Waterfront Crime Drive Planned

New York, Nov. 21 (AP) — The states of New York and New Jersey are teaming up for a drive against waterfront crime and racketeering in the port of New York.

Conferences have been held between Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and New Jersey Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll on launching the first concerted two-state cleanup along the piers.

Dewey ordered the New York State Crime Commission last night to make a "sweeping investigation" on a port-wide basis. Dewey said he wanted to root out "racketeering, organized crime and restrictive practices which have increasingly over the past 50 years hamstrung the port of New York."

He said he and Gov. Driscoll are engaged "in the process of working out a bi-state cooperative effort which will be announced when the time comes."

At Trenton, N. J., Driscoll said Dewey's order for a commission investigation was "good news," and he told of recent conferences with the New York governor.

Members of the New York Crime Commission and a number of New Jersey police and prosecuting officials have been included in interstate conferences.

The State Crime Commission, an investigatory body, does not have the power to indict or prosecute.

Might Be Ambassador

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Assistant Secretary of State George C. McGhee is reported under consideration as ambassador to Turkey. He now is in charge of Near East, South Asian and African affairs for the department. This was disclosed yesterday in the wake of President Truman's disclosure that George F. Kennan, former member of Secretary Acheson's policy planning board who is now on leave, is being considered for appointment as envoy to Russia. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk is reportedly anxious to retire.

Held as Arson Suspect

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Police held a handsome young unemployed carpenter today after, they said, he admitted setting 15 fires in Brooklyn since April, 1948. The prisoner, Frederick Hess, 28, of (302 Central avenue) Brooklyn, will be arraigned in felony court on a charge of arson. Police quoted him as saying he got the urge to start a fire whenever he drank "too much sherry," and that "I set so many that I don't remember them all." Hess made a statement last night, police said, after day-long questioning.

Typhoon Hits Islands

Manila, Nov. 21 (AP)—A tropical typhoon swept a path of destruction through the central Philippines today. Planes were grounded, shipping disrupted and communications broken. The typhoon, with its torrential rains and 90 mile an hour winds, caused heavy damage to crops as it cut westward across Samar, Masbate and Romblon islands. A Weather Bureau forecast indicated the center of the typhoon would strike the southern tip of Minoro island, 170 miles south of Manila, and pass on into the China Sea.

Decision Is Reserved

Albany, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Court of Appeals has reserved decision on the pleas of three men sentenced to death in the holdup slaying of a magazine messenger. The three are Nathan Wissner, 39, of Brooklyn, and Harry A. Stein, 52, and Calman Cooper, 43, both of Manhattan. They were sentenced to die for shooting Andrew Petrini, 33, of Mount Kisco, in a truck robbery on the Readers Digest grounds April 3, 1950. Attorneys yesterday wound up two days of arguments before the state's highest tribunal.

Freedom Trainmen Arrive in U. S.

CzechSays Acheson

tively as Mrs. Gertrude Sekaninova, head of the Czechoslovak delegation, called the west's proposals vague and complicated.

She was followed by Lester B. Pearson, Canada's minister of external affairs and chairman of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), who announced Canada's full support for the plan and defended NATO as a regional setup within the United Nations necessary until fears of Russia diminish.

Pearson's Argument

Pearson argued that the west had to negotiate through strength for peace until Russia's threats to peace were withdrawn.

Mrs. Sekaninova's statement reflected none of the laughter Vishinsky said he had for the western plan after it was first announced.

Instead she spoke at length and in measured tones of both the resolution and the statements that have accompanied it. Only once, toward the end of her statement, did she raise her voice—when she said the only thing the world wanted was immediate prohibition of atomic weapons as proposed by the Soviet Union, and that the aim of the Big Three plan was to continue the armaments race and western extension of bases around the world.

Statement Familiar One

Her statement was the familiar argument of Soviet critics.

The plan, she said, was vague because its proposal for disarmament by easy stages was not clearly defined and because the machinery needed for its census of weapons—including the atomic—and disarmament promised to be too complicated.

She recalled that, France's Robert Schuman in the general debates had called for an end to Soviet secrecy. She charged that the three-power resolution threatened to preserve secrecy about the most important things like atomic weapons.

"Any plan that does nothing to prohibit atomic weapons is unacceptable," she said. "No one should be misled by any words in the resolution or in the statements to believe this plan should be adopted to serve until a better one can be found.

"If they really wanted disarmament and prohibition of atomic weapons, they could refer to the proposals of the Soviet Union made in previous assemblies."

Acheson was not in the audience. He was conferring elsewhere in Paris with west German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

100,000 American Casualty . . .

losses of over 16,000 make this undeclared war more costly in killed and wounded than all the wars, campaigns and expeditions which the leathernecks fought from the Revolution until the start of World War II.

The records show that proportionately fewer Americans have been reported missing in Korea than during World War II.

The ratio of those killed and dead of wounds likewise is lower than it was during the last war. About 12.5 per cent of the total U. S. casualties in Korea fall in the missing column. In World War II, the percentage was 18.5.

About 17 out of every 100 Americans who have appeared on Korean casualty lists were killed in action or died of their wounds. In World War II, which lasted nearly four years, the ratio was 21 out of every 100.

In 16 months of fighting in Korea, American combat losses have exceeded the 59,000 suffered from Pearl Harbor Day through the end of 1942 in the last conflict. It was not until well into 1943 that U. S. casualty totals in World War II reached the 100,000 mark.

The total for that year, which saw bitter fighting in the Southwest Pacific, in North Africa and at other spots around the world, was 91,000.

Reds Offer . . .

drawn after the agreement is signed."

He did not say whether he referred to the cease-fire line proposal now before the subcommittees or to the final armistice agreement. And UN delegates did not ask. They are expected to clarify this Thursday.

Both sides agree fighting will continue until a final armistice is reached. But to insure this, the UN command wants the agreement to say specifically troops will not be withdrawn from the proposed demilitarized area until all truce terms are settled.

Agrees in Principle

In submitting the Communist counterproposal, Lee said:

"We agree in principle to your proposal. However, we consider the form not proper or suitable for final agreement. Also, we hold different views with respect to certain details."

One of these details was the allied proposal for creating a "provisional military demarcation line." Lee said the agenda provided the "demilitarized zone must be determined, so we oppose all that is provisional."

After the UN command subcommittee had studied the Red plan for hours, Nuckols said:

"If the apparent ambiguities in the Communist proposal can be clarified and if the insertion of key words or phrases to obtain the clarification will be acceptable to the Communists, then we are well on the road to an agreement on the subdelegation level."

Phraseology of the two plans is entirely different. Nevertheless under either plan, the way would be opened for negotiation of other armistice clauses — supervision of the truce, exchange of prisoners, and recommendations to governments concerned on withdrawal of foreign troops.

GOP Cites . . .

Club the kind of a campaign he said it must make next year.

Forecasts 'Purchase'

He pictured it as a slugging battle against well-heeled Republicans who could be expected to put on a "dirty smear campaign."

The President forecast a Republican attempt to buy the presidency with excessive campaign spending, asserted that "misrepresentation can be expected to reach new heights" and said that if the GOP chooses to make foreign policy an issue it will be "overwhelmingly repudiated by the people."

"I do not expect the Democratic party to take that kind of attack lying down," he declared as listeners applauded.

"I do not expect my party to run away from a fight," he said, adding: "it never did and it never will."

The President left up in the air the question whether he will run again. But he seemed to indicate that if he doesn't, he fully expects to have the determining voice in naming the Democratic nominee.

Mrs. Truman, who had a lot to do with the presidential date for the banquet meeting, laughed with the crowd as the President said:

"I am not going to make any announcement about who the candidate will be, although I do have some ideas on the subject."

Mrs. Truman has reportedly urged the President to retire when his present term expires.

The President approached his 1948 "give 'em hell" campaign form as he virtually dared the Republicans to make an issue of foreign policy. He said some GOP members "want to play with dynamite" in that manner.

"But we can meet this issue if it comes," he declared. "This is a warning: If the Republicans do make foreign policy an issue in the campaign, it will be the best issue the Democratic party has. We can stand on our record in foreign policy and our achievements in the struggle for peace."

Hungary, Romania

American inquiries were made concerning the whereabouts of the plane, whose pilot had radioed his base at Munich Monday afternoon that he had been fired upon by the border patrols of the two countries and had turned back westward.

No Damage Mentioned

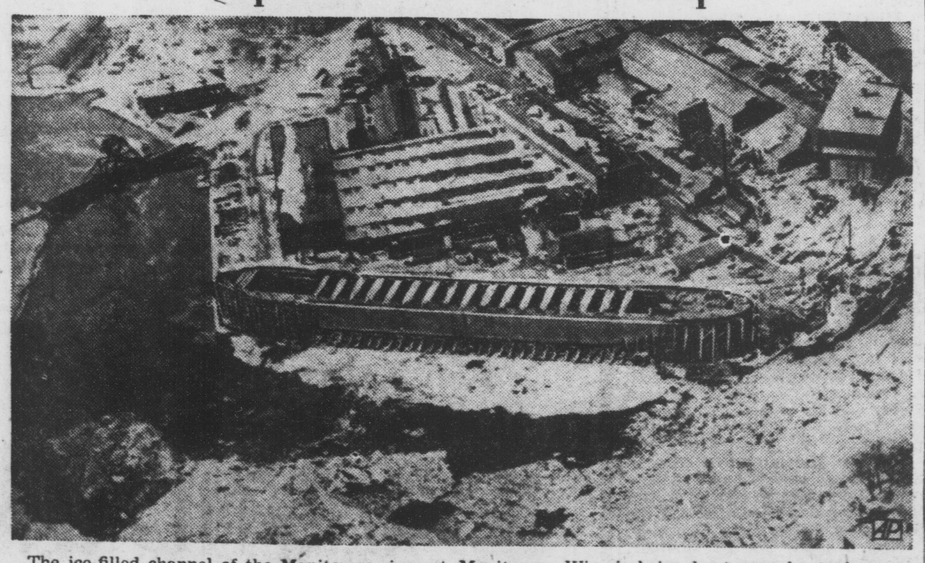
The plane, carrying a general cargo for the embassy here, was last reported somewhere north of Belgrade at dusk Monday, with its gasoline running low. It was attempting to retrace its route back to Udine, near Trieste, in the hope of refuelling there.

Yugoslav border guards reported seeing the plane Monday near both the Hungarian and Romanian borders, far off its scheduled route. Belief was expressed here that the pilot mistook the Drava river for the Sava river, which it was supposed to follow. The U. S. embassy here said the pilot probably realized he was off course when he was fired on, and then turned back westward.

Bar Group Has Birthday

Albany, Nov. 21 (AP)—The New York State Bar Association marks its 75th anniversary today. Governor Dewey designated today as "State Bar Association Day." He said, in a proclamation yesterday, the association "has made a substantial contribution to the welfare of the people of the state and to the legal profession."

Shipbuilders Race Winter's Grip



The ice-filled channel of the Manitowoc river at Manitowoc, Wis., is being kept open by tugboats as shipbuilders prepare for the Nov. 28 launching of the 666-foot limestone carrier, largest on the Great Lakes, being built for the U. Christmas Fair To Open Friday

Woodstock, Nov. 21—A greater number of consignors this year than last have contributed to the overflowing showrooms of the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen which will open its annual Christmas fair, Friday, Nov. 23, to continue until Christmas Eve, every day including Sundays from 1:30 to 5:30 p. m. In addition to the holiday fair, the Guild will carry on its new assignment as the pilot center for vocational training in handcrafts for the state, having received the stamp of approval from the Educational Department of New York.

Among the many articles skillfully contrived by member craftsmen are toys for the very young, dresses, smocks, sweaters, mittens and sox, afghans, and a fascinating collection of books. The newest book to reach a high level of popularity, Ned Chase's Big Book of Horses, a volume rich in color and information on all breeds of horses, including chart giving the conformation of a horse, complete with instructions for good form in mounting and riding. The Petersham's new book, A Bird in the Hand, is the fourth in a series about America and illustrates with all the Petersham charm the wise sayings of Benjamin Franklin from his Poor Richard's Almanac. A particularly quaint item for a small girl is a gaily decorated antique chest.

To solve the difficult problem of the gift for the man of the house, the Guild offers a number of interesting items this year. In addition to the usual ties, sox, scarves and jewelry, there are lamps, tables, magazine racks copious to hold the larger men's magazines, all kinds of wall cabinets with small drawers suitable for containing the small gadgets necessary for mending things about the house. There are also attractively decorated man-sized tiles for under a hot platter, ash trays of every kind and size, a pint sized cup for breakfast coffee or a pair of fierce ceramic tigers for his desk.

Any woman would be pleased to receive one of the tile placques created by Martha Everett, with recipes for exotic dishes for the gourmet, or one of Louise Brokenshaw's gay Spanish tiles. They also come in sets of four for the purpose of fireplace insets. The gift suggested for a new house, a de luxe item is the unusual ceramic fountain in soft yellows and greens by Jessie A. Stagg, and for the modern house Alan Gould's tables are ideal, while any kitchen, modern or old would be enhanced by the pot-pan-lid holder designed by Earle Winslow.

The pantry shelf is filled with Anita Smith's herbs; Katrina Fischer's mushroom powder, her "marons au Rhum" and sets of marmalades attractively packaged in a crochet bag—an ideal gift for an invalid. Christmas candies—marzipan in shapes of fruit and vegetables, the Christmas cakes, all made with recipes from many lands, make attractive gifts. To deck the holiday table are cloths and doilies, hand loomed or batik designed, ceramic plates, cups and saucers by Harriet Goddard, flower holders or figurines for the center piece.

Besse Stowall has a wide assortment of hand-loomed scarves and shawls as well as hand woven materials for coats and suits. Unique leather belts by Richard Chambers; abstract jewelry by Gwen Davis and Edward Chavez, beautifully wrought jewelry by Edith Temple and Margaret Gruver, Ruth Wilcox and Pearl Schechter and the popular copper pieces by Betty and Richard Crane—any of these would make distinctive gifts.

There is a wide choice of Christmas cards, all created by hand by many Woodstock artists. Mari Bollman has a charming assortment—little angels on silver backgrounds, or a frame for photograph, and the bright winter scenes by Ethel Adams are typically Woodstock.

Once more the Guild of Craftsmen building, wreathed in greens and lights will be the first to appear in holiday garb for the annual village Christmas festivities.

Investiture Held By Girls' Troops

Woodstock, Nov. 21—The three scout troops of Woodstock held an investiture ceremony at the school Tuesday afternoon. Following the salute to the flag, Mrs. Charles Rapp, community chairman, presented the Girl Scout pin to Mrs. Inger Walker.

Welcomed into the Girl Scout Circle by Mrs. Sylva Hutchins, leader of Troop 29, and her assistants, Mrs. Donald Twine and Mrs. Inger Walker, were the following girls: Carol Quednau, Betty Lou Wilber, Gladys Terwilliger, Dorothy Staeth, Janice Atkins, Frieda Sandner, Susie Foster, Barbara Cohn, Suzanne Jergesen, Karen Littel, Susie McClellan, Barbara Mower, Sue Gurland, Gretchen Wetterau, and Margo King. After reciting the "promise" individually they received their Brownie pins.

Mrs. Montcena DeWitt, assistant leader of Brownie Troop 27, presented to the following girls two one-year Brownie pendants each: Barbara Longyear, Pixie Mecklem, Jean Wilson, Carol DeWitt, Marilyn Wolven, Maria Klippel and Judith Rapp.

The following girls received one one-year pendant each: Edith Heckeroth, Sharon Graver, Elaine Gordon, Priscilla Melville, Sheila Russell, Gail Shultis and Holly Green.

Mrs. Rapp presented to Lynn Herbert her Brownie Wings.

Mrs. Donald Jackson then invested the Tenderfoot Scouts of Troop 74 in a candlelight ceremony. Mary Lapo lighted a red, white and blue candle signifying the three parts of the Girl Scout promise. Each new Tenderfoot Scout recited one of the Scout laws and lighted a white candle. The following girls received their Girl Scout pins: Patty Atkins, Lynn Herbert, Sandra Locke, Ellen Ross, Elsie Ross, Sharon Townsend, Barbara Gossman, Ruth Terwilliger.

At the close of the ceremony all of the girls of Troop 72 presented a pantomime story and the afternoon was concluded with the sounding of taps.

Eighth Grade Caters

Varsity Cagers Drub Saugerties by 76-49

Woodstock, Nov. 21 — The Woodstock Varsity, in its first game of the season trounced the Saugerties Merchants last Friday night at the Woodstock School with a score of 76 to 49. High scorer for Woodstock was Waterous with 25 points, with Kliene following with 18. Saugerties high scorer was Elliot with 18 and Turpening next with 16.

A good crowd turned out for both the varsity game and the preliminary game played between the Woodstock Jayvees and Hurley. Hurley trimmed the Jayvees with a score of 56 to 29. High scorer for Woodstock Jayvees was Joe Hilton with 11 points, and Carl Van Wagenen next with 5. For Hurley Bower made 23 points and Hickey 19.

Chet Fox of Kingston was referee for the night.

Santa Writes His Arrival Plans

Woodstock, Nov. 21—A report has been received from a close friend of Santa Claus, a member of the Masonic Square Club which is again making plans to assure the jolly old gent of a hearty welcome, that he would like to assure all of the children of this village that he will arrive on schedule on the village green, Christmas Eve between 5 and 6 p. m. Santa's friend would also like to inform the children that from time to time he will bring further reports of Santa's plans.

As in years past Fennell Franckling will again perform a task for which he is now well-known, that of trimming the village Christmas tree, with the new lights furnished last year by the Woodstock Business Association. Since it has also been reported that this year's handsome blue spruce will be even larger than last, the Business Association will supply the additional lights necessary.

Walter Van Wagenen will be master of ceremonies of the Christmas Eve festivities, assisted by members of the clergy of this village.

As a part of the decorating program, it has been announced that the Parent-Teacher Association will be in charge of the decorating of the Woodstock school.

Episcopal Service

Nursery Will Hold Rummage Sale Dec. 1

Woodstock, Nov. 21—The Tinker Street Cooperative Nursery School will hold a rummage sale at the school, Saturday, Dec. 1, from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Anyone interested in contributing articles may bring them to the school Thursday and Friday afternoons, Nov. 29 and 30. Anyone wishing to have articles called for may call Mrs. William Stifler, Woodstock 2625, who will make arrangements for the collection.

The sale will include all kinds of articles, men's, women's and children's clothing, toys, books, household articles and furniture, and sports equipment such as iceskates and skis, sleds and other types of play articles.

Tricycle Needed

Woodstock, Nov. 21—Mrs. Kenneth Wilson has made an appeal for a tricycle or kiddie car in connection with the county welfare program. The vehicle has been requested by a three-year-old girl. Anyone who has such an article is requested to communicate with Mrs. Wilson.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Nov. 21 — Emmet Edwards, Jr., will arrive from New York today to spend Thanksgiving with his parents in Bearsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rapp and their children Judith and Atlee will spend Thanksgiving with her parents at Teaneck, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seinsoth returned today from New York where they spent three days purchasing Christmas gifts for their Little Things Shop on Mill Hill Road.

Ivan Black of this village and New York who was publicity director for the Art Film Festival held here last Labor Day weekend, appeared on television Channel 4, last Wednesday and Thursday, along with Ben Chapman of the festival in conjunction with the recent showing of the films at Hunter College in New York. Several of the prize-winning films were shown in part, during the television program and Geometry Lesson was shown in its entirety. Ben Grauer was emcee of the program and in the introduction stated that "Woodstock was one of the leading art colonies in this country."

Goshen Ex-Chief Dies

Goshen, Nov. 21 (AP)—Former Chief of Police Robert Bruce, known to thousands of harness racing followers, died today in Goshen Hospital after a short illness. Bruce had been a member of the Goshen police department for 38 years. He served as chief of the department for 25 of those years until his retirement two years ago. His wife, Grace, died last Nov. 4 at the age of 66

Typewriter Missing

Mrs. Morris Levine of 12 Hoffman street reported to the police yesterday that a portable typewriter valued at $100 was stolen. She had left the typewriter in front of her house to make a telephone call and when she returned it was gone, the report said.

Waterfront Crime Drive Planned

New York, Nov. 21 (AP) — The states of New York and New Jersey are teaming up for a drive against waterfront crime and racketeering in the port of New York.

Conferences have been held between Gov. Thomas E. Dewey and New Jersey Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll on launching the first concerted two-state cleanup along the piers.

Dewey ordered the New York State Crime Commission last night to make a "sweeping investigation" on a port-wide basis. Dewey said he wanted to root out "racketeering, organized crime and restrictive practices which have increasingly over the past 50 years hamstrung the port of New York."

He said he and Gov. Driscoll are engaged "in the process of working out a bi-state cooperative effort which will be announced when the time comes."

At Trenton, N. J., Driscoll said Dewey's order for a commission investigation was "good news," and he told of recent conferences with the New York governor.

Members of the New York Crime Commission and a number of New Jersey police and prosecuting officials have been included in interstate conferences.

The State Crime Commission, an investigatory body, does not have the power to indict or prosecute.

Might Be Ambassador

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Assistant Secretary of State George C. McGhee is reported under consideration as ambassador to Turkey. He now is in charge of Near East, South Asian and African affairs for the department. This was disclosed yesterday in the wake of President Truman's disclosure that George F. Kennan, former member of Secretary Acheson's policy planning board who is now on leave, is being considered for appointment as envoy to Russia. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk is reportedly anxious to retire.

Held as Arson Suspect

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—Police held a handsome young unemployed carpenter today after, they said, he admitted setting 15 fires in Brooklyn since April, 1948. The prisoner, Frederick Hess, 28, of (302 Central avenue) Brooklyn, will be arraigned in felony court on a charge of arson. Police quoted him as saying he got the urge to start a fire whenever he drank "too much sherry," and that "I set so many that I don't remember them all." Hess made a statement last night, police said, after day-long questioning.

Typhoon Hits Islands

Manila, Nov. 21 (AP)—A tropical typhoon swept a path of destruction through the central Philippines today. Planes were grounded, shipping disrupted and communications broken. The typhoon, with its torrential rains and 90 mile an hour winds, caused heavy damage to crops as it cut westward across Samar, Masbate and Romblon islands. A Weather Bureau forecast indicated the center of the typhoon would strike the southern tip of Minoro island, 170 miles south of Manila, and pass on into the China Sea.

Decision Is Reserved

Albany, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Court of Appeals has reserved decision on the pleas of three men sentenced to death in the holdup slaying of a magazine messenger. The three are Nathan Wissner, 39, of Brooklyn, and Harry A. Stein, 52, and Calman Cooper, 43, both of Manhattan. They were sentenced to die for shooting Andrew Petrini, 33, of Mount Kisco, in a truck robbery on the Readers Digest grounds April 3, 1950. Attorneys yesterday wound up two days of arguments before the state's highest tribunal.

Freedom Trainmen Arrive in U. S.

CzechSaysAcheson

tively as Mrs. Gertrude Sekaninova, head of the Czechoslovak delegation, called the west's proposals vague and complicated.

She was followed by Lester B. Pearson, Canada's minister of external affairs and chairman of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), who announced Canada's full support for the plan and defended NATO as a regional setup within the United Nations necessary until fears of Russia diminish.

Pearson's Argument

Pearson argued that the west had to negotiate through strength for peace until Russia's threats to peace were withdrawn.

Mrs. Sekaninova's statement reflected none of the laughter Vishinsky said he had for the western plan after it was first announced.

Instead she spoke at length and in measured tones of both the resolution and the statements that have accompanied it. Only once, toward the end of her statement, did she raise her voice—when she said the only thing the world wanted was immediate prohibition of atomic weapons as proposed by the Soviet Union, and that the aim of the Big Three plan was to continue the armaments race and western extension of bases around the world.

Statement Familiar One

Her statement was the familiar argument of Soviet critics.

The plan, she said, was vague because its proposal for disarmament by easy stages was not clearly defined and because the machinery needed for its census of weapons—including the atomic—and disarmament promised to be too complicated.

She recalled that, France's Robert Schuman in the general debates had called for an end to Soviet secrecy. She charged that the three-power resolution threatened to preserve secrecy about the most important things like atomic weapons.

"Any plan that does nothing to prohibit atomic weapons is unacceptable," she said. "No one should be misled by any words in the resolution or in the statements to believe this plan should be adopted to serve until a better one can be found.

"If they really wanted disarmament and prohibition of atomic weapons, they could refer to the proposals of the Soviet Union made in previous assemblies."

Acheson was not in the audience. He was conferring elsewhere in Paris with west German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Hungary, Romania

American inquiries were made concerning the whereabouts of the plane, whose pilot had radioed his base at Munich Monday afternoon that he had been fired upon by the border patrols of the two countries and had turned back westward.

No Damage Mentioned

The pilot's reports, as disclosed by the U. S. embassy in Belgrade, did not mention any damage from the shooting.

The plane, carrying a general cargo for the embassy here, was last reported somewhere north of Belgrade at dusk Monday, with its gasoline running low. It was attempting to retrace its route back to Udine, near Trieste, in the hope of refuelling there.

Yugoslav border guards reported seeing the plane Monday near both the Hungarian and Romanian borders, far off its scheduled route. Belief was expressed here that the pilot mistook the Drava river for the Sava river, which it was supposed to follow. The U. S. embassy here said the pilot probably realized he was off course when he was fired on, and then turned back westward.

100,000 American Casualty . . .

losses of over 16,000 make this undeclared war more costly in killed and wounded than all the wars, campaigns and expeditions which the leathernecks fought from the Revolution until the start of World War II.

The records show that proportionately fewer Americans have been reported missing in Korea than during World War II.

The ratio of those killed and dead of wounds likewise is lower than it was during the last war. About 12.5 per cent of the total U. S. casualties in Korea fall in the missing column. In World War II, the percentage was 18.5.

About 17 out of every 100 Americans who have appeared on Korean casualty lists were killed in action or died of their wounds. In World War II, which lasted nearly four years, the ratio was 21 out of every 100.

In 16 months of fighting in Korea, American combat losses have exceeded the 59,000 suffered from Pearl Harbor Day through the end of 1942 in the last conflict. It was not until well into 1943 that U. S. casualty totals in World War II reached the 100,000 mark.

The total for that year, which saw bitter fighting in the Southwest Pacific, in North Africa and at other spots around the world, was 91,000.

Reds Offer . . .

drawn after the agreement is signed."

He did not say whether he referred to the cease-fire line proposal now before the subcommittees or to the final armistice agreement. And UN delegates did not ask. They are expected to clarify this Thursday.

Both sides agree fighting will continue until a final armistice is reached. But to insure this, the UN command wants the agreement to say specifically troops will not be withdrawn from the proposed demilitarized area until all truce terms are settled.

Agrees in Principle

In submitting the Communist counterproposal, Lee said:

"We agree in principle to your proposal. However, we consider the form not proper or suitable for final agreement. Also, we hold different views with respect to certain details."

One of these details was the allied proposal for creating a "provisional military demarcation line." Lee said the agenda provided the "demilitarized zone must be determined, so we oppose all that is provisional."

After the UN command subcommittee had studied the Red plan for hours, Nuckols said:

"If the apparent ambiguities in the Communist proposal can be clarified and if the insertion of key words or phrases to obtain the clarification will be acceptable to the Communists, then we are well on the road to an agreement on the subdelegation level."

Phraseology of the two plans is entirely different. Nevertheless under either plan, the way would be opened for negotiation of other armistice clauses — supervision of the truce, exchange of prisoners, and recommendations to governments concerned on withdrawal of foreign troops.

GOP Cites . . .

Club the kind of a campaign he said it must make next year.

Forecasts 'Purchase'

He pictured it as a slugging battle against well-heeled Republicans who could be expected to put on a "dirty smear campaign."

The President forecast a Republican attempt to buy the presidency with excessive campaign spending, asserted that "misrepresentation can be expected to reach new heights" and said that if the GOP chooses to make foreign policy an issue it will be "overwhelmingly repudiated by the people."

"I do not expect the Democratic party to take that kind of attack lying down," he declared as listeners applauded.

"I do not expect my party to run away from a fight," he said, adding: "it never did and it never will."

The President left up in the air the question whether he will run again. But he seemed to indicate that if he doesn't, he fully expects to have the determining voice in naming the Democratic nominee.

Mrs. Truman, who had a lot to do with the presidential date for the banquet meeting, laughed with the crowd as the President said:

"I am not going to make any announcement about who the candidate will be, although I do have some ideas on the subject."

Mrs. Truman has reportedly urged the President to retire when his present term expires.

The President approached his 1948 "give 'em hell" campaign form as he virtually dared the Republicans to make an issue of foreign policy. He said some GOP members "want to play with dynamite" in that manner.

"But we can meet this issue if it comes," he declared. "This is a warning: If the Republicans do make foreign policy an issue in the campaign, it will be the best issue the Democratic party has. We can stand on our record in foreign policy and our achievements in the struggle for peace."

High scorer for Woodstock Jayvees was Joe Hilton with 11 points, and Carl Van Wagenen next with 5. For Hurley Bower made 23 points and Hickey 19.

Santa Writes His Arrival Plans

Woodstock, Nov. 21—A report has been received from a close friend of Santa Claus, a member of the Masonic Square Club which is again making plans to assure the jolly old gent of a hearty welcome, that he would like to assure all of the children of this village that he will arrive on schedule on the village green, Christmas Eve between 5 and 6 p. m. Santa's friend would also like to inform the children that from time to time he will bring further reports of Santa's plans.

As in years past Fennell Frankling will again perform a task for which he is now well-known, that of trimming the village Christmas tree, with the new lights furnished last year by the Woodstock Business Association. Since it has also been reported that this year's handsome blue spruce will be even larger than last, the Business Association will supply the additional lights necessary.

Walter Van Wagenen will be master of ceremonies of the Christmas Eve festivities, assisted by members of the clergy of this village.

As a part of the decorating program, it has been announced that the Parent-Teacher Association will be in charge of the decorating of the Woodstock school.

Episcopal Service

Nursery Will Hold Rummage Sale Dec. 1

Woodstock, Nov. 21—The Tinker Street Cooperative Nursery School will hold a rummage sale at the school, Saturday, Dec. 1, from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. Anyone interested in contributing articles may bring them to the school Thursday and Friday afternoons, Nov. 29 and 30. Anyone wishing to have articles called for may call Mrs. William Stifler, Woodstock 2625, who will make arrangements for the collection.

The sale will include all kinds of articles, men's, women's and children's clothing, toys, books, household articles and furniture, and sports equipment such as iceskates and skis, sleds and other types of play articles.

Tricycle Needed

Woodstock, Nov. 21—Mrs. Kenneth Wilson has made an appeal for a tricycle or kiddie car in connection with the county welfare program. The vehicle has been requested by a three-year-old girl. Anyone who has such an article is requested to communicate with Mrs. Wilson.

Village Notes

Woodstock, Nov. 21 — Emmet Edwards, Jr., will arrive from New York today to spend Thanksgiving with his parents in Bearsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rapp and their children Judith and Atlee will spend Thanksgiving with her parents at Teaneck, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seinsoth returned today from New York where they spent three days purchasing Christmas gifts for their Little Things Shop on Mill Hill Road.

Ivan Black of this village and New York who was publicity director for the Art Film Festival held here last Labor Day weekend, appeared on television Channel 4, last Wednesday and Thursday, along with Ben Chapman of the festival in conjunction with the recent showing of the films at Hunter College in New York. Several of the prize-winning films were shown in part, during the television program and Geometry Lesson was shown in its entirety. Ben Grauer was emcee of the program and in the introduction stated that "Woodstock was one of the leading art colonies in this country."

Goshen Ex-Chief Dies

Goshen, Nov. 21 (AP)—Former Chief of Police Robert Bruce, known to thousands of harness racing followers, died today in Goshen Hospital after a short illness. Bruce had been a member of the Goshen police department for 38 years. He served as chief of the department for 25 of those years until his retirement two years ago. His wife, Grace, died last Nov. 4 at the age of 66

Typewriter Missing

Mrs. Morris Levine of 12 Hoffman street reported to the police yesterday that a portable typewriter valued at $100 was stolen. She had left the typewriter in front of her house to make a telephone call and when she returned it was gone, the report said.

UNTHINKABLE BEHAVIOR

The following situation is one that I have never heard of before. A bride-to-be writes: "The invitations to my coming marriage were sent out with printed reply cards to insure an answer. Several unmarried people were invited and I have noticed in their replies that they are taking the liberty of bringing along a friend whom I do not even know. Limited to our own list the reception will be large enough. How can I tactfully say we cannot accommodate any extras?"

As already noted, I cannot imagine people taking so much upon themselves as to bring uninvited strangers with them. The only thing you could possibly do is to send brief notes to these people and say that you greatly regret your inability to include extra guests at your already overcrowded reception.

Please Don't

Dear Mrs. Post: My sisters and I are planning a silver wedding anniversary party for our parents. We would like to know if it would be permissible to enclose a note with the invitations suggesting a money gift. The guests no doubt will bring presents and since my mother has so much silver already, we thought they could use this money to buy something they really want.

Answer: Sorry! But your suggestion would certainly shock many people.

Parent Writes Teacher

Dear Mrs. Post: Every now and then I have to write a note to my son's teacher and am always confused as to how to sign my name. Is it Mrs. R. J. Smith, Mrs. Smith or Mary Smith? Also, do I close the note with Sincerely, or Gratefully?

Answer: You sign your name Mary Smith, and if necessary you put Mrs. R. J. Smith in parentheses underneath your signature. If you have special reason to be grateful for something that she has done for you, then you might close with Gratefully; otherwise Sincerely.

New Slacks: For the Trim

New York—(NEA)—The way that a girl looks in slacks depends, first, on her figure and second, on the slacks she chooses. It should, by now, be clear that some girls can't wear slacks, no matter how much they like them. But the girl who can wear them should shop for them carefully and watch for cut, for expert tailoring, for fabric that won't give.

Fortunately, there's a good choice of slacks that are flattering to the figure that's youthful, no matter what the age. This means slim and trim, without excess fat, with no bulges in the wrong places.

Both college girls and girls-with-a-paycheck are lovers of slacks. They look well in the country or on leisure time, are welcome changes from dressy clothes.

Light gray flannel slacks (left) by Pendleton are precisely tailored, beautifully cut. They are worn with jacket in gray and long-sleeved shirt in red. Both shirt and jacket have easy, open-throated collars.

Probation Group Has Meeting Here

A quarterly meeting of Area 3, Council of New York State Probation Administrators, was held in this city on Tuesday.

The meeting was devoted to roundtable discussion on the topics of custody of children in actions in Supreme Court, and public relations in probation work. Morning sessions were held at the court house, a luncheon and the afternoon session was held at the Kirkland Hotel.

In addition to the chief probation officers of the area, there were also present Edward J. Taylor, state director of probation; William T. Smith of Yonkers, probation examiner for this area; William H. Kossow, probation examiner for Westchester county; and Francis J. Murati, probation examiner for Albany.

The meeting was conducted by Miss Margaret Hathaway, probation officer of Columbia county, the area president. Edmund U. Burhans of Ulster county was host officer.

Counties in this area are Albany, Broome, Chenango, Columbia, Delaware, Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Otsego, Putnam, Rensselaer, Rockland, Schenectady, Schoharie, Sullivan and Ulster.

Hot Dogs, Bologna Prices to Increase

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The prices of hot dogs, bologna and some pork sausage will go up somewhere around two cents a pound, effective Monday, under new rules issued today by the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS).

OPS said new rules governing prices of fresh and semi-dry sausage containing beef—hot dogs and bologna for example—were revised to pass on to processors higher material costs.

An announcement said the increase will compensate processors for a hike in the permissible price for beef at wholesale which it ordered in mid-September.

Pork sausage packed in sheep casings also is covered by the order, reflecting what OPS said are higher costs for the casings.

Officials estimated the increase in both cases will average about two cents a pound at retail shops.

Child Health Clinic

A child health conference will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department Tuesday, Nov. 27, at the clinic rooms, 97 Broadway, from 10 a. m. until 12 noon.

"Christmas Tree"

From early November to the end of January, tables all over America are set with beloved CHRISTMAS TREE. Aglow with bright, Christmassy colorings, the naturally green trees are decorated just as real Christmas trees are, and laden with gifts. Wide green band on rim. For the festive holiday season a table set with CHRISTMAS TREE is something to be long remembered and nostalgically treasured. For home use, or as gifts, CHRISTMAS TREE is the most satisfying of all purchases. (Pattern No. P-947).

Probation Group Has Meeting Here

A quarterly meeting of Area 3, Council of New York State Probation Administrators, was held in this city on Tuesday.

The meeting was devoted to roundtable discussion on the topics of custody of children in actions in Supreme Court, and public relations in probation work. Morning sessions were held at the court house, a luncheon and the afternoon session was held at the Kirkland Hotel.

In addition to the chief probation officers of the area, there were also present Edward J. Taylor, state director of probation; William T. Smith of Yonkers, probation examiner for this area; William H. Kossow, probation examiner for Westchester county; and Francis J. Murati, probation examiner for Albany.

The meeting was conducted by Miss Margaret Hathaway, probation officer of Columbia county, the area president. Edmund U. Burhans of Ulster county was host officer.

Counties in this area are Albany, Broome, Chenango, Columbia, Delaware, Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Otsego, Putnam, Rensselaer, Rockland, Schenectady, Schoharie, Sullivan and Ulster.

Hot Dogs, Bologna Prices to Increase

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—The prices of hot dogs, bologna and some pork sausage will go up somewhere around two cents a pound, effective Monday, under new rules issued today by the Office of Price Stabilization (OPS).

OPS said new rules governing prices of fresh and semi-dry sausage containing beef—hot dogs and bologna for example—were revised to pass on to processors higher material costs.

An announcement said the increase will compensate processors for a hike in the permissible price for beef at wholesale which it ordered in mid-September.

Pork sausage packed in sheep casings also is covered by the order, reflecting what OPS said are higher costs for the casings.

Officials estimated the increase in both cases will average about two cents a pound at retail shops.

Child Health Clinic

A child health conference will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department Tuesday, Nov. 27, at the clinic rooms, 97 Broadway, from 10 a. m. until 12 noon.

U. S. Public Parks

"Christmas Tree"

From early November to the end of January, tables all over America are set with beloved CHRISTMAS TREE. Aglow with bright, Christmassy colorings, the naturally green trees are decorated just as real Christmas trees are, and laden with gifts. Wide green band on rim. For the festive holiday season a table set with CHRISTMAS TREE is something to be long remembered and nostalgically treasured. For home use, or as gifts, CHRISTMAS TREE is the most satisfying of all purchases. (Pattern No. P-947).

Goldbacks Lead 21-13 in Wins

Although Newburgh Free Academy holds a 21-13 edge with three ties, over Kingston High since the start of their football series in 1922, 20 of the victories were scored in the period from 1922 to 1945, inclusive.

Since Bill Burke took over at K.H.S., the Maroons have won eight out of nine decisions from the Goldbacks, with one tie.

Kingston won the first game of the series in 1922, with Newburgh squaring matters, 20-0, later in the season. The Maroons repeated in 1923, 6-0, before the Goldbacks launched a string of six straight wins.

The Maroons went scoreless from 1926 to 1929, inclusive.

From 1942 through 1945, inclusive, the Maroons were shut out six times in seven starts.

Then came Bill Burke and Kingston fortunes took a sharp upswing.

Underdog Kingston High and undefeated, once-scored-on Newburgh Free Academy clash for the 38th time since 1922 in the Thanksgiving Day DUSO League feature at Kingston's municipal stadium. A crowd of nearly 5,000 is expected to watch the Maroon try for an upset against the highly favored Goldbacks who have won six straight games and have yielded only six points—to Poughkeepsie—this season. The usual pre-Thanksgiving Day parade and pep meeting will be held tonight starting at 7 p. m. from the high school. The line of march will be over O'Reilly street to Foxhall avenue, thence to Ten Broeck avenue to Broadway, North Front street to the municipal stadium where there will be a bonfire and speeches. Kingston's hopes for the biggest upset in the DUSO since 1948 rests with the 15 young men above. In the left column, top to bottom, Frank Fiore, Jim Ferraro, Harry Craft and Al Kurdt; right column, John Barmann, Don Jones, Bob Engle and John Myers. Upper left above the turkey is line coach Bob DeFeis, and in the upper right is head coach Bill Burke, flanked by Chris Rienzo. Below Burke is halfback Pat Manfro. The quintet at the bottom under the figure are, left to right, Bruce Hinkley, Al Carpino, Charlie Tiano, Gene Massa and Don Murphy. Game time is 2 p. m. A victory for Newburgh would give the Goldbacks their 11th DUSO League pennant, while a loss would tie them with the Poughkeepsie Blues. (Freeman Photo.

Bill Kitsos Lehigh Captain

Bill Kitsos, an All-DUSO fullback with Coach Bill Burke's powerful 1948 Kingston High School football squad, has been elected captain of the 1952 Lehigh University team.

Kitsos was converted to a guard as a member of the Lehigh freshman squad and won a varsity berth in his sophomore year.

AP Selector Picks California

Harold Claassen, the brash young man who goes out on a limb for the Associated Press every week on football predictions, says California's resurgent Golden Bears will hand the Stanford Indians their first defeat of the season on Saturday.

His selections:

Tennessee over Kentucky. The Vols have the horses.

California over Stanford — The week's ring-tailed special.

Michigan State over Colorado —Nothing stops the Spartans.

Princeton over Dartmouth — Dick Kazmaier is all-everything.

Maryland over Washington & Lee—Simple as that.

Yale over Harvard — Tattered records, but it's still Yale-Harvard.

Illinois over Northwestern — Plane tickets for the Rose Bowl.

Other choices: Wisconsin over Minnesota; Purdue over Indiana; Rice over Texas Christian; Baylor over S.M.U.; Boston U. over Syracuse; Columbia over Brown; Cornel over Penn.; Fordham over N.Y.U.; Holy Cross over Temple; Pitt over Penn State; Rutgers over Colgate.

Bill Kitsos Lehigh Captain

Bill Kitsos, an All-DUSO fullback with Coach Bill Burke's powerful 1948 Kingston High School football squad, has been elected captain of the 1952 Lehigh University team.

Kitsos was converted to a guard as a member of the Lehigh freshman squad and won a varsity berth in his sophomore year.

AP Selector Picks California

Harold Claassen, the brash young man who goes out on a limb for the Associated Press every week on football predictions, says California's resurgent Golden Bears will hand the Stanford Indians their first defeat of the season on Saturday.

His selections:

Tennessee over Kentucky. The Vols have the horses.

California over Stanford — The week's ring-tailed special.

Michigan State over Colorado —Nothing stops the Spartans.

Princeton over Dartmouth — Dick Kazmaier is all-everything.

Maryland over Washington & Lee—Simple as that.

Yale over Harvard — Tattered records, but it's still Yale-Harvard.

Illinois over Northwestern — Plane tickets for the Rose Bowl.

Other choices: Wisconsin over Minnesota; Purdue over Indiana; Rice over Texas Christian; Baylor over S.M.U.; Boston U. over Syracuse; Columbia over Brown; Cornel over Penn.; Fordham over N.Y.U.; Holy Cross over Temple; Pitt over Penn State; Rutgers over Colgate.

All Star Cagers Rout Wiltwycks; Potters Roll On

That all-star quintet thrown together as a replacement team in the Y Autumn League is beginning to jell.

With Smith tossing in 29 points, they drubbed a veteran Wiltwyck Motor team, 80 to 48, last night on the Y boards.

Potter Brothers kept rolling with a 71-59 conquest of Jones Dairy in the companion piece.

Ronnie Scheffel contributed 18 points and sensational floor play to the All Star triumph. Red Murray and Joe Shattan scored a dozen each for the Motormen who trailed 23-5 at the quarter.

Big Jack Doyle sparked Potters' triumph over Jones with 23 points. The Potters gained a 20-10 edge in the first period widened the gap steadily in the next three periods. "Champ" Holstein and Irving Peck shared 32 markers for the losers. Schrader led the Dairymen with 21.

Ray Houghtaling and Bertha Schaller Lead Bowling Loops With 610 and 536

Ray Houghtaling and Bertha Schaller, a couple of veteran keglers who don't hit the headlines very often, made them last night with triples of 610 and 536 respectively.

Houghtaling socked 201-198-211 in the Central Rec, while Mrs. Schaller's 197-166-173 was top score in the strong Friendship circuit.

Emile Jordan threatened to make history in the Central Rec loop, reeling off nine straight strikes in his third game. He missed a spare in the tenth and wound up with 265, after scores of 147 and 136.

Bob Goldstein's 182-209-159-551 paced the Booster circuit; Al Sonnenberg led the Federation International with 182-153-156-491, and H. Ferguson pounded 184-166-189-539 in the Federation National.

Other league leaders were: Jean Fatum, 138-170-177-485, Hercules Women; and Jack Martin, 188-173-202-563, in the Silver Palace.

Rawding Raps 535

Dot Rawding was just a pin off the pace in the Friendship wtih 535. Lillian Buswell had 507; Kay Brodhead 492; Carrie Mohr 479; Pat "Chic" Pearson 202 high solo and 473; and Marge Van Alstyne 470.

Chez Emile's keglers, sparked by Emile Jordan's big 265 solo, set a new team single mark of 1006 in the Central Rec circuit. Floyd Crantek was runnerup with 232-587 and H. Engle shot 212-564.

Other good pinfall was credited to Ed Heins 548; Bill Lawrence 542; Cleon Robinson 541; F. Bruno 201-538; Allen Hoey 537; Frank Bonacci 203-531; Joe Bartsch 531; Joe Sangi 206-530; Bill Johnson 523; J. Provenzano 516; Carl Lundquist 512; Ronnie Mauro 511.

Trailing Bob Goldstein in the "500" department of the Booster League were: Al Hendricks 202-530; Don Keyser 530; Form Coughlin 201-522; Joe Quigley 521; Ed Steeger 512; Ed Wyant 503; Bob Tierney 500; R. Herrick posted 207-499; Roger Grossbohlin 498; Ray DuBois 496; Joe Fabiano 486 and Jim Howard 484.

Runerup to Jack Martin in the Silver Palace was Larry Jacobs with 221-555; Cosmos Costello pounded 219-550; Percy Slover 547; Joe Mannello 203-542; John Thompson 210-541; Herm Seelbach 227-540; E. Magnusson 537; Johnny Lowe 201-534; Pete Tatarzewski 532; John Frederick 204-524; Ross Ellis 519; Ralph Mayone 511; Willie Winslow 506; J. Sharot 506; Vince Noble 502 and Orv Van Alstyne 501.

Helen Buchholtz was runnerup with 463 in the Hercules Women. Sue Heins posted 449; Betty Macholdt 435; Louise Jordan 434 and Eileen Gaffney 422.

Howard Minard and D. Wood posted 508 and 505 respectively in the Federation National, with Stan Hankinson piling up 489; Ferd Short 478 and Ralph Halbert 450. In the International division, E. Safford rolled 455; J. Lavelle 453 and F. Mollenhauer 461.

Marge Bertram was out in front in the Business Girls League with a 118-146-148-412 series. M. Leach hit for 402. Others in the top five were P. Duffy 396; M. O'Donnell 395 and R. Marrelli 389.

Jim Rogers is a Man who Cares

His suit is a double-breasted, clear-finished worsted, tailored by Society Brand.

His tie is a handsome foulard, with figured pattern, smartly styled by Beau Brummell.

His drink is made with Carstairs, the choice of Men who Care for the best. He prefers its smooth, mellow taste, and finds it costs less than other fine whiskies.

The name Jim Rogers is not that of a specific person, but instead stands for a type —the Man who Cares.

Ray Houghtaling and Bertha Schaller Lead Bowling Loops With 610 and 536

Ray Houghtaling and Bertha Schaller, a couple of veteran keglers who don't hit the headlines very often, made them last night with triples of 610 and 536 respectively.

Houghtaling socked 201-198-211 in the Central Rec, while Mrs. Schaller's 197-166-173 was top score in the strong Friendship circuit.

Emile Jordan threatened to make history in the Central Rec loop, reeling off nine straight strikes in his third game. He missed a spare in the tenth and wound up with 265, after scores of 147 and 136.

Bob Goldstein's 182-209-159-551 paced the Booster circuit; Al Sonnenberg led the Federation International with 182-153-156-491, and H. Ferguson pounded 184-166-189-539 in the Federation National.

Other league leaders were: Jean Fatum, 138-170-177-485, Hercules Women; and Jack Martin, 188-173-202-563, in the Silver Palace.

Rawding Raps 535

Dot Rawding was just a pin off the pace in the Friendship wtih 535. Lillian Buswell had 507; Kay Brodhead 492; Carrie Mohr 479; Pat "Chic" Pearson 202 high solo and 473; and Marge Van Alstyne 470.

Chez Emile's keglers, sparked by Emile Jordan's big 265 solo, set a new team single mark of 1006 in the Central Rec circuit. Floyd Crantek was runnerup with 232-587 and H. Engle shot 212-564.

Other good pinfall was credited to Ed Heins 548; Bill Lawrence 542; Cleon Robinson 541; F. Bruno 201-538; Allen Hoey 537; Frank Bonacci 203-531; Joe Bartsch 531; Joe Sangi 206-530, Bill Johnson 523; J. Provenzano 516; Carl Lundquist 512; Ronnie Mauro 511.

Trailing Bob Goldstein in the "500" department of the Booster League were: Al Hendricks 202-530; Don Keyser 530; Form Coughlin 201-522; Joe Quigley 521; Ed Steeger 512; Ed Wyant 503; Bob Tierney 500; R. Herrick posted 207-499; Roger Grossbohlin 498; Ray DuBois 496; Joe Fabiano 486 and Jim Howard 484.

Runerup to Jack Martin in the Silver Palace was Larry Jacobs with 221-555; Cosmos Costello pounded 219-550; Percy Slover 547; Joe Mannello 203-542; John Thompson 210-541; Herm Seelbach 227-540; E. Magnusson 537; Johnny Lowe 201-534; Pete Tatarzewski 532; John Frederick 204-524; Ross Ellis 519; Ralph Mayone 511; Willie Winslow 506; J. Sharot 506; Vince Noble 502 and Orv Van Alstyne 501.

Helen Buchholtz was runnerup with 463 in the Hercules Women. Sue Heins posted 449; Betty Macholdt 435; Louise Jordan 434 and Eileen Gaffney 422.

Howard Minard and D. Wood posted 508 and 505 respectively in the Federation National, with Stan Hankinson piling up 489; Ferd Short 478 and Ralph Halbert 450. In the International division, E. Safford rolled 455; J. Lavelle 453 and F. Mollenhauer 461.

Marge Bertram was out in front in the Business Girls League with a 118-146-148-412 series. M. Leach hit for 402. Others in the top five were P. Duffy 396; M. O'Donnell 395 and R. Marrelli 389.

Jim Rogers is a Man who Cares

Everyone who knows Jim can tell he's a man who cares—for the very best:

His suit is a double-breasted, clear-finished worsted, tailored by Society Brand.

His tie is a handsome foulard, with figured pattern, smartly styled by Beau Brummell.

His drink is made with Carstairs, the choice of Men who Care for the best. He prefers its smooth, mellow taste, and finds it costs less than other fine whiskies.

His advice to you is try Carstairs yourself . . . tonight! You'll enjoy a better drink at a better price . . . so ask for it at your favorite bar or package store now!

The name Jim Rogers is not that of a specific person, but instead stands for a type —the Man who Cares.

Rehearse for Jewish Center Opening Skit

Korean War Brides Sail With Husbands

Tokyo, Nov. 21 (AP)—Eleven shy and excited Asiatic war wives left tonight for strange new homes in the United States with the American soldiers they married in war-battered Korea.

Ten are Korean nationals. The other is Chinese, born in Peiping but a resident of Seoul since 1946.

Korean-American babies accompanied three.

The 11 families left on a military air transport plane for a 36-hour flight via Honolulu to San Francisco.

The wives and their husbands had spent 12 awesome hours in this bustling city. They came from Korea by boat and train.

In Korea the wives left war, hardship and bitter memories. Some had been caught behind Communist lines in the war. One was jailed for a time as a spy.

The parents of one were killed in the fighting. The parents of another and the father of still another are missing.

Rescue Work Goes On

Milan, Italy, Nov. 21 (AP) — Rescue workers spurred efforts today to clear marooned towns and villages in the Po river delta before threatened new flood crests could roll down Italy's biggest river. Steady rains at the headwaters of the Po and along many of its tributaries in northern Italy increased fears of new dangers in the area, where 100 have lost their lives in the past week and thousands have been made homeless. Working around the clock, rescue teams, including British and American army units from Trieste, fought tricky currents and swirling debris to remove 8,500 persons from the town of Adria and nearby villages.

About 500 classes of products in 100,000 variations of sizes, shapes, and finishes, are produced by the steel industry.

Praises Firemen On Mobilization For Schenectady

Arthur Chipp, of Kerhonkson, county civil defense coordinator, told members of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association in High Falls last night, that their role in the recent Schenectady mobilization was commendably successful.

The firemen were guests of the High Falls fire department and also heard a report from Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy on the effectiveness of the mutual aid system in the defense mobilization. Chipp's report dealt with general details of the test.

Six pieces of fire equipment, a bus wrecker and station wagon from the county assisted in the upstate test.

Members of the Rockland county inter-county relations committee, headed by Samuel Shaw, 3rd, attended the session. These committees were formed recently for whatever joint action is found necessary on legislative questions.

Serving on the Ulster county committee are Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Harold Hyatt and Morton Finch, all of Kingston, and Jay Molyneaux, Hurley; Rodney DuBois, Connelly, and Leslie Fellows, Saugerties.

The meeting adjourned in respect to the memory of Virgil Gordon, of the Olive Fire Department, who died Nov. 7.

Great Britain has more than 150 houses said to be haunted.

Plans Are Approved

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Over labor members' objections, public and industry members of the Wage Stabilization Board have voted to permit some incentive pay plans, designed to provide added pay for increased output. A freeze on such plans has been in effect since Jan. 25. The board said any new plan, or revision of an old one, which involves a whole plant or industry must be approved by the board.

Late Ash Collections

Collection of ashes and rubbish in the city will be a day late for the balance of the week because of the holiday tomorrow, the office of the Board of Public Works announced today. City offices and departments will be closed for observance of Thanksgiving.

Rehearse for Jewish Center Opening Skit

Korean War Brides Sail With Husbands

Tokyo, Nov. 21 (AP)—Eleven shy and excited Asiatic war wives left tonight for strange new homes in the United States with the American soldiers they married in war-battered Korea.

Ten are Korean nationals. The other is Chinese, born in Peiping but a resident of Seoul since 1946.

Korean-American babies accompanied three.

The 11 families left on a military air transport plane for a 36-hour flight via Honolulu to San Francisco.

The wives and their husbands had spent 12 awesome hours in this bustling city. They came from Korea by boat and train.

In Korea the wives left war, hardship and bitter memories. Some had been caught behind Communist lines in the war. One was jailed for a time as a spy.

The parents of one were killed in the fighting. The parents of another and the father of still another are missing.

Rescue Work Goes On

Milan, Italy, Nov. 21 (AP) — Rescue workers spurred efforts today to clear marooned towns and villages in the Po river delta before threatened new flood crests could roll down Italy's biggest river. Steady rains at the headwaters of the Po and along many of its tributaries in northern Italy increased fears of new dangers in the area, where 100 have lost their lives in the past week and thousands have been made homeless. Working around the clock, rescue teams, including British and American army units from Trieste, fought tricky currents and swirling debris to remove 8,500 persons from the town of Adria and nearby villages.

About 500 classes of products in 100,000 variations of sizes, shapes, and finishes, are produced by the steel industry.

Praises Firemen On Mobilization For Schenectady

Arthur Chipp, of Kerhonkson, county civil defense coordinator, told members of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association in High Falls last night, that their role in the recent Schenectady mobilization was commendably successful.

The firemen were guests of the High Falls fire department and also heard a report from Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy on the effectiveness of the mutual aid system in the defense mobilization. Chipp's report dealt with general details of the test.

Six pieces of fire equipment, a bus wrecker and station wagon from the county assisted in the upstate test.

Serving on the Ulster county committee are Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, Harold Hyatt and Morton Finch, all of Kingston, and Jay Molyneaux, Hurley; Rodney DuBois, Connelly, and Leslie Fellows, Saugerties.

The meeting adjourned in respect to the memory of Virgil Gordon, of the Olive Fire Department, who died Nov. 7.

Great Britain has more than 150 houses said to be haunted.

Plans Are Approved

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—Over labor members' objections, public and industry members of the Wage Stabilization Board have voted to permit some incentive pay plans, designed to provide added pay for increased output. A freeze on such plans has been in effect since Jan. 25. The board said any new plan, or revision of an old one, which involves a whole plant or industry must be approved by the board.

Educator Advises Treating Children In Individual Way

Positive evidence that a child is meeting his problems of everyday life should allay fears of inadequacy on the part of parents, according to Dr. Dorothy T. Hayes, professor of early childhood education at New Paltz State Teachers College.

Dr. Hayes pointed out that parents may develop the wrong attitude through "prolific reading of current publications, adverse criticism, and the casual advice of friends or neighbors," in her talk this week before the discussion group of the Adult Education School in the new vocational building.

The group is made up of parents, teachers and youth leaders.

The next meeting is scheduled for November 26, it was announced by Dr. Ruth M. Northway, director of elementary education in Kingston schools, who presided as chairman. Discussion will be on the stages of growth and development of the intermediate age child.

Should Find Causes

Dr. Hayes urged parents to reassure themselves that they are doing a good job if they can observe clear-cut signs of normal, wholesome behavior among their children. "If these positive signs are not present, parents should study the underlying causes and set about to remedy them," she said.

Dr. Hayes, speaking from her wide experience as an educator and practically as a mother of six children, stressed the fact that each child is a distinct individual within himself. Therefore a parent should make allowances she said, for individual differences in child behavior by setting up a flexible standard of fundamental, ethical goals moving toward good citizenship and adulthood.

Many authentic educational studies on acceptable wholesome behavior of children point out one common fact: that such behavior stems from the home where there is mutual understanding, respect, and deep affection. Parents demonstrating genuine confidence and belief in their children build these same attributes within their children. Material things are basically unimportant in the child's world, his primal need is security based upon the faith and love of parents.

Physical Force Bad

Physical punishment, oftentimes used as a last resort or as an emotional outlet for parents, does not breed respect for adults or authority. Deep-seated fears and resentment in adulthood may result from physical force inflicted during childhood. The child's innate desire to please his parents leads him to conform to the code of society.

Parents should not deny natural feelings of jealousy among the members of the family group noted Dr. Hayes. A better relationship is fostered if such feelings are accepted by the parent. In this natural acceptance, such feelings are minimized; rather than hidden and intensified. Forms of jealousy in varying degrees are common to all family groups. Jealousy is only a cause for deep concern when over-emphasized by the non-understanding parent.

Parents should encourage children to honestly express their feelings about school concluded Dr. Hayes. The parent should avoid an over-critical attitude toward the school as this is reflected in the child's behavior. Personality conflicts between a child and a teacher are not uncommon. Cooperation between the home and the school often clears the situation.

Affection Important

In school relationships, the parents constant pressure upon the child for achievement may develop serious emotional difficulties. Parents are remonstrated to consider the "whole child" as each child differs in many aspects of physical, emotional, social, and educational development. Parents who have great affection and give wise, kindly guidance provide rich experiences for their children which ultimately lead to happy, well-adjusted adults in society.

Dr. Ruth M. Northway, director of elementary education, Kingston, presided as chairman for the evening's discussion. She announced that the next regular meeting of the group will be held at the new Vocational Building on Monday, November 26. The evening's topic for discussion will be the stages of growth and development of the intermediate age child.

New Trustees Are Named for Hospital

The appointment of three new members to the Kingston Hospital board of trustees was announced today.

The new members, which brings the board's total membership to 15 are the Rev. Frank L. Gollnick, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church; Attorney N. LeVan Haver and Cornelius S. Treadwell.

16 Persons Are Killed

New Delhi, India, Nov. 21 (AP)—Sixteen persons died today in the crash of an Indian airliner at Calcutta's Dum Dum Airport. The 17th person aboard was reported in a serious condition. The plane, operated by Deccan Airways, was completing a flight from New Delhi to Calcutta and crashed as it came in for a landing. The dead included Deshbandhu Gupta, managing editor of the Delhi Indian New Chronicle and president of the All-India Newspaper editors conference, and A. C. Hines, security officer of the British high commissioner's Calcutta office.

CC Will Elect Seven New Directors

The schedule for the election of seven directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce was arranged at a meeting Tuesday of the committee on elections. Clarence Buddenhagen, chairman of the committee, stated that nominating ballots would be mailed to all active members on December 5, and the election ballot will be mailed on December 27.

According to the by-laws Buddenhagen said, the committee is required to send a complete list of all members to each member eligible to vote with the nominating ballot. All ballots returned by Thursday, Dec. 20, will be counted by the committee. The 14 persons receiving the highest number of nominating ballots will be placed on the election ballot. The seven then receiving the highest number of votes will be declared elected as directors for a term of three years.

This year the terms of the following expire and consequently they are not eligible for election for at least one year: J. Ellis Briggs, James P. Byrne, Eugene B. Carey, Byron S. Chatham, Addison Jones, Victor H. Roth and Robert E. Teetsel.

The 14 directors remaining in office are (one year) Chester A. Baltz, Jr., Emil G. Boessneck, Pratt Boice, Joseph F. Deegan, Raymond W. Garraghan, Lawrence J. MacAvery and Henry Singer; and (two years) B. C. Anderson, L. V. Bogert, Edward M. Huben, Maynard Mizel, Lawrence A. Quilty, Elmer Rylance and George N. Shivery.

Members of the committee on elections are Chairman Buddenhagen, Dr. John A. Cooke, Jr., Hugh R. Elwyn, William A. Evans, Oscar J. Lawatsch, John I. Snyder, and George Svirsky.

Red Cross Stands Ready

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—If an agreement can be worked out with the Communists to send food and medicine to prisoners of war in Korea, the American Red Cross says it is ready with a program. The Red Cross announced yesterday that 5,000 food packages assembled by volunteers in Washington are at a west coast port, ready for shipment to Japan. It said 4,000 other special packages have been made available for prisoners who may be ill or undernourished. Arrangements relating to prisoners of war of both sides is on the agenda of the current armistice talks in Korea.

Funeral Held for Chief

Paw Paw, Mich., Nov. 21 (AP)—Funeral services will be held today for the chief of the Pottawatomi Indians. Chief Joseph Quigno was found dead behind the wheel of his truck near Hartford Monday. He was a grandson of Chief Simon Pokagon, a famous figure in the early history of southwestern Michigan. He was employed by the state highway department. Quigno's son, Joseph, Jr., becomes the new chief.

Dr. Jones Plans 18 Talks During Stay in Kingston

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, Protestant evangelist and missionary to India, will fill at least 18 speaking engagements in six days here next week.

Dr. Jones' busy schedule includes six evening sermons for the Protestant Union Preaching Mission, six radio talks and six other speaking engagements.

At 7:30 o'clock each evening, Sunday, Nov. 25 through Nov. 30, he will preach at St. James Methodist Church under the sponsorship of the Kingston Ministerial Associatoin representing 60 area churches.

He will also conduct Morning Devotions on WKNY at 8:20 a. m. daily, Monday through Friday, and from 1:30 until 2 p. m. Monday he will be interviewed by the Rev. Dr. Burton Tarr, Methodist district superintendent, and Dorothy Peterson on the same station.

To Speak at K.H.S.

Monday and Tuesday at 8:45 a. m., Dr. Jones will address student assemblies at Kingston High School. At 3 p. m. Tuesday, he will speak at a mass meeting of women at the First Baptist Church, sponsored by the Kingston Council of Church Women. The meeting is followed by a tea. Earlier the same day he will be guest at a ministers' luncheon at noon at the Redeemer Lutheran Church.

The Kingston Rotary Club will be host to Dr. Jones during its regular meeting Wednesday noon at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

Thursday Dr. Jones will journey to New Paltz where he will address an assembly of teachers and students at the State Teachers College.

A tentative date for Dr. Jones to speak in Saugerties on Friday is in the making.

Busy Schedules Common

Busy schedules are the usual thing for Dr. Jones, who is associated with the National Council of Churches of Christ in America. He regularly spends the first six months of each year in India as a missionary, and returns to this country the rest of the year to participate in preaching missions.

In 1947 he carried on a nationwide campaign without church sponsorship, addressing 84 audiences aggregating 100,000 persons in 30 days, visiting 30 different cities. In addition, he made 12 radio broadcasts.

He has found time to write 13 books and many articles for religious and secular publications. Among his best known titles: The Christ of the Indian Road, Abundant Living, and Christ's Alternative to Communism.

The Union Evening Services at St. James Church will have music provided by various local church choirs. Sunday the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer under Director Leonard Stine will provide the music. Other choirs to perform: Fair Street Reformed Church, Mrs. Madeline Wood, director, Monday evening; Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, Marlin E. Morrette, director, Tuesday; St. James Methodist Church, Dr. C. Franklin Pierce, director, Wednesday; First Dutch Church, Donald R. Romme, director, Thursday; First Church of the Nazarene quartet, Friday. Congregational singing each night will be led by Richard Talleur.

Tone Blames Neal

Los Angeles, Nov. 21 (AP)—What caused the ruin of his seven-week marriage to Barbara Payton, says Franchot Tone, was the reentry into her life of Tom Neal, her beautiful-bodied ex-suitor. "She wouldn't forget him," Tone told newsmen yesterday. They had several quarrels about Neal, he said. When Barbara informed him she planned to co-star in a movie with the handsome young actor, he decided he was through, Tone said. He filed suit for divorce yesterday, charging "extreme mental cruelty."

Busy Schedules Common

Busy schedules are the usual thing for Dr. Jones, who is associated with the National Council of Churches of Christ in America. He regularly spends the first six months of each year in India as a missionary, and returns to this country the rest of the year to participate in preaching missions.

In 1947 he carried on a nationwide campaign without church sponsorship, addressing 84 audiences aggregating 100,000 persons in 30 days, visiting 30 different cities. In addition, he made 12 radio broadcasts.

He has found time to write 13 books and many articles for religious and secular publications. Among his best known titles: The Christ of the Indian Road, Abundant Living, and Christ's Alternative to Communism.

The Union Evening Services at St. James Church will have music provided by various local church choirs. Sunday the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer under Director Leonard Stine will provide the music. Other choirs to perform: Fair Street Reformed Church, Mrs. Madeline Wood, director, Monday evening; Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, Marlin E. Morrette, director, Tuesday; St. James Methodist Church, Dr. C. Franklin Pierce, director, Wednesday; First Dutch Church, Donald R. Romme, director, Thursday; First Church of the Nazarene quartet, Friday. Congregational singing each night will be led by Richard Talleur.

Tone Blames Neal

Los Angeles, Nov. 21 (AP)—What caused the ruin of his seven-week marriage to Barbara Payton, says Franchot Tone, was the reentry into her life of Tom Neal, her beautiful-bodied ex-suitor. "She wouldn't forget him," Tone told newsmen yesterday. They had several quarrels about Neal, he said. When Barbara informed him she planned to co-star in a movie with the handsome young actor, he decided he was through, Tone said. He filed suit for divorce yesterday, charging "extreme mental cruelty."

The answers to everyday insurance problems

By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: If my store is burned out and I have a Business Interruption or Use and Occupancy policy, is it the responsibility of the Insurance Company to find me new premises and pay rent for same until my present location can be repaired?

ANSWER: The Insurance Company might have as much trouble as you would in finding suitable temporary quarters for you but if such could be found the Company normally would pay the rent till you could get back into your own building.

•If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE OR OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.

Driver Pulled Out of Overturned Auto

Boris Fertman, driver of the overturned automobile, is pulled out of his car after he lost control upon approaching the ramp to the Penn railroad in Philadelphia. The car hit an iron electric light pole, bounced back and overturned. Fertman was reported in serious condition with internal injuries. (AP Wirephoto.)

THANKSGIVING — AN AMERICAN INSTITUTION
Other countries have things to be thankful for, but only America dedicates the day to giving thanks for a harvest of blessings.
Let us keep the spirit of Thanksgiving in our hearts not only on Thanksgiving, but every day throughout the whole year.
